Questions to be answered are selected for their general interest and helpfulness.

Gold Star

Q. I have heard that mothers of servicemen killed in Vietnam can get gold star flags for their windows. Where can I obtain one of these flags? My son was killed three years ago. J.T., Carson.

A. Write to the Freedoms Foundation, Valley Forge, Penn., and they will send you a free gold star flag. You should include your son's name, branch of service and serial number.

Key Question

Q. Is there any way to clean ivory piano keys? The keys have turned yellow and dingy. R.B., Long Beach.

A. ACTION LINE talked with several piano technicians and they all agreed that the yellow color is a characteristic of aging ivory. One solution is to have the keys sanded and buffed. They recommended the buffing and sanding be done by a professional since special precautions must be taken to not sand the key too thin. The keys must be in good shape for the buffing technique to work. Robert D. Goldblatt, a Long Beach piano technician, can do the job for $25 to $30. He can be reached at 424-3503. If you remove the keys yourself, you can have them buffed for $16 at Pacific Piano Supply, 11323 Van Owen Blvd., North Hollywood. Another solution is to replace the ivory keys with plastic keys which retain their whiteness better than ivory. Most new pianos have plastic keys. Long Beach Piano, 2951 Long Beach Blvd., can replace the keys for $25 to $50 depending on the type of piano you have. All of the technicians warned against using any liquid cleaner because it can loosen the glue under the keys and damage the wood.

Courting Days

Q. I like to play handball. Can you tell me where there are courts in this area? R. B., Los Alamitos.

A. Many junior high schools in the Long Beach area have outdoor courts with a short frontwall and sloping sidewalls that are open to the public after school hours and on weekends. But if you're looking for something more professional, you might try the 10 courts at Long Beach City College, 4901 Carson St. They are also outdoor and unroofed, but have regulation walls and distances, and are open any time a class is not using them.

Action Line

ing them. California State College at Long Beach, 6101 E. Seventh St., has six regulation handball courts with half-rooms, open on weekends. Four indoor courts with wood floors are available to members and guests at the YMCA, 600 Long Beach Blvd. The Pacific Coast Club has one court for members at 850 E. Ocean Blvd. Long Beach Recreation Department maintains only one outdoor court — at Bayshore Park — at the present time.

Alley Way

Q. Who is responsible for weed clearance in unpaved alleys — the property owners or the city? We own a garage which opens on an alley. Is there any other way than by a petition signed by property owners to get an alley paved? We are the only ones who have a garage opening on the alley, and it would be unfair to ask neighbors to pay for the alley paving. F.H., Long Beach.

A. Property owners are responsible for clearing weeds in an unpaved alley, and the City of Long Beach has the option of notifying them to clean the alley themselves or have the city do it and bill them, said R.E. Kennedy director of the Public Service Department. Jess D. Gilkerson, city engineer, said you could arrange to have a private contractor pave the alley at your own expense, but the cost would be prohibitive — about 70 cents per square foot. Your best bet is to obtain a petition form from the Special Assessments Division of the City Engineer's office, 205 W. Broadway. If most of the owners of property abutting the alley sign it, the city will arrange for the alley to be paved. Each property owner will be assessed proportionately for the cost which can be paid over a period of 10 years.

The Apartment

Q. In the fall of 1968, the Long Beach Police Department rented a motel apartment on Lakewood Boulevard that had something to do with its helicopter training program. Are the taxpayers paying for this apartment? D.K.K., Lakewood.

A. The police department is not renting the apartment. According to Sgt. Robert Brizendine, head of the helicopter detail, the apartment is rented by World Associates, a private firm specializing in training police officers for helicopter duty. World Associates flight instructors stay there, and officers from many Southland departments — and from around the country — attend training sessions there, he said. The firm is one of the few in the nation specializing in such training. Long Beach police maintain three helicopters and a detail of seven men to operate them.

San Pedro Boat Still Being Held

By GEORGE LAINE
Staff Writer

The San Pedro-based ship Caribbean remained in Ecuadorian custody late Friday although five other vessels seized in a dispute over fishing rights were released.

Edward Silva, assistant to the director of the American Tunaboat Association, said the other tun-aboats were released following a skirmish earlier Friday.

The Caribbean, skippered by Frank Gargas, of San Pedro, is being held at the Galapagos Islands, he said.

The ATA official charged an Ecuadorian gunboat fired on one of the fishing craft before taking them into custody.

"I last heard from my husband by radio on June 15," Mrs Gargas said late Friday. "He spoke of a chase off Peru but seemed optimistic about the rest of the trip.

"I'm worried for him. I'm worried for my son, too. He's with his father."

The son — Steven Gargas, 16 — had been to sea on an earlier fishing trip with his father.

Reached at ATA's San Diego headquarters, Silva said the Caribbean was seized Wednesday morning by Ecuador naval forces "while she was 360 miles west of Ecuador."

Ecuador — like Peru, Chile and some other Latin American nations — normally claims only a 200-mile territorial water right. Silva said the Caribbean was about 185 miles from the Galapagos group, which Ecuador claims, and that could be the basis for the seizure.

"The ship's radio was sealed by the boarding party of the Ecuador navy," Silva said. "We have had no contact with the ship since Wednesday."

"The association has filed a protest with Ecuador but had received no response."

August Felando, executive director of the ATA, was in Washington and filed a separate protest with Ecuador officials there, Silva said.

"IT WAS probably due to his presence in Washington that the speedy release of the five seized vessels was accomplished," Silva said.

Democrats Call for Commitment on Troop Reduction

By JACK BELL

WASHINGTON (AP) — Senate Democrats pressed President Nixon Friday to make a firm commitment out of his expressed hope of pulling 100,000 American troops out of Vietnam this year.

At the same time they challenged Nixon's prediction that the Senate will approve the Safeguard antiballistic missile system in a vote scheduled late next month.

And Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana accused the President of "misrepresenting the intent" of a pending resolution which would put the Senate on record as calling for affirmative action by Congress before the chief executive makes any commitments which might involve fighting men.

Mansfield and his assistant Senate Democratic leader, Sen. Edward M. Kennedy of Massachusetts, told reporters they regard Nixon's remarks at a nationally broadcast news conference Thursday night as laying down a firm schedule for a substantial American pullout from Vietnam.

WHAT NIXON said then was that he hopes he can beat a timetable proposed by former Secretary of Defense Clark M. Clifford calling for withdrawal of 100,000 U.S. fighting men this year and all of them by the end of 1970.

Kennedy, regarded as a potential rival of Nixon in the 1972 presidential election, said he looks upon this as a definite commitment to do just that. He and Mansfield said they would support such a move.

Sen. Harold E. Hughes, D-Iowa, making his maiden speech in the Senate, urged Nixon to adopt the Clifford timetable of withdrawals. Hughes said "It could be made clear that this was not an immutable schedule into which the leadership would be frozen, but a declaration of solid intention that would clear the atmosphere."

10 Grape Growers Meet with Union

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Representatives of 10 major California grape growers met formally for the first time Friday with Cesar Chavez' United Farm Workers Organizing Committee, in an effort to settle a three-year strike and boycott.

Both sides said the negotiations will continue next week, but declined to specify when or where.

IN SEPARATE rooms, growers and union representatives worked on guidelines with federal mediators. Twice, both sides met jointly. All parties seemed to downplay any hopes of immediate settlement.

Both sides said the union would present evidence to the mediators that the union represents the majority of farm workers.

IT'S HIPPIES VS. PIGS IN UC PUT-ON

BERKELEY (AP) — Hippies masquerading as sheriff's deputies played "People's Park" supporters in a game of "political soccer" then attempted to haul 200 pounds of manure to the University of California Regents meeting here Friday.

They meant to "dramatize the fact that the park has been made a political football," said one pseudo deputy.

The contest, dubbed "hippie creeps vs. the pigs," featured high-kicking pom pom girls in flimsy black bras and tiny red skirts who led cheers for 75 players.

Later, a dozen Berkeley police turned the group back as it carried five sacks of fertilizer toward University Hall.

Board Overrules Hitch and Heyns

BERKELEY (AP)—University of California regents voted 16-7 Friday to build a parking lot and playing field on Berkeley's disputed "People's Park" land, with housing planned for the near future.

The vote, after about two hours of detailed and sometimes heated discussion, was supported by Gov. Ronald Reagan. The regents, at the same time, rejected alternative plans proposed by Berkeley Chancellor Roger W. Heyns and UC President Charles J. Hitch.

Heyns left the meeting before the final vote and would not answer reporters' questions. Earlier Heyns said that the parking lot proposal would be "one of the most serious mistakes we would make."

HE URGED that regents lease a portion of the disputed land to the City of Berkeley to develop a user-maintained park.

Reagan said, "This appears as nothing but a cop-out in this particular issue."

Regents not only rejected Heyns and Hitch's first proposal for a lease, but also rejected several alternative plans. Opponents of the successful plan said regents should back the university's administration.

The so-called "People's Park" was built by non-students, students and faculty on UC-owned land intended for playing fields. Violent demonstrations erupted last month when UC fenced off the park.

HEYNS ARGUED that an orderly user-developed park would show the majority of students who supported the plan that they could achieve results by working within the system.

Regent William K. Coblenz of San Francisco opposed the final action, saying, "All we're going to do is add more fuel to a very difficult, troublesome problem."

Regent Fred Dutton of Sausalito spoke vehemently against the board's action. He said, "What we have done is against self-help. It's against voluntary assistance. It's against what the students want. It's penalizing the whole community. It's a complete distortion of law and order."

The motion adopted called for building student housing — apartments for married and single students — on the land as soon as possible. UC officials estimate it would be one year to 18 months before anything could be built.

UC Berkeley was directed to build a temporary parking lot on part of the land and a temporary playing field on the rest to be used until construction.

It's Summer but Spring Lingers On

It might as well be spring, for all the difference in the weather this first weekend of newly-arrived (as of 6:55 this morning) summer.

Forecasters expect a continued pattern of cool, cloudy overcast night and morning hours with hazy afternoon sunshine through Monday.

Long Beach should have slightly muggy days, temperatures peaking in the mid or upper 70s, and near-dawn minimums of about 60 degrees.

Southland mountains will be mostly clear — highs in the 70s at resort levels — and the deserts hot, with strong winds in afternoon and evening hours.

Abernathy Jailed in Hospital March

CHARLESTON, S.C. (AP) — About 400 supporters of striking hospital workers tried to march Friday night although they did not have a parade permit, and threw bricks and bottles at police and National Guardsmen who tried to stop them.

Several persons were arrested, including the Rev. Ralph David Abernathy, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference.

3 South Gate Children Die as Auto Runs Out of Control

Three children were killed Friday in South Gate when a speeding car driven by a high school student struck one in a crosswalk and two others playing on the front lawn of a nearby home.

Dead are Wayne Pickersell, 4, of 1637 Cypress Ave., who was struck and hurled 250 feet while crossing Ardmore Avenue, Roger M. Huey, 7, of 3016 Ardmore, and his twin brother, Ronald.

James Roger Mauldin, 18, of Walnut Park, driver of the car, was booked at South Gate jail on suspicion of manslaughter. Neither he nor his brother, Dan, 16, a passenger in the car, were injured.

Police said James Mauldin, who, with his brother, attends South Gate High School, lost control of his car after it struck Pickersell at an estimated speed of 65 miles per hour. The auto then jumped a curb in front of 3016 Ardmore, struck the Huey brothers, who were playing on the front lawn of 3012 Ardmore, and crashed into a house at 3002 Ardmore.

All the children were dead on arrival at St. Francis Hospital, Lynwood.

Mauldin was freed on $2,500 bail Friday evening, and is scheduled to appear for arraignment on the manslaughter charge Wednesday in South Gate Municipal Court.

President, Pat Married 29 Years

Combined News Services

President and Mrs. Nixon will celebrate their 29th wedding anniversary today at a party planned by their daughters at Camp David, the presidential retreat in nearby Maryland. Prior to that, the Nixons, their daughters and son-in-law David will attend the wedding of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's daughter, Pamela. Mrs. Nixon was expected to get pearl earrings she suggested as an anniversary gift.

The President, then a young lawyer in Whittier, Calif., and the former Pat Ryan, a schoolteacher, were married on June 21, 1940, in a Quaker ceremony at Riverside, Calif. Nixon proposed on their first date after meeting his future wife when they both had roles in an amateur stage production. Mrs. Nixon has confided in the past that there have been no family fights and their married life has been harmonious. Mrs. Nixon returned Thursday to Washington after a three-day tour of volunteer projects to help the needy in Portland, Ore. and Los Angeles.

AGNEW WEDDING

Pamela Agnew, the oldest daughter of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, marries Robert DeHaven, an education specialist, today in Towson Presbyterian Church. President Nixon and his family are to attend the ceremony. The Nixons are the only persons invited from official Washington to the wedding. The President, Mrs. Nixon, Tricia Nixon and Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenhower will fly to Towson, a suburb of Baltimore.

FIRST WOMAN

For the first time in his administration, President Nixon selected a woman Friday to be an ambassador. His choice was Eileen Roberta Donovan, 54, who will be named ambassador to Barbados. Miss Donovan, of Scituate, Mass., has been in the career foreign service since 1948. Before that she was a high school teacher in Boston. She will succeed Ambassador Fredric R. Mann who resigned.

WON'T PLAY

Liberace, resplendent in a white Nehru jacket and aquamarine shirt with lace cuffs, appeared briefly before the state Senate Friday, but begged off when asked to play a piano rolled in especially for the occasion. About 50 Capitol secretaries who crowded into the chamber groaned in disappointment when the flamboyant entertainer smilingly declined.

He said his contract forbade such engagements.

ROYAL RITE

Former King Umberto of Italy arrived by private plane Friday to attend the wedding of his daughter, Princess Maria Gabriella. The Princess will be married today at noon to Robert de Balkany in a private chapel at the Chateau de Balsan near Nice.

MILLIONAIRE MURCHISON RITES TODAY

Clint Murchison Sr., 74, who made his first million at 32, died Friday in Athens, Texas. Murchison was among the world's richest men, with estimates of his worth ranging from $100 million to $500 million. For the past few years he had been in declining health. Murchison was once said to control 115 separate companies at one time. Services are scheduled for 4 p.m. today at the United Methodist Church in Athens. Burial will be in Athens City Cemetery. Among the survivors is a son, Clint Murchison Jr., owner of the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

AFTER THREATENING for two hours to jump from a 10-story building, a man was lured to safety with a can of cold beer. The man, Uixsses Allen, 28, had walked around the edge of the roof in 90-degree heat complaining, "I don't have any freedom." He had foiled a series of police moves to lure him to safety, but yielded to the beer offered by an acquaintance. He was taken to a hospital for examination.

CALHOUN DENIAL

Actor Rory Calhoun denied Friday that he had illicit relations with actress Betty Grable and 78 other women. Calhoun's estranged wife, actress Lita Baron, has accused him of adultery after he filed suit for divorce in January charging her with adultery. In Superior Court, the 46-year-old actor's attorney told the court, "Calhoun barely knows Miss Grable or any of these 78 or so unidentified 'Jane Does' named as co-respondents." The couple was married in 1948. They have two children. Neither Calhoun nor Miss Baron were in court.

NOMINATED

The Senate confirmed the nominations of Spencer J. Schelder of New York to be an assistant secretary of the Air Force and of J. Ronald Fox of Boxford, Mass., to be an assistant secretary of the Army.

WOMEN ADVISED

Mrs. Billy Graham gave women a little advice on marriage Friday. When getting married, she said, "pick a man you can adjust to easily." The wife of the evangelist, speaking to 2,500 members of the Christian Women's Clubs in N.Y., added that a good marriage needs "two good forgivers."

JET DESIGNER

German aircraft designer Siegfried Guenter, who helped develop the world's first jet plane, died Thursday of a heart attack in West Berlin, it was announced Friday in Munich. He was 69. Guenter with his brother Walter designed the first jet, the Heinkel 178. Guenter also designed the Heinkel 111 bomber of WWII and the Heinkel 100 and 119 which set international speed records before the war.

BEAUTY 'TIRED'

Marta Vasconcelos, the green-eyed Brazilian brunette who won last year's Miss Universe contest, said Friday she is tired of traveling around the world as a beauty queen. She announced she plans to marry her childhood sweetheart Monday and settle down in her home state, Bahia.

GOLDA ACCEPTS

Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir has accepted an invitation by President Nixon to visit Washington, possibly in July, the White House announced Friday.

NORMA TALMADGE'S SISTER DIES

Natalie Talmadge, 70, a silent screen star in the 1920s and one of the three glamorous Talmadge sisters, died Thursday night in Santa Monica Hospital. Miss Talmadge was married to the late screen comedian Buster Keaton. Their union ended in a stormy divorce with Miss Talmadge winning custody of their two sons. She appeared on the screen for a much briefer time and was not so famous as sisters Constance and Norma Talmadge, two of the greats of the silent era. Norma Talmadge was married to movie mogul Joseph Schenck, comedian George Jessel and Las Vegas physician Dr. Carvel James. Norma died in 1957. The third sister, Constance, survives.

U.S. Troops Crush Red Drive, Kill 90

Combined News Services
SAIGON — U.S. troops crushed an assault on an outpost near Tay Ninh Friday killing 90 North Vietnamese, bringing total communist losses to more than 500 in two days in and around the city. The Communists meantime sprang two new attacks near Khe Sanh. North Vietnamese troops charged U.S. infantrymen south of the abandoned Khe Sanh fortress but were beaten back with the loss of 25 dead, military spokesmen said. Two Americans died in the fighting. Later Friday, U.S. jets and helicopters killed 10 Communist soldiers three miles from Khe Sanh.

Thieu Plan to Include Reds

SAIGON Saturday — President Nguyen Van Thieu has presented his senior military supporters and cabinet members with proposals for elections in South Vietnam to include Communist representation in some form, informed sources said today.

Georges Pompidou Takes Office

PARIS — Georges Pompidou took office as president of France Friday and named Jacques Chaban-Delmas a premier. Pompidou acted after Premier Maurice Couve de Murville submitted his resignation in accordance with the constitution. Chaban-Delmas' appointment had been expected. He has been speaker of the French National Assembly. In ceremony at the Elysee Palace Pompidou was decorated with the symbol of the French presidency, the chain of Grand Master of the Legion of Honor. (Photo above).

Rhodesia: 'To Hell With Britain'

SALISBURY — Rhodesians voted Friday night to sever all ties with Britain and adopted a constitution which eliminates any possibility of a majority rule by the country's Africans in the foreseeable future. "That's the way, to hell with Britain!" shouted one man as voting results were posted. Another, beer bottle in hand exclaimed: "Good old Smithy, show them what we're made of!" Smith — rebel Premier Ian Smith — told newsmen early today that the victory was a "strong positive message."

Uruguayans Bomb GM Plant

MONTEVIDEO — Uruguayan terrorists set fire to the General Motors administration building, tried to burn down a U.S. cosmetics factory and attacked about 10 other businesses Friday on the eve of the arrival of New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller. U.S. Embassy authorities said the Rockefeller mission would arrive about 8 a.m. today for meetings with President Jorge Pacheco Areco and his advisers in Punta del Este.

Red Peace Demands 'Deplorable'

PARIS — U.S. sources at the Vietnam peace talks warned the Communists Friday that if they insist on calling for the overthrow of the present Saigon government elections to decide South Vietnam's political future will not get off the ground. The sources termed "deplorable" the latest Communist call for the removal of South Vietnamese President Nguyen Van Thieu, Vice President Nguyen Cao Ky and Premier Tran Van Huong.

Blasts Rip Walling Wall Area

JERUSALEM — Three explosions near the Walling Wall rocked Jerusalem Friday night as Jews flocked to the shrine for Sabbath prayers. Four persons, including two American tourists, were wounded. The explosions ripped a hole in a house and blocked Hashar Street, used by tourists to reach the Walling Wall, with rubble. One Arab and an Israeli soldier were slightly injured. Two American tourists, Marianne Freulach and Adriane Black, Pacific Palisades, were treated for shock.

Half Million Worth of Narcotics Seized

WASHINGTON — Federal narcotics agents Friday night seized 22 pounds of narcotics valued at half a million dollars and shut down a secret drug-making laboratory. The Justice Department said two persons were arrested in the raids in Mississippi and Maryland. John E. Ingersoll, director of the Bureau of Narcotics and Dangerous Drugs said the raid netted 22 pounds of methadone — a heroin substitute. Ingersoll said the seizure of the synthetic narcotic was the largest in history. Arrested by the narcotics agents were Dr. James L. Harper, 38, a Tupelo, Miss. chemist, and Oliver Joseph Johnson, 33, Baltimore, Md. Harper was arrested at his secret laboratory in Tupelo. According to Ingersoll, the laboratory was capable of producing 10 kilograms of methadone a month, with an estimated wholesale value of $100,000. The retail value was put at $500,000. Johnson was arrested at a motel in Laurel, Md.

Spain Extends Term of Bases

WASHINGTON — Declaring that "the era of foreign military bases has ended," Spain agreed Friday to a 15-month extension under which the U.S. maintains military bases in Spain. In exchange, Spain will receive $50 million worth of military equipment from the U.S. and a $35 million loan.

Bubonic Plague in Albuquerque

ALBUQUERQUE — An 18-year-old youth, a member of a small Yippee community northeast of Albuquerque, lay seriously ill in a city hospital Friday, while doctors searched for traces of the dreaded bubonic plague. Keith Pleasonton, one of about 30 persons living in Manera Nueva, has been the only member of the community to be affected. The county health officer, said if Pleasonton's disease is bubonic plague, there is "little danger" of an epidemic, and since the area is isolated, the situation was "controllable."

Air Controllers End Slowdown

WASHINGTON — Flying travelers on Friday and nothing to travel about except the usual weekend rush as the nation's air traffic cops regained their health en masse and sent airliners winging on schedule again. After a hectic Thursday when hundreds of flights were canceled and delays of one to three hours were the rule, traffic controllers ended a slowdown, enforce-the-rules-to-the-letter campaign aimed at dramatizing their demands for more help and more equipment.

Interest Conspiracy Denied

WASHINGTON — Two New York City bankers said Friday a cash squeeze, and not a conspiracy, last week sent the cost of borrowing money to the highest level in U.S. history. Alfred Brittain III, of Bankers Trust Co., and George S. Moore, of First National City Bank, told the House Banking Committee they acted independently on June 9 in within minutes boosting the prime lending rate from 7.5 per cent to 8.5 per cent. Committee chairman Wright Patman, D-Tex. charged a "conspiracy" among banks caused the rate increase.

Pot Blamed For Discharge Rate

WASHINGTON — A Navy medical officer says the number of discharges given to Marines and sailors because of drug abuse grew nearly fourfold in 1968, chiefly because of the use of marijuana by Marines in Vietnam. In testimony before a house appropriations subcommittee made public Friday, Vice Admiral G.M. Davis said the number of "administrative discharges" stemming from the use of drugs climbed from 611 in 1967 to 2,372 last year. Davis is chief of the Navy's Bureau of Medicine and Surgery.

PEOPLE IN THE NEWS

Combined News Services

President and Mrs. Nixon will celebrate their 29th wedding anniversary today at a party planned by their daughters at Camp David, the presidential retreat in nearby Maryland. Prior to that, the Nixons, their daughters and son-in-law David will attend the wedding of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew's daughter, Pamela. Mrs. Nixon was expected to get pearl earrings she suggested as an anniversary gift.

The President, then a young lawyer in Whittier, Calif., and the former Pat Ryan, a schoolteacher, were married on June 21, 1940, in a Quaker ceremony at Riverside, Calif. Nixon proposed on their first date after meeting his future wife when they both had roles in an amateur stage production. Mrs. Nixon has confided in the past that there have been no family fights and their married life has been harmonious. Mrs. Nixon returned Thursday to Washington after a three-day tour of volunteer projects to help the needy in Portland, Ore. and Los Angeles.

AGNEW WEDDING

Pamela Agnew, the oldest daughter of Vice President Spiro T. Agnew, marries Robert DeHaven, an education specialist, today in Towson Presbyterian Church. President Nixon and his family are to attend the ceremony. The Nixons are the only persons invited from official Washington to the wedding. The President, Mrs. Nixon, Tricia Nixon and Mr. and Mrs. David Eisenhower will fly to Towson, a suburb of Baltimore.

FIRST WOMAN

For the first time in his administration, President Nixon selected a woman Friday to be an ambassador. His choice was Eileen Roberta Donovan, 54, who will be named ambassador to Barbados. Miss Donovan, of Scituate, Mass., has been in the career foreign service since 1948. Before that she was a high school teacher in Boston. She will succeed Ambassador Fredrick R. Mann who resigned.

WON'T PLAY

Liberace, resplendent in a white Nehru jacket and aquamarine shirt with lace cuffs, appeared briefly before the state Senate Friday, but begged off when asked to play a piano rolled in especially for the occasion. About 50 Capitol secretaries who crowded into the chamber groaned in disappointment when the flamboyant entertainer smilingly declined.

ROYAL RITE

Former King Umberto of Italy arrived by private plane Friday to attend the wedding of his daughter, Princess Maria Gabriella. The Princess will be married today at noon to Robert de Balkany in a private chapel at the Chateau de Balsan near Nice.

MILLIONAIRE MURCHISON RITES TODAY

Clint Murchison Sr., 74, who made his first million at 32, died Friday in Athens, Texas. Murchison was among the world's richest men, with estimates of his worth ranging from $100 million to $500 million. For the past few years he had been in declining health. Murchison was once said to control 115 separate companies at one time. Services are scheduled for 4 p.m. today at the United Methodist Church in Athens. Burial will be in Athens City Cemetery. Among the survivors is a son, Clint Murchison Jr., owner of the Dallas Cowboys of the National Football League.

AFTER THREATENING for two hours to jump from a 10-story building, a man was lured to safety with a can of cold beer. The man, Ulisses Allen, 28, had walked around the edge of the roof in 90-degree heat complaining, "I don't have any freedom." He had foiled a series of police moves to lure him to safety, but yielded to the beer offered by an acquaintance. He was taken to a hospital for examination.

CALHOUN DENIAL

Actor Rory Calhoun denied Friday that he had illicit relations with actress Betty Grable and 78 other women. Calhoun's estranged wife, actress Lita Baron, has accused him of adultery after he filed suit for divorce in January charging her with adultery. In Superior Court, the 46-year-old actor's attorney told the court, "Calhoun barely knows Miss Grable or any of these 78 or so unidentified 'Jane Does' named as co-respondents." The couple was married in 1948. They have two children. Neither Calhoun nor Miss Baron were in court.

WOMEN ADVISED

Mrs. Billy Graham gave women a little advice on marriage Friday. When getting married, she said, "pick a man you can adjust to easily." The wife of the evangelist, speaking to 2,500 members of the Christian Women's Clubs in N.Y., added that a good marriage needs "two good forgivers."

JET DESIGNER

German aircraft designer Siegfried Guenter, who helped develop the world's first jet plane, died Thursday of a heart attack in West Berlin, it was announced Friday in Munich. He was 69. Guenter with his brother Walter designed the first jet, the Heinkel 178. Guenter also designed the Heinkel 111 bomber of WWII and the Heinkel 100 and 119 which set international speed records before the war.

NOMINATED

The Senate confirmed the nominations of Spencer J. Schiedler of New York to be an assistant secretary of the Air Force and of J. Ronald Fox of Boxford, Mass., to be an assistant secretary of the Army.

High Court Could Hurt Churches in Tax Ruling

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

If churches lose their traditional tax-free status, religious institutions in Los Angeles County could find themselves billed for more than $22 million a year.

Officials began unraveling the mathematical knots when the U.S. Supreme Court recently announced it is prepared to listen to arguments on the issue.

For, though the case developed in New York, it could affect churches everywhere.

The immediate reaction was that it could never happen.

"AS SOON as the churches start to holler," said one official, "the politicians will back off."

But of course, they would never have the chance.

County Counsel John Maharg said that, if the court finds tax exemption violates the Constitution, politicians will have to treat the churches like any other taxpayers.

"A ruling of this kind," Maharg said, "would not permit discretionary treatment."

What the officials would have to concern themselves with are questions of assessed property value and methods of tax collection.

County Assessor Philip Watson said the market value of churches, church schools, convents and other religious properties in 1968-69 in the county was $880 million. He does not have the figures yet for the 1969-70 fiscal year.

"SINCE WE assess at 25 per cent of market value," Watson said, "taxes would be based on a $220 million figure."

The $22 million in taxes was an estimate figured from the fact that the rate on property runs about $10 per $100 of assessed value. That includes payment for all imposts — county services, city services, flood control, etc.

The constitutional issue turns on the doctrine of separation of church and state, which is covered in the first article. It states, among other things, that Congress shall pass no law affecting freedom of religion.

The Supreme Court in the past has taken the position that freedom of religion includes the right to practice no religion at all. Consequently it outlawed prayer in the public schools.

ATTORNEYS believe the same principle could be applied to the church tax question. They say the court may rule that exemption requires people who do not practice any religion to pay for governmental services benefitting only the religious.

County Assessor Philip E. Watson said Friday that he will run for a third term in 1970. Watson, 44, is undergoing treatment for a minor heart ailment he incurred last September.

An indication of how the court may go lies in the mere fact that it agreed to listen to arguments in the case during its next session. The justices could have ruled against church taxation simply by refusing to hear them. Lower courts had all turned down the plaintiff's plea.

Watson developed his figures on religious property values in Los Angeles County by combining three kinds of filings for tax exemption.

Family Car Kills Inquisitive Boy

A little boy's first attempt to investigate the levers and gears in his mother's automobile ended in death Friday.

Neal Lew, 2, was playing in the family auto parked in the driveway of their home. Somehow the kid managed to release the brake and the auto rolled backwards down the driveway and into the street.

Neal became panic stricken and tried to jump clear of the car but instead he fell under the wheels.

CONSPIRACY CHARGED

Ridder, Freedom Newspapers Sued

An antitrust suit seeking $24 million in damages from Ridder Publications, Inc., and Freedom Newspapers, Inc., was filed Friday in U.S. District Court in Los Angeles by the publishers of a Fullerton newspaper.

The suit, filed by the Fullerton Publishing Company against the firm that published the Independent, Press-Telegram and a separate newspaper chain owned by R. C. Hoiles, also seeks injunction against "unfair advertising practices" and a jury trial.

Publishers of the Fullerton News Tribune, in their suit, charged the two newspaper groups have conspired to eliminate competition and to monopolize news dissemination and advertising in Orange County, particularly in the Fullerton area.

THE FULLERTON firm also charged the two newspaper corporations are "allowing the satellite and throwaway newspapers (owned by them) to operate at substantial losses, subsidizing them through the larger newspapers" (owned by the parent firms).

Filed under the provisions of the Sherman and Clayton anti-trust acts, the suit stated that as a result of these practices, the Fullerton firm has suffered a loss in advertising revenue of $200,000 a year for the past four years. The suit seeks treble monetary damages.

Since 1962, the complaint stated, nine independent Orange County newspapers either have become the property of the Freedom or Ridder groups, or have been purchased by them and discontinued entirely.

THE SUIT stated the Daily News Tribune is the oldest and only independently-owned newspaper remaining in Orange County.

John F. McKenna Jr., attorney for the Fullerton company, said he isn't certain when the suit will come to trial, but that it could be a number of months before it is put before a jury.

Marines Hit the Beaches at Pendleton

By BUCK LANIER
Military Editor

Seven stars twinkled on Camp Pendleton's White Beach Friday and they like what they saw.

It was "Bell Call," the largest Navy-Marine amphibious operation in 18 months. Gen. Leonard F. Chapman Jr., commandant of the Marine Corps, and VAdm. J. Victor Smith, commander Pacific Amphibious forces, were the "stars."

"The real hard working stars are the 35 ships, air wing and the more than 1,000 Marines, taking part," Adm. Smith said.

The Long Beach-based amphibious assault carrier USS Princeton sent in 14 waves of helicopters a half-hour before the assault boats and amphibious vehicles hit the beach through a mild, two-foot surf.

Prior to the landing, the task force made several diversionary moves at the "enemy" on the beach — one an assault boat transfer and another a prepping of the beach by gunfire units.

RAdm. Edwin M. Rosenberg, Amphibious Group 3 boss, was in charge of the Navy phase. Brig. Gen. Herman Poggenmeyer Jr. was troop exercise coordinator.

He said church exemption was requested in 1968 for buildings worth $560 million on the real estate market at that time. For religious schools and other school properties the total was $252 million. Then there were applications for so-called welfare exemptions, which covers a variety of kinds of church properties.

TO BE REQUIRED to pay taxes on these things obviously would work a hardship on many churches. It would make things particularly difficult for parochial schools.

Whether the U.S. Supreme Court would take such things into consideration is problematical. It has tended in recent years to take a legalistic line. It did so in reversing earlier court rulings on school integration, voting laws, criminal confessions and many other issues.

Still, county attorneys thought things might change. Some said the churches have to remain free of taxation on their non-profit-making properties may lie in new appointments to the court by President Nixon.

Things the churches make profits on are taxed now.

Church May Buy Melodyland

Anaheim's Melodyland Theater still may be converted into a church, if a new, $1.1-million offer for the structure is accepted July 9 in Santa Ana Bankruptcy Court.

The Christian Center Church of Anaheim, which has been trying to buy the theater, made the new offer Friday in an effort to close the deal.

Negotiations for the big theater have been going on since April, according to Rev. Ralph Wilkerson, who told newsmen the church's new offer does not include a lease on the Celebrity Lounge, a restaurant and bar adjacent to the theater — in the round which stands opposite Disneyland in Anaheim.

The church's first bid was $1.2 million for the theater, the restaurant-bar and the nine acres of property on Freedman Way.

Sealy Yates, attorney for the 3,000-member church at 1420 Candlewood St., said he will ask approval of the offer by petition to Bankruptcy Court, handling affairs for Melodyland developer Leo Freedman.

He said Freedman has approved the sale, but it is contingent upon obtaining a release from Sammy

Lewis and Danny Dare, producers of theatre-in-the-round shows whose lease has 24 years more to run.

They said they would not sell and will continue to present shows at Melodyland.

Sealy said the Bankruptcy

Court will consider the purchase offer July 9, and if approved, the escrow would close Aug. 9, he said.

Release of Tuna Boats May Open Channel for Talks

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Prompt release of five California tuna boats seized by the Ecuadorian navy Friday gave rise here to hope for an early conference on the Latin nation's troublesome territorial claims.

The five craft were released without paying the usual fines or even the fees asked by Ecuador, and a State Department source said this indicates a willingness on the part of the nation to engage in talks on the 200-mile seaward limits claimed by it, Peru and Chile.

The feeling was buttressed in a statement to the Independent Press-Telegram by Ecuadorian Ambassador Carlos Mantilla-Ortega.

HE SAID, "The way that the situation apparently has been handled (by Ecuador) gives rise to hopes that the problem may be settled early."

The U.S. has been seeking a conference with the Latin nations for months on the issue. Chile has expressed willingness, but U.S. Sen. George Murphy will fly to San Diego Monday to visit the crews of tuna boats, going aboard a number of boats in the tuna fleet to discuss their need for protection while fishing in South American water, it was announced from his office Friday.

Peru and Ecuador have vacillated.

Observers here said the seizure of the five craft may have represented a showdown between the Ecuadorian central government and its navy.

The navy, which gets most of the proceeds of the fines usually levied against seized vessels, apparently was ordered by Quito to release them even before they were escorted into Guayaquil. The five were being taken to port when the release order was flashed, reports here said.

Mantilla-Ortega denied reports any of the craft had been fired upon, although he said there may have been a warning shot.

THE INCIDENT prompted Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., to again urge President Nixon to send armed protection to U.S. tuna boats operating off the three nations.

But, after seeing the President at the White House, Murphy reported only that he expressed "great concern" over the incident.

Four months ago the Peruvian navy captured several American vessels after damaging one with machine-gun fire. These were required to pay fines and fees, for which they are reimbursed by the U.S. government.

The U.S. and most maritime nations recognize only a 12-mile seaward limit for fishing.

Anderson Urges Action on Seizures

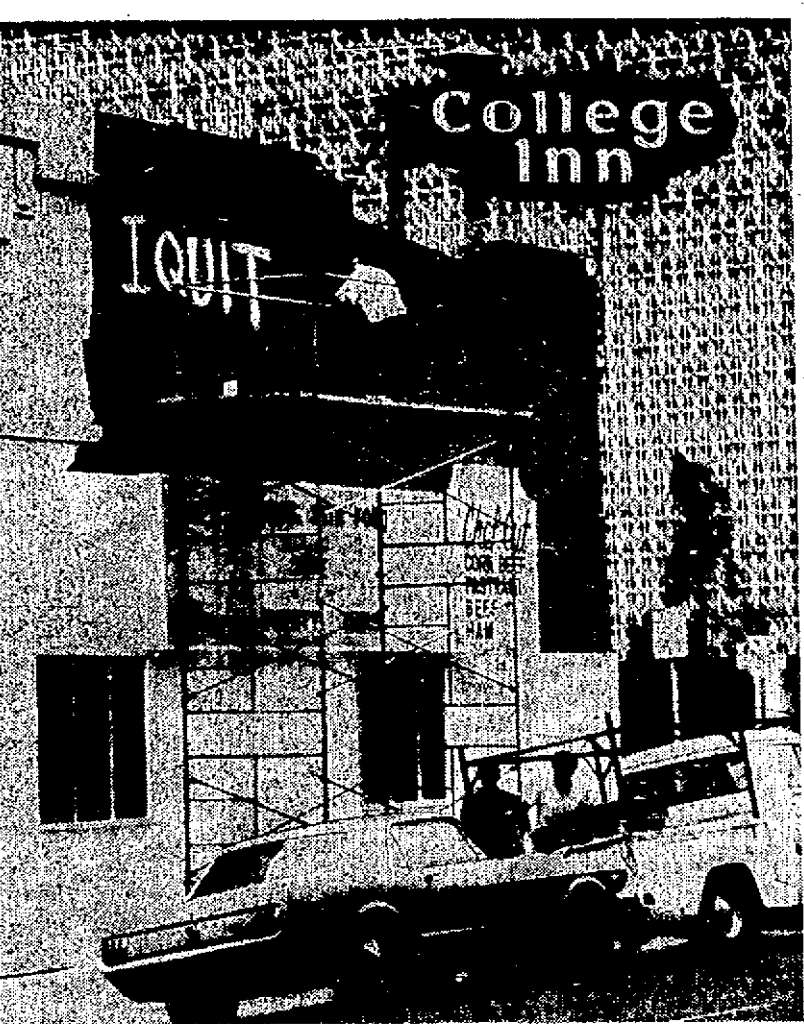

Congressman Glenn M. Anderson of the 17th Congressional District said Friday he had sent a strongly worded telegram to President Richard M. Nixon protesting the seizure of U.S. fishing boats by Ecuador.

His telegram said "the continued harassment of American commercial fishermen must cease. If our State Department cannot resolve this problem through diplomatic action then the President must provide protection to these vessels while they are performing legitimate fishing activities. Our fishing interests have a right to expect immediate action on this matter."

Apollo 11 Crew Practices Moon Blastoff and Linkup

CAPE KENNEDY, Fla. (AP) — Apollo 11 astronauts Friday practiced blasting off from the moon as scientists planted sensors in five pigtail monkeys for a 30-day earth orbit flight that could ease man's way to the planets.

Making like they were already on the moon, astronauts Neil A. Armstrong and Edwin E. Aldrin Jr. worked in a trainer spacecraft rehearsing the final three hours leading up to their launch from the lunar surface.

Teaming up with Mission Control in Houston, Tex., and Apollo 11 copilot Michael Collins, alone in a command ship trainer, the astronauts then simulated their do-or-die rendezvous in moon orbit. Meanwhile, scientists began implanting medical sensors in five pigtail monkeys — one of which will be selected to rocket into earth orbit June 28 for the most extensive study yet of the effect of weightlessness on a man-like mammal.

The fun-loving primates, each weighing about 14 pounds, were wired with painless probes and sensors to monitor brain waves, heart, respiration and blood circulation.

The experiment, called Biosatellite 3, calls for the monkey to circle the globe for 30 days to help researchers understand medical problems humans might encounter in earth-orbiting space stations and on long-duration voyages to the planets.

Three of the five monkeys will be eliminated as flight candidates early next week. The one to blast off will be selected just 15 hours from the launch on June 28.

At the Apollo 11 launch pad, crews Friday continued preparations toward a July 16 start on the historic moon landing adventure. Fuels were loaded aboard the command ship, lunar module landing craft and the third stage of Apollo 11's towering Saturn 5 booster rocket.

BOTH SIDES said no deals were made in advance of the negotiations. Sen. George Murphy, R-Calif., has said the Federal Mediation Service should investigate possible collusion in the willingness of the union and the 10 growers to discuss a possible settlement.

The growers involved in the talks produce about 10 per cent of the state's table grapes. The majority of the growers, however, have reiterated their determination to stand firm against UFWOC and have indicated they regard the mediation session as a "sell-out" after years of presenting a united front against Chavez.

The growers who agreed to negotiations said the worldwide boycott of California table grapes had hurt them and that their grapes were now being sold below production costs.

But Sen. Hugh Scott of Pennsylvania, acting Senate GOP leader, said this criticism of a Democrat by the President was "quite proper."

"What the President said, in effect, was that we are doing what they could not, or didn't do," Scott said. "The only answer of the critics now is that we ought to be doing it faster. We are doing it faster and better than it was done before. Hind-sight is Washington's cheapest commodity."

SCOTT backed Nixon's estimate that the administration has 50 or 51 votes assured in the 100-member Senate for approval of the President's decision to deploy two antiballistic missile installations.

Mansfield disputed this, saying the outcome "remains to be decided."

"At the moment, on the basis of the accounts available to me, opponents of the ABM have a majority," Mansfield said. However, he repeated his earlier statement that if the administration put on pressure it could win by from one to three votes.

Hayakawa Replies to Foes on Faculty

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — Dr. S. I. Hayakawa, acting president of San Francisco State College, wrote himself a letter of reprimand Friday in compliance with the verdict of a faculty committee which found him guilty of unprofessional conduct.

The spunky semantics professor, who has made himself popular with many citizens but unpopular with many on the college faculty, suggested to himself he should resign.

Afterwards he told newsmen he probably would follow the recommendation. He said he will resign as acting president when he is named permanent head of the college.

HAYAKAWA'S tongue-in-cheek letter to himself was aimed at pointing out what he considers the inconsistencies and absurdities of his faculty opponents.

The Faculty Discipline Committee which heard charges against him found him guilty of unprofessional conduct. They said he acted unprofessionally by taking the job of acting president in the first place.

"It is my painful duty," he said in the letter to himself, "to inform you that the grievance and disciplinary panel has found you guilty of unprofessional conduct."

"I am therefore compelled to write you this letter of reprimand, much as it grieves me to do so in the light of your many years of service to this college."

Train Slams Auto, Nine Children Die

VIENNA, Ga. (AP) — Ten persons — nine of them children — were killed Friday when a freight train smashed broadside into their car and scattered bodies "up and down the track for three-quarters of a mile," officers said.

"It's the worst thing I've ever seen," said Douglas County Sheriff H. C. Johnson two hours after the collision occurred at a seldom-used crossing marked only by a routine sign.

"I'm not settled down yet," he said. "Seeing all those kids scattered along the track really got to me."

Twelve persons were in the car. Two survived and were reported in critical condition at a hospital in Cordele, nine miles south of this rural south Georgia community.

HOSPITAL administrator Billy J. Parker identified the survivors as Anne Mae Lowe, 42, and her daughter, Audrey Faye, about 6, both of Vienna.

Johnson said the dead included two of Mrs. Lowe's children; her sister Mrs. Eulah Pitts, about 24, and her child from Miami, Fla., and six children of a third sister, Mrs. Mary Lewis of Vienna.

"They were out just riding around," the sheriff said. Johnson quoted the train engineer, whom he did not identify, as saying he first saw the car approaching the tracks when the train was about two-tenths of a mile from the crossing.

"He said the car pulled onto the track and stopped and he started blowing his whistle," the sheriff said. "Then he said he started blowing his emergency whistle and locked his brakes at about one-tenth of a mile."

Multicolored Subway

MEXICO CITY (AP) — This city's new subway system will have bright orange cars and stations painted a spectrum of colors, including yellow, blue, gray, mauve, red, magenta and shades of white.

"The train consisted of two engine units and eight empty boxcars," Johnson continued. "He had no braking power with that light a load."

Pair Jailed for Campus Disorder

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Two San Francisco State College demonstrators were sentenced Friday to a year in jail each — the longest sentences thus far in the series of trials.

Municipal Court Judge Fitzgerald Ames returned the sentenced against non student Larry L. Larson, 28, whom he called a "dedicated revolutionist," and Susan Bethel, 25, a student.

BOTH WERE convicted Thursday by a jury on charges of unlawful assembly, disturbing the peace and refusal to disperse during Jan. 23 campus disorders.

Ames said Larson "is not a starchy-eyed individual but by his own admission is a dedicated revolutionist."

"The court cannot allow this opportunity to pass without expressing amazement that a person born and raised here could turn on his benefactors with such obvious scorn and hatred."

"YOU'RE scared," reported Larson, who says he is a member of the Progressive Labor Party.

"You're scared because you and I are diametrically opposed. The only way it will be resolved is when one of us is dead," said Larson, who acted as his own attorney.

"IF YOU HAD had any decent regard for correct procedure," his letter said, "you would have consulted with and awaited the approval of all concerned parties, not only the presidential selection committee, but also the Academic Senate, Students for a Democratic Society, Black Students Union, Third World Liberation Front, the American Federation of Teachers and the Alpine Club."

"Your failure to consult all those concerned shows on your part a shocking willingness to be governed by the education code of the state of California instead of by existing faculty traditions. Why, you didn't even consult your wife!"

Hayakawa referred to the sound truck incident on the campus during the height of the student disturbances.

"What you should have done is first to establish clearly that you had the legal right to forbid use of amplifying equipment on college property, and secondly that the truck was actually on college property."

"THESE FACTS could easily have been ascertained by consultation with the office of the attorney general of California, the legal counsel of the California State Colleges and the superintendent of buildings and grounds. If these inquiries had shown you to be right in your assumptions, you could then have gone to the Academic Senate to secure their approval of your order. Then, if your order had not been heeded, you should have gone to court to obtain an injunction against the operators of the sound truck from using it on campus."

"By omitting these steps, you have shown a disdain for administrative procedure that is unacceptable to a college president."

"If you had any sense," he wrote to himself, "you'd quit this minute."

Release of Tuna Boats May Open Channel for Talks

By BAXTER OMOHUNDRO
From Our National Bureau

WASHINGTON — Prompt release of five California tuna boats seized by the Ecuadorian navy Friday gave rise here to hope for an early conference on the Latin nation's troublesome territorial claims.

The five craft were released without paying the usual fines or even the fees asked by Ecuador, and a State Department source said this indicates a willingness on the part of the nation to engage in talks on the 200-mile seaward limits claimed by it, Peru and Chile.

The feeling was buttressed in a statement to the Independent, Press-Telegram by Ecuadorian Ambassador Carlos Mantilla-Ortega.

aboats are plying Pacific waters in search of schools of tuna. The five vessels boarded by the Ecuador navy were released on orders from the Ecuador government before they could be brought into the nearest Ecuadorian port, Guayaquil.

"About seven other boats in the fleet trailed the seized boats in what Silva described as "a protest of the seizure."

"Except for the Caribbean, the situation now appears normal," he said. "When any of our boats are seized or molested we are always fearful."

tion begins. The UC administration also would be authorized to study long-range plans to develop the area south of the Berkeley campus, scene of recent troubles involving many so-called "street people."

The one abstention in the vote was from Assembly Speaker T. Monagan, R-Tracy, an ex-officio regent.

MONAGAN said, "We're failing the administration as a board of regents by not telling them what we want done with the property."

At a news conference later Reagan was asked if he expected that Friday's action would lead to more trouble at Berkeley.

The governor, referring to the so-called "street people" who allegedly created the park dispute, said:

"There's no way to avoid giving them the excuse to cause more disorder."

Reagan also said that a Berkeley campus student vote which supported the "People's Park" may not have fully represented student opinion. He said he had heard reports that some students voted more than once.

CHARLES PALMER, outgoing UC student body president, strongly criticized the regents' action, saying, "The bulk of students on this campus go by the American tradition."

He said the regents vote on the park issue was denying the right of people to participate in their own affairs.

Of Reagan, Palmer said, "I have a feeling the governor is more in a position as the king of England was prior to the Revolutionary War."

"We don't anticipate any trouble," said Berkeley Police Lt. Ralph Schilling when asked about possible reaction to the regents' decision.

The U.S. has been seeking a conference with the Latin nations for months on the issue. Chile has expressed willingness, but

Air Hijacker Identified as Shootout Panther

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI Friday identified the hijacker of an airliner earlier this week as an Oakland man free on bail in a shootout between Black Panthers and police last November.

A charge of aircraft piracy was filed against William Lee Brent, 39, in Las Vegas. He was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon aboard an airliner.

The FBI said the charge was filed in Las Vegas because it was over Nevada that the hijacker seized control of the TWA transcontinental jet bound from Oakland to New York with 79 passengers aboard.

The plane landed in Havana and returned later to New York with all the passengers except the hijacker.

Brent was due in court Monday on armed robbery charges.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Three men and a woman hijacked a twin-engine C47 of the Colombian airline Urraca Friday and ordered it flown to Cuba. They permitted the plane to land on the Colombian coast to discharge 25 other passengers and take on fuel before flying across the Caribbean.

Bery charges and charges of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the Nov. 19 shootout in San Francisco. He was free on $50,000 bond in the case.

A group of Negroes became involved in a gun battle with police following a service station hold-up. The suspects were in a panel truck bearing a sign identifying it as a distribution vehicle for the Black Panther newspaper.

The FBI did not disclose how it identified Brent as the hijacker.

If he is returned from Cuba, Brent faces charges of air piracy with a penalty up to 20 years imprisonment. The charges of carrying a concealed weapon aboard an aircraft carry a $1,000 fine and a year in prison.

Three policemen were gunned down in the shootout with the Panthers near the San Francisco Hall of Justice. Eight Negroes were arrested as scores of police came to the aid of their fellow officers.

The suspects were all charged with robbery and assault. Later the Black Panther Party announced a purge to rid itself of criminals, and repudiated the group involved in the shootout.

GOP Boss Loses Bid for Power

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate's new Republican leader has lost a round in his fight to give the GOP control of budget writing in the upper house.

Senate President pro tem Howard W. Sawyer asked the powerful Rules Committee to approve appointment of two Republicans and one Democrat as Senate conferees to work with Assemblymen in putting together a final version of GOP Gov. Reagan's $6.23-billion budget.

HE LOST 4-1 with two Republicans — John F. McCarthy of San Rafael and Jack Schrade of San Diego — joining two Democrats against him.

The action came in a closed meeting of the committee Wednesday and was made public by Capitol sources Friday. Way declined comment, but sources close to him confirmed details.

As a result, two Democrats — Randolph Collier of Yreka and Stephen Teale of West Point — will join with Republican Richard J. Dolwig of Atherton as the Senate's budget negotiators.

All three are veterans of budget conference committee negotiations and are members of the unofficial Senate "club" of legislators and lobbyists that have held influence in the house for years. Under their bipartisan leadership, party politics were not emphasized in the Senate.

Senate Unit Trims Reagan Budget by $27.2 Million

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — The Senate Finance Committee Friday sent to the full Senate a state budget totaling $6.19 billion, a slash of $27.2 million from the spending program Gov. Ronald Reagan said he needs to operate the government.

Committee Chairman Randolph Collier, D-Yreka, told the upper house the document was a "better economy budget" than the record $6.2 billion spending program the Republican governor proposed.

Most of the cuts in the Senate version of the budget occurred in construction projects.

The Senate will vote on the budget for fiscal 1969-70 Monday. It then will go to a joint conference committee of the Assembly and Senate for resolution of differences.

The Assembly version is $2.3 million over what Reagan asked.

But Democrats demanding additional money for schools and a tax-reform bill blocked its passage. They also demanded a cut of $85 million in other programs.

Sen. John Schmitz, R-Tustin, an outspoken critic of failure of the state colleges and University of California to quell campus unrest, served notice he will attempt to slash funds for higher education.

when the budget is debated Monday.

Collier detailed the changes made by the Finance Committee, including a $9 million appropriation to give lower paid state employees an extra 2.5 per cent pay hike.

The governor and the committee also agreed to give all 150,000 state workers a flat 5 per cent salary increase at a cost of $62 million.

Both houses traditionally reject the other's version of the budget and select three conferees each to negotiate differences. The budget must be signed by Reagan by midnight June 30.

Hint Cuba Is Holding Cleaver

Compromise on Bill to Ban DDT Likely in Senate Unit

OAKLAND (AP) — An attorney for Eldridge Cleaver's bail signers contended Friday the fugitive Black Panther leader is being held as a political prisoner in Communist Cuba.

Attorney Harry B. Bremont made his statement in seeking to have set aside a court order of last Dec. 23 for forfeiture of Cleaver's $50,000 bond.

The money was to have been paid next Monday but Superior Court Judge Folger Emerson gave Bremont until next Friday to prepare arguments.

Cleaver disappeared last November when he was to surrender as a parole violator to complete a 13-year sentence for assault with intent to kill with a deadly weapon.

He subsequently was located in Havana, where he was reported living in a lavish apartment provided by the Castro government.

Signers of his bail include his wife, Kathleen, Godfrey Cambridge, Negro comedian; Paul Jacobs, a San Francisco author; and Edward Keating, former publisher of Ramparts magazine.

SACRAMENTO (UPI) — Legislation to ban the bugkiller DDT in California headed for revision Friday after suffering a swat at the hands of the Senate Agricultural Committee.

Most committee members agreed that in its current form, the measure would never muster the five votes needed for approval.

Some hinted privately, however, a possible compromise could be reached if the bill is amended to require a phased withdrawal of the controversial pesticide by 1972 or 1973.

The bill, proposed by Sen. John A. Nejedlik, R-Walnut Creek, was taken under submission for further study and amendment late Thursday night after a marathon hearing where 29 witnesses denounced and praised DDT.

At the same time, the nine-member committee delayed a final vote on a pair of bills by Sen. Anthony Beilenson, D-Beverly Hills, requiring sales of most harmful pesticides be reported to the state and creating new provisions under which the department of agriculture could ban pesticides.

"We ought to have a little more time to look at it," Marler said. He said the issue would be tackled again next week.

The committee voted 6-3 to hold the bills for further study. Dissents were cast by Democratic Sens. Albert Rodda, Sacramento; Anthony Beilenson, Beverly Hills; and James Mills, San Diego.

The vote followed six hours of conflicting testimony from witnesses ranging from farmers to University of California scientists.

Move to Halt Channel Drilling Goes to Senate

SACRAMENTO (AP) — A Senate committee overrode protests from oil companies Friday and unanimously approved a bill banning all oil drilling in the Santa Barbara Channel.

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — U.S. District Judge Albert Lee Stephens Jr. Friday refused to lift a preliminary injunction barring the Santa Barbara district attorney from prosecuting oil companies for drilling beyond the three-mile limit in the Santa Barbara Channel. He said no evidence was presented to convince him to vacate the injunction he issued May 1.

in state-owned lands in the Santa Barbara Channel.

The Natural Resources Committee sent the Assembly-approved bill by Assembly Democratic Leader Jesse M. Unruh of Inglewood to the Finance Committee.

If approved by the Senate and signed by Gov. Ronald Reagan, the ban would halt all drilling up to three miles from the shore of the channel, though 170 wells on state-owned tidelands in the area would be able to continue pumping.

THE BILL is an outgrowth of January's disaster in the Santa Barbara Channel, where spillage from a well on federally owned land six miles offshore polluted miles of ocean and beaches.

Unruh's bill would have no effect on drilling in the waters under federal control — which has already resumed despite continued seepage from the leaking well.

Air Hijacker Identified as Shootout Panther

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI) — The FBI Friday identified the hijacker of an airliner earlier this week as an Oakland man free on bail in a shootout with Black Panthers and police last November.

A charge of aircraft piracy was filed against William Lee Brent, 39, in Las Vegas. He was also charged with carrying a concealed weapon aboard an airliner.

The FBI said the charge was filed in Las Vegas because it was over Nevada that the hijacker seized control of the TWA transcontinental jet bound from Oakland to New York with 79 passengers aboard.

The plane landed in Havana and returned later to

New York with all the passengers except the hijacker.

Brent was due in court Monday on armed robbery charges.

BOGOTA, Colombia (AP) — Three men and a woman hijacked a twin-engine C47 of the Colombian airline Urraca Friday and ordered it flown to Cuba. They permitted the plane to land on the Colombian coast to discharge 25 other passengers and take on fuel before flying across the Caribbean.

Very charges and charges of assault with a deadly weapon in connection with the Nov. 19 shootout in San Francisco. He was free on $50,000 bond in the case.

A group of Negroes became involved in a gun battle with police following a service station hold-up. The suspects were in a panel truck bearing a sign identifying it as a distribution vehicle for the Black Panther newspaper.

The FBI did not disclose how it identified Brent as the hijacker.

If he is returned from Cuba, Brent faces charges of air piracy with a penalty up to 20 years imprisonment. The charges of carrying a concealed weapon aboard an aircraft carry a $1,000 fine and a year in prison.

of Justice. Eight Negroes were arrested as scores of police came to the aid of their fellow officers.

The suspects were all charged with robbery and assault. Later the Black Panther Party announced a purge to rid itself of criminals, and repudiated the group involved in the shootout.

GOP Boss Loses Bid for Power

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The Senate's new Republican leader has lost a round in his fight to give the GOP control of budget writing in the upper house.

Senate President pro tem Howard W. Baker asked the powerful Rules Committee to approve appointment of two Republicans and one Democrat as Senate conferees to work with Assemblymen in putting together a final version of GOP Gov. Reagan's $6.23-billion budget.

HE LOST 4-1 with two Republicans — John F. McCarthy of San Rafael and Jack Schrade of San Diego — joining two Democrats against him.

The action came in a closed meeting of the committee Wednesday and was made public by Capitol sources Friday. Way declined comment, but sources close to him confirmed details.

As a result, two Democrats — Randolph Collier of Yreka and Stephen Teale of West Point — will join with Republican Richard J. Dolwig of Atherton as the Senate's budget negotiators.

All three are veterans of budget conference committee negotiations and are members of the unofficial Senate "club" of legislators and lobbyists that have held influence in the house for years. Under their bipartisan leadership, party politics were not emphasized in the Senate.

LBJ, Out of Public Gaze, Seeks Serenity

By ROY REED

New York Times Service
AUSTIN, Texas — A reader, perhaps typical of many in and out of Texas, addressed the following letter to the editor of the Dallas Morning News the other day:

"Very little news comes from the Pedernales. Lyndon Johnson is being uncommonly quiet. What's he doing down there?"

What he's doing down there is simple, but not simply described or comprehended. In a word, the 36th President of the United States is becoming a private person again; and doing it with all the energy, skill, single-mindedness and mystery that Lyndon B. Johnson is capable of.

HE IS actively resisting public attention, perhaps for the first time. He has refused to see or talk with any reporter, except for a few social or accidental encounters, always off the record since a news conference at the LBJ Ranch Jan. 23.

By contrast, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower continued to be very much public figures in the months after they left office.

Truman remarked once,

soon after leaving office: "Many people figure that a president or an ex-president is partly theirs — and they are right, to some extent — and that they have a right to call upon him."

Johnson's approach is more nearly reminiscent of Herbert Hoover's. Hoover slipped quickly back into private life at Palo Alto in 1933. He spent his days resting, sunning and seeing few people.

LIKE HOOVER, Johnson has apparently felt a great need for rest. It is true Johnson still is surrounded by certain reminders of the presidency — a helicopter, and Air Force jet, a sizable staff, (all provided by the government and work on his memoirs.

But he has deliberately and unceremoniously removed himself from the public gaze.

There are rumors in the East he is sitting in Texas brooding — that he so misses the power of the presidency and is so dispirited over the nation's course under President Nixon he has fallen into a fit of depression.

Johnson's silence and seclusion do nothing to discourage that kind of talk. But, as best as can be determined from people who have seen him and talked with him this spring — including some who have seen him almost daily — the rumors are not true.

JOHNSON STROLLS QUIETLY AT RANCH
Ex-President Becoming 'Private Man'

—AP Wirephoto

"He ain't depressed about anything," one friend asserted. "He's as happy as I've ever seen him."

When he retired from the presidency Jan. 20, a common opinion, both here and in Washington, was that he would get the fidgets in a matter of days and shortly thereafter begin pestering his friends and abusing his enemies, and finally would simply burst upon the state of Texas in an explosion of wrath and restlessness and take over everything in sight worth having, from politics to commerce.

FRIENDS, who in the tense days of Washington were annoyed by that kind of talk, now find it amusing.

One, asked what Johnson was doing in Austin, began by saying, with a note of wryness, "Well, he hasn't captured the city. Some people here believe the LBJ Ranch soon will become the best ranch in the world — not because of its inherent value or size, which are not impressive, but because Johnson, who no longer has a country to run, has turned his extraordinary energies to ranching. The LBJ spread has become the main vehicle for his return to privateness.

"He has gone into it with the enormous vengeance of a man who has been too long away from it," says one close associate. The result, he says, has been a vast and surprising contentment.

THE FORMER president also spends time on the establishment of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas, on the Johnson Library there that will house the documents of his administration (in the last five weeks, his backers and he have screened 265,000 of the estimated 31 million documents that will go there), and on the preparation of his memoirs.

But his heart seems to be in the hills and pastures. He mends fences, or supervises them. He inspects the grass and complains of the dryness. He drives over the land, endlessly admiring it.

Most of the people he sees are personal friends or neighbors, not friends from his political past. Hubert H. Humphrey, for example, has neither seen nor talked with him for weeks.

WHEN AN occasional political friend does see him, he is likely to find the conversation turning to book — writing, or the Johnson School of Public Affairs — or cattle.

Edwin Weisl, the New York Democrat and long-time friend of Johnson, spent a day with him at the ranch about a month ago.

What did Johnson do and talk about? He showed his guests around the ranch and talked about the library, the School of Public Affairs, the Johnson children and grandchildren. Weisl said, "He avoided all discussion of public affairs," he said. "He's a different sort of fellow. He has sort of retreated."

He added Johnson was relaxed, trim, healthy and tanned and appeared to have lost weight.

"He exercises a lot, he swims a lot, he walks a lot," he said. "And Mrs. Johnson keeps him on a pretty rigid diet."

Other visitors report that he talks a little of events in Washington but not much. They report he is determined to say nothing that would embarrass or cause trouble for President Nixon.

Not even Johnson City, 15 miles from the LBJ Ranch, sees or hears much of him.

He has received a lot of mail — 36,000 pieces since Jan. 20.

A friend, groping for a way to describe Johnson's time on the ranch, said: "He's on the land like a rain."

The people around here have decided that, for the time being anyway, they are going to leave him alone there.

His Task -- To Organize the Demos by 1970

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (AP) — A young political general who won his stars in defeat is trying to unify, demonstrate and refinance the scarred Democratic party before the crucial elections in 1970.

The party is under pressures from the old politicians and from the new left, from candidates and contributors and labor leaders to do this or that.

But Sen. Fred Harris, who now controls the machinery as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, puts his open-door philosophy this way: "I'm not interested in writing anyone out of the party. I'm interested in saying, 'Come on in and help us!'"

Walking at a run, Harris moves between his Senate office on Capitol Hill to the party headquarters near the Potomac, talking to candidates, party leaders, big contributors and advisers — getting reports on this or that state; organizing fund raising; and jetting out to Oklahoma to talk to the home folks and the students.

"If people knew some of the plane trips we politicians take, they'd feel a little sorrier for us," said Harris, smiling as he peered out the window of a small plane hunting for a hole in Oklahoma soup.

BARELY FIVE years ago Harris was a junior member of the Oklahoma Senate. He was labeled as a comer, and he thought he would like to be governor.

Now, at 38, Harris is already his state's senior U.S. senator, is a member

SENATOR HARRIS IN WASHINGTON OFFICE
Under Pressure From Candidates and Contributors

of the key Senate Finance Committee, was one of Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign leaders and almost his running mate, is now the chairman of democratic party — and could be its presidential nominee in 1972.

And not many months ago he was one of the few politicians who could have breakfast with Humphrey, lunch at the White House with Lyndon Johnson and have dinner with the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Critics, and he has them, cited his electric friendships with the mightily as a measure of his ambition. When he stuck with the administration by backing Humphrey rather than Kennedy in 1968, belligerent Kennedy partisans called him a turncoat. But another former Kennedy man acknowledges "Harris impresses me."

Harris also remembers his past as son of a farmer, worries about the plight of Indians and went far out on a limb in conservative Oklahoma with his membership on the Kerner Commission which warned of a divided black-white society.

WHEN HE conducted a quiet campaign to head the party after 1968 left division and debt, a wit observed that Harris was the kind to volunteer to crashland on the Titanic. Harris still laughs at this.

But a Harris watcher contends "It was a good move. You can get lost among (The Hundred) The Senate. You get overshadowed by the Mansfields and Fulbrights and the Russells. So now he has a forum."

He also got a party that may have dropped to its lowest point in generation with deep fractures and a $6-million-plus debt. Some argue that the picture is not so dark, that if Humphrey had won half a million more votes he would be president. But a former member of the Kennedy wing says "Humphrey was beaten by a man (Nixon) who couldn't even defeat Pat Brown."

Harris is open, informal and likeable he laughs easily, and enjoys kidding with his attractive wife, LaDonna, and their three children. He often reaches out to hold LaDonna's hand. She is half Comanche Indian and fiercely proud of it.

Harris wears dark suits, black ties and a Phi Beta Kappa key and parts his dark hair down the middle so he looks slightly old-fashioned, like a flapper-era clarinet player.

HE CAN, as he concedes, slip easily into the colorful patois of the Southwest.

The story about the beginning of a Harris-LBJ friendship went through a White House reception line, Johnson said "Why don't you all come see us?"

"Why don't you holler at us?" Harris countered.

And making light of his 1964 victory over the popular University of Oklahoma football coach, Bud Wilkinson, in their Senate contest, Harris says, "Wilkinson was no hill for a climber."

Harris piles into work with his collar open and his sleeves rolled up as if he were ready to plow a field under a hot Oklahoma sky.

He has set four priorities for the party and "I have to do four things all at once and I'm doing them all."

"One, we have to be a party of issues and not just of opposition but of alternatives."

"Two, we have to be deeply involved in campaigns, in 1969 and 1970, that's both congressional and gubernatorial campaigns and some mayors' races."

"And, four, we have to finance all that." Some of the financing, he says will be done "through the traditional ways" including banquets.

"But we primarily want to do it through a lot of emphasis on sustaining membership, average a $15 a year contribution or less, from a whole lot of people around the country."

Harris is also reviving the Democratic Sponsors Club, a successor to the Presidents' Club.

"Within it," says Harris, "there's a special group which we are calling the Special Young Leadership Group of the National Democratic Sponsors' Club. It's a whole host of young guys with a social conscience who really haven't been very involved before. They're the kind of fellows I've been saying to, 'How about in addition to collecting art this year, how about helping to change the world?'"

What about his own future?

Harris shakes his head. "There isn't any way to predict what's going to happen. I'm terribly interested in issues. These are exactly the things I'd be interested in if I weren't in public office. Here I've got a chance to do something about it. That's why I'm interested in politics."

Lindsay Says He Isn't Bitter Won't Break With Party

NEW YORK (AP) — Mayor John V. Lindsay said Friday that he bore no "bitterness whatsoever" over President Nixon's endorsement of State Sen. John J. Marchi as Republican candidate for mayor of New York City.

The mayor reiterated his intention to form a new "urban coalition" for his mayoral campaign but said this "step doesn't mean a break with the Republican party. I have been a Republican all my life."

The mayor spoke as he opened his new volunteer campaign headquarters on Fifth Avenue.

jammed inside the headquarters and another 2,000 persons lined the streets outside to see the mayor.

Lindsay's only other comment on President Nixon's endorsement of Marchi winner of Tuesday's Republican primary, was that there are "very large differences between good government, fusion government, in any municipality and the special pressure of partisan politics on the national scene."

The mayor was asked if the creation of the new party could lead to a third party on the national political scene.

Lindsay said that if his "urban coalition" party receives strong support, "it may carry a message" to the rest of the nation.

The mayor was flanked by Fioravante Perrotta, Republican nominee for comptroller, and Sanford D. Garelik, Republican nominee for City Council president, as he spoke at a brief press conference. Lindsay said that he and Perrotta and Garelik, who were on his GOP primary slate, will "run as a team."

Lindsay, Garelik and Perrotta already have endorsement by the Liberal party. Lindsay seeks another line on the ballot to attract independents and dissidents from both major parties.

LBJ, Out of Public Gaze, Seeks Serenity

By ROY REED

New York Times Service
AUSTIN, Texas — A reader, perhaps typical of many in and out of Texas, addressed the following letter to the editor of the Dallas Morning News the other day:

"Very little news comes from the Pedernales. Lyndon Johnson is being uncommonly quiet. What's he doing down there?"

What he's doing down there is simple, but not simply described or comprehended. In a word, the 36th President of the United States is becoming a private person again, and doing it with all the energy, skill, single-mindedness and mystery that Lyndon B. Johnson is capable of.

HE IS actively resisting public attention, perhaps for the first time. He has refused to see or talk with any reporter, except for a few social or accidental encounters, always off the record since a news conference at the LBJ Ranch Jan. 23.

By contrast, Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower continued to be very much public figures in the months after they left office.

Truman remarked once,

soon after leaving office: "Many people figure that a president or an ex-president is partly theirs — and they are right, to some extent — and that they have a right to call upon him."

Johnson's approach is more nearly reminiscent of Herbert Hoover's. Hoover slipped quickly back into private life at Palo Alto in 1933. He spent his days resting, sunning and seeing few people.

LIKE HOOVER, Johnson has apparently felt a great need for rest. It is true Johnson still is surrounded by certain reminders of the presidency — a helicopter, and Air Force jet, a sizable staff, (all provided by the government and work on his memoirs.

But he has deliberately and unceremoniously removed himself from the public gaze.

There are rumors in the East he is sitting in Texas brooding — that he so misses the power of the presidency and is so dispirited over the nation's course under President Nixon he has fallen into a fit of depression.

Johnson's silence and seclusion do nothing to discourage that kind of talk. But, as best as can be determined from people who have seen him and talked with him this spring — including some who have seen him almost daily — the rumors are not true.

Ex-President Becoming 'Private Man'

—AP Wirephoto

"He ain't depressed about anything," one friend asserted. "He's as happy as I've ever seen him."

When he retired from the presidency Jan. 20, a common opinion, both here and in Washington, was that he would get the fidgets in a matter of days and shortly thereafter begin pestering his friends and abusing his enemies, and finally would simply burst upon the state of Texas in an explosion of wrath and restlessness and take over everything in sight worth having, from politics to commerce.

FRIENDS, who in the tense days of Washington were annoyed by that kind of talk, now find it amusing.

One, asked what Johnson was doing in Austin, began by saying, with a note of wryness, "Well, he hasn't captured the city."

Some people here believe the LBJ Ranch soon will become the best ranch in the world — not because of its inherent value or size, which are not impressive, but because Johnson, who no longer has a country to run, has turned his extraordinary energies to ranching. The LBJ spread has become the main vehicle for his return to privateness.

"He has gone into it with the enormous vengeance of a man who has been too long away from it," says one close associate. The result, he says, has been a vast and surprising contentment.

THE FORMER president also spends time on the establishment of the Lyndon B. Johnson School of Public Affairs at the University of Texas, on the Johnson Library there that will house the documents of his administration (in the last five weeks, his backers and he have screened 265,000 of the estimated 31 million documents that will go there), and on the preparation of his memoirs.

But his heart seems to be in the hills and pastures. He mends fences, or supervises them. He inspects the grass and complains of the dryness. He drives over the land, endlessly admiring it.

Most of the people he sees are personal friends or neighbors, not friends from his political past. Hubert H. Humphrey, for example, has neither seen nor talked with him for weeks.

WHEN AN occasional political friend does see him, he is likely to find the conversation turning to book - writing, or the Johnson School of Public Affairs — or cattle.

Edwin Weist, the New York Democrat and long-time friend of Johnson, spent a day with him at the ranch about a month ago.

What did Johnson do and talk about? He showed his guests around the ranch and talked about the library, the School of Public Affairs, the Johnson children and grandchildren. Weist said. "He avoided all discussion of public affairs," he said. "He's a different sort of fellow . . . He has sort of retreated."

He added Johnson was relaxed, trim, healthy and tanned and appeared to have lost weight.

"He exercises a lot, he swims a lot, he walks a lot," he said. "And Mrs. Johnson keeps him on a pretty rigid diet."

Other visitors report that he talks a little of events in Washington, but not much. They report he is determined to say nothing that would embarrass or cause trouble for President Nixon.

Not even Johnson City, 15 miles from the LBJ Ranch, sees or hears much of him.

He has received a lot of mail — 36,000 pieces since Jan. 20.

A friend, groping for a way to describe Johnson's time on the ranch, said: "He's on the land like a rain."

The people around here have decided that, for the time being anyway, they are going to leave him alone there.

His Task -- To Organize the Demos by 1970

By HARRY KELLY

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A young political general who won his stars in defeat is trying to unify, demonstrate and refinance the scared Democratic party before the crucial elections in 1970.

The party is under pressures from the old politicians and from the new left, from candidates and contributors and labor leaders to do this or that.

But Sen. Fred Harris, who now controls the machinery as chairman of the Democratic National Committee, puts his open-door philosophy this way:

"I'm not interested in writing anyone out of the party. I'm interested in saying, 'Come on in and help us!'"

Walking at a run, Harris moves between his Senate office on Capitol Hill to the party headquarters near the Potomac, talking to candidates, party leaders, big contributors and advisers—getting reports on this or that state; organizing fund raising; and jetting out to Oklahoma to talk to the home folks and the students.

"If people knew some of the plane trips we politicians take, they'd feel a little sorrier for us," said Harris, smiling as he peered out the window of a small plane hunting for a hole in Oklahoma soup.

BARELY FIVE years ago Harris was a junior member of the Oklahoma Senate. He was labeled as a comer, and he thought he would like to be governor.

Now, at 38, Harris is already his state's senior U.S. senator, is a member of the key Senate Finance Committee, was one of Hubert H. Humphrey's campaign leaders and almost his running mate, is now the chairman of democratic party—and could be its presidential nominee in 1972.

Under Pressure From Candidates and Contributors

And not many months ago he was one of the few politicians who could have breakfast with Humphrey, lunch at the White House with Lyndon Johnson and have dinner with the late Sen. Robert F. Kennedy.

Critics, and he has them, cited his electric friendships with the mighty as a measure of his ambition. When he stuck with the administration by backing Humphrey rather than Kennedy in 1968, belligerent Kennedy partisans called him a turncoat. But another former Kennedy man acknowledges "Harris impresses me."

Harris also remembers his past as son of a farmer, worries about the plight of Indians and went far out on a limb in conservative Oklahoma with his membership on the Kerner Commission which warned of a divided black-white society.

WHEN HE conducted a quiet campaign to head the party after 1968 left division and debt, a wit observed that Harris was the kind to volunteer to crashland on the Titanic. Harris still laughs at this.

But a Harris watcher contends "It was a good move. You can get lost among (The Hundred) The Senate. You get overshadowed by the Mansfields and Fulbrights and the Russells. So now he has a forum."

He also got a party that may have dropped to its lowest point in generation with deep fractures and a $6-million-plus debt. Some argue that the picture is not so dark, that if Humphrey had won half a million more votes he would be president. But a former member of the Kennedy wing says "Humphrey was beaten by a man (Nixon) who couldn't even defeat Pat Brown."

Harris is open, informal and likeable he laughs easily, and enjoys kidding with his attractive wife, LaDonna, and their three children. He often reaches out to hold LaDonna's hand. She is half Comanche Indian and fiercely proud of it.

Harris wears dark suits, black ties and a Phi Beta Kappa key and parts his dark hair down the middle so he looks slightly old-fashioned, like a Happer-era clarinet player.

HE CAN, as he concedes, slip easily into the colorful patois of the Southwest.

The story about the beginning of a Harris-LBJ friendship went through a White House reception line, Johnson said "Why don't v'all come see us?"

"Why don't you holler at us?" Harris countered.

And making light of his 1964 victory over the popular University of Oklahoma football coach, Bud Wilkinson, in their Senate

contest, Harris says, "Wilkinson was no hill for a climber."

Harris piles into work with his collar open and his sleeves rolled up as if he were ready to plow a field under a hot Oklahoma sky.

He has set four priorities for the party and "I have to do four things all at once and I'm doing them all."

"One, we have to be a party of issues and not just of opposition but of alternatives."

"Two, we have to be deeply involved in campaigns, in 1969 and 1970, that's both congressional and gubernatorial campaigns and some mayors' races."

"And, four, we have to finance all that." Some of the financing, he says will be done "through the traditional ways" including banquets.

"But we primarily want to do it through a lot of emphasis on sustaining membership, average a $15 a year contribution or less, from a whole lot of people around the country."

Harris is also reviving the Democratic Sponsors Club, a successor to the Presidents' Club.

"Within it," says Harris, "there's a special group which we are calling the Special Young Leadership Group of the National Democratic Sponsors' Club. It's a whole host of young guys with a social conscience who really haven't been very involved before. They're the kind of fellows I've been saying to, 'How about in addition to collecting art this year, how about helping to change the world?'"

What about his own future?

Harris shakes his head. "There isn't any way to predict what's going to happen . . . I'm terribly interested in issues. These are exactly the things I'd be interested in if I weren't in public office. Here I've got a chance to do something about it. That's why I'm interested in politics."

Lindsay Says He Isn't Bitter Won't Break With Party

NEW YORK (UPI) — Mayor John V. Lindsay said Friday that he bore no "bitterness whatsoever" over President Nixon's endorsement of State Sen. John J. Marchi as Republican candidate for mayor of New York City.

The mayor spoke as he opened his new campaign headquarters on Fifth Avenue.

ABOUT 500 persons lunched inside the headquarters, and another 2,000 persons lined the streets outside to see the mayor.

Lindsay's only other comment on President Nixon's endorsement of Marchi winner of Tuesday's Republican primary, was that there are "very large differences between good government, fusion government, in any municipality, and the special pressure of partisan politics on the national scene."

The mayor was asked if the creation of the new party could lead to a third party on the national political scene.

Lindsay said that if his "urban coalition" party receives strong support, "it may carry a message" to the rest of the nation.

The mayor was flanked by Fioravante Perrotta, Republican nominee for comptroller, and Sanford D. Gurelik, Republican nominee for City Council president, as he spoke at a brief press conference. Lindsay said that he and Perrotta and Gurelik, who came on his GOP primary slate, will "run as a team."

Lindsay, Gurelik and Perrotta already have endorsement by the Liberal party. Lindsay seeks another line on the ballot to attract independents and dissidents from both major parties.

'Hunger' Bill Over 1st Hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Agriculture Committee tentatively agreed Friday to double food-stamp allotments for poor families and give federal officials power to make sure the program reached hungry people in every state and county.

The bill, still subject to a final committee vote next week, would more than quadruple the present $340 million a year program, make it easier for poor families to get their stamps and provide for the first time enough stamps to buy enough groceries for an adequate diet. The stamps are worth more in groceries than they cost.

If passed, the measure would climax a congressional "war on hunger" which began more than a year ago and produced television documentaries, hearings and widely publicized field trips exposing hungry poor people in cities and rural areas throughout the nation.

SENATE Agriculture Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said he would ask the Senate to vote Tuesday on the first piece of the bill, a $750-million authorization for food-stamp spending next year.

Ellender said the committee hopes to put the rest of the bill on the Senate calendar for action shortly after the July 4 recess. House Agriculture Chairman W. R. Poage, D-Tex., has indicated he is waiting for the Senate to pass a food-stamp bill so he can attach it to a measure renewing the farm-subsidy program.

THE BILL would boost spending to $1.5 billion in 1971 and 1972 and would let the Agriculture Department use any money left over from one year on the subsequent year's food-stamp program.

The Senate committee rejected demands by the Nixon Administration, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and others that food stamps be given free to the poorest families.

It ruled instead that impoverished families pay 50 cents per person each month, or 10 per cent of the family income, whichever is higher.

The poorest family of four would get $120 worth of stamps each month, the figure set by the Agriculture Department as the minimum to decently feed four people. The present program provides the same family $58 worth of stamps in the South, $60 in the north.

U.S. Tests Guaranteed Yearly Pay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon Administration Friday put in motion a third major test of the "guaranteed annual income" as an alternative to conventional and controversial welfare programs.

The Washington State Department of Public Assistance got a one-year $501,000 grant to plan experimental income-maintenance plan in Seattle.

It was the third such experiment, one of which was begun during the Johnson administration. The others, funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), are a full-fledged $4.5-million negative-income-tax test started last year among 1,000 New Jersey families, and a planning grant of $500,000 awarded earlier this month to design an income-maintenance test among 800 rural families.

The new grant was the first to go to a public agency — the OEO funds went to nongovernment research groups.

AT CHICAGO CONVENTION

Panther, SDS Group Collide

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Black Panther attacked the Progressive Labor Party faction of the Students for a Democratic Society as "counter-revolutionaries" Friday night during a general session of the SDS national convention as the battle for control of the radical organization took shape.

"They say they are not counter-revolutionaries," shouted the Black Panther from the podium as he gestured to a section of PLP delegates. "But they are educated and their actions show them to be God-damned (obscenity) counter-revolutionaries."

"Bull... bull..." screamed back members of the PLP faction, standing on their chairs and stamping their feet on both the wooden chairs and the floor of the massive old Chicago Coliseum.

Other SDS delegates, most of them members of the Revolutionary Youth Movement faction of the organization, shouted back in a chorus: "Power to the people, power to the people."

"Power to the workers, power to the workers," replied the PLPs in the rising din.

The Black Panther speaker was at a momentary loss for words when the tumult broke out, but finally was able to make himself heard over the roar from the convention floor.

"You had better get your God-damned self together and get ready for the God-damned revolution," he said. "My people want to be free but we can't be free until we have fulfilled our destiny."

A female member of the Black Panthers then took the podium and, gesturing to the PLP, told them to read their "red book" of teachings by Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-tung.

Throughout the day the convention delegates were urged to forge tighter links with workers and go on record against the use of narcotics.

Resolutions along those lines were circulated at a massive disorganized "bull session" in the Coliseum before the general session while clumps of delegates caucused and others picked up credentials for a showdown election battle between opposing factions.

The resolutions decisions — and possibly the election of national officers — were expected today.

While 2,000 or 3,000 college students and campus hangers-on wrangled inside the old convention hall, a curly-haired youth staged a card-burning demonstration outside the building against the "paranoia" of the SDS.

SIGHT-SEEING buses paused outside the Coliseum to give tourists a quick look at the comings and goings of the disenchanted members of the younger generation.

Jared Israel and Michael Schwartz, two members of the Progressive Labor Party, faction seeking to wrest control of the SDS from Michael Klonsky's Revolutionary Youth Movement, circulated a resolution heavily larded with proposals for a closer alliance with labor.

It would proclaim that all wealth is produced by workers, attack racial exploitation of campus workers, and plug for better wages, working conditions and rights to unionization of college and university employees.

The resolution also demanded an end to Reserve Officer Training Corps programs, military recruiting and military research on campus and support of black struggles and rebellions.

ANOTHER proposed resolution, signed by eight SDS members from New York and Boston, proposed that members purge themselves of the taint of drugs.

"All over the world drugs have been used to try to crush the potential of peoples' struggles," the resolution said, "and every revolutionary movement has taken an unequivocal position against drugs."

The resolution said that "in taking a position against drugs, we are not saying the drug users are our enemy — in fact, quite the opposite."

"They are some of the very people who must be won to fight imperialism fully, defeat their individualism and serve the people," it added.

Army Says Influx of 'Kooks' Pushes Up Desertion Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army says its steadily climbing desertion rate is due to an influx of "kooks" into the service and to a society which trains its young to resist authority.

Nevertheless, the Army's chief of personnel said, morale among American troops in Vietnam is "fabulous."

At a March 11 House appropriations subcommittee hearing, the transcript of which was released Friday, Lt. Gen. A.O. Connor explained the seeming contradiction.

"We are getting more kooks into the Army, for one thing. We are getting more young men who are coming in undisciplined, the product of a society that trains them to resist authority," he said.

"Does your Army training overcome this, it would seem that it should?" asked Rep. William E. Minshall, R-Ohio.

"Most of the desertions take place very early in the man's training," Connor replied. "We do not experience this sort of thing in the trained soldier to any great extent."

DATA SUPPLIED to the subcommittee by the Army and printed in the transcript showed that the rate of desertions has increased steadily over the past three years.

The latest figures covered the period from July 1, 1968 through Nov. 30, 1968 and revealed that desertions are currently running at the monthly rate of 3.3 for every 1,000 members of the 1.5 million man Army.

It marked a 37.5 per cent increase over the rate set during the previous fiscal year when the monthly rate was 2.4 and an increase of 83.3 per cent over the 1.8 rate set the year before that.

Translated to a yearly basis the figures went from 21.4 to 29.1 to 39.8 for the current year — if present trends hold up.

Addressing himself only to the 29.1 figure, Connor described it as "much higher than we would like to see it."

Asked to compare the current rates with past wars, Connor said "at the height of Korea" desertions reached 20 per thousand. He said he thought in World War II it reached about 63.

MINSHALL said he was concerned about the increase in the past year and asked what was being done about it. Connor told him the Army was showing films to young soldiers spelling out "the consequences of desertion."

In the course of the questioning, Connor noted that while more than 500 men had deserted to foreign countries more than 190,000 men had volunteered to serve in Vietnam.

"That would indicate a high degree of dedication to the country, I would assume," commented Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex.

"Absolutely, sir," Connor replied. "We do not have to be too concerned about our youth. The vast majority of them are doing their job and doing it beautifully."

Nixon to Miss Warren Tribute; No Slight Seen

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will speak at the Supreme Court on Monday when Earl Warren retires as chief justice but he has declined an invitation to participate in a national tribute for Warren at Lincoln Memorial on June 29.

The President was understood to have told sponsors of the Lincoln Memorial event, including three members of his own cabinet, that his schedule would not permit him to attend. He did not indicate any prior engagement.

Invitations are being sent to former Presidents Truman and Johnson, the Supreme Court and former justices, members of Congress, the diplomatic corps, present and past cabinet members and other dignitaries.

The invitation was said to have been in a letter to Nixon from former Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California and former Democratic Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. They form an organizing committee which also includes Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch and former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg. Finch is a close advisor to the president and a former lieutenant governor of California, Chief Justice Warren's home state.

A WHITE HOUSE spokesman said that there was nothing sinister, implied or calculated in Nixon's declining the invitation.

He said that the President and chief justice had been on good terms and that Nixon could be expected to speak about Warren on Monday when the chief justice steps down and his successor, Judge Warren E. Burger of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, is sworn in. The spokesman, however, did not know whether Nixon had a prior engagement for June 29.

The National Park Service of the Interior Department gave the committee approval to use the Lincoln Memorial as the place for the Warren tribute. The Pentagon was reported to have reluctantly acceded to a request that the Army chorus sing at the event, which will start at 6 p.m. on June 29.

SPEAKERS at the tribute will include former Justice Goldberg, Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, Negro rights spokesman and professor of psychology at the New York University, and Eric Severelid of the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

Other sponsors of the tribute include former Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach, Solicitor General Erwin N. 'Hunger' Bill Over 1st Hurdle

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Agriculture Committee tentatively agreed Friday to double food-stamp allotments for poor families and give federal officials power to make sure the program reached hungry people in every state and county.

The bill, still subject to a final committee vote next week, would more than quadruple the present $340 million a year program, make it easier for poor families to get their stamps and provide for the first time enough stamps to buy enough groceries for an adequate diet. The stamps are worth more in groceries than they cost.

If passed, the measure would climax a congressional "war on hunger" which began more than a year ago and produced television documentaries, hearings and widely publicized field trips exposing hungry poor people in cities and rural areas throughout the nation.

SENATE Agriculture Chairman Allen J. Ellender, D-La., said he would ask the Senate to vote Tuesday on the first piece of the bill, a $750-million authorization for food-stamp spending next year.

Ellender said the committee hopes to put the rest of the bill on the Senate calendar for action shortly after the July 4 recess. House Agriculture Chairman W. R. Pease, D-Tex., has indicated he is waiting for the Senate to pass a food-stamp bill so he can attach it to a measure renewing the farm-subsidy program.

THE BILL would boost spending to $1.5 billion in 1971 and 1972 and would let the Agriculture Department use any money left over from one year on the subsequent year's food-stamp program.

The Senate committee rejected demands by the Nixon Administration, Sen. George McGovern, D-S.D., and others that food stamps be given free to the poorest families.

It ruled instead that impoverished families pay 50 cents per person each month, or 10 per cent of the family income, whichever is higher.

The poorest family of four would get $120 worth of stamps each month, the figure set by the Agriculture Department as the minimum to decently feed four people. The present program provides the same family $58 worth of stamps in the South, $60 in the north.

U.S. Tests Guaranteed Yearly Pay

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Nixon Administration Friday put in motion a third major test of the "guaranteed annual income" as an alternative to conventional and controversial welfare programs.

The Washington State Department of Public Assistance got a one-year $501,000 grant to plan experimental income-maintenance plan in Seattle.

It was the third such experiment, one of which was begun during the Johnson administration. The others, funded by the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO), are a full-fledged $4.5-million negative-income-tax test started last year among 1,000 New Jersey families, and a planning grant of $500,000 awarded earlier this month to design an income-maintenance test among 800 rural families.

The new grant was the first to go to a public agency — the OEO funds went to nongovernment research groups.

AT CHICAGO CONVENTION

Panther, SDS Group Collide

CHICAGO (UPI) — A Black Panther attacked the Progressive Labor Party faction of the Students for a Democratic Society as "counter-revolutionaries" Friday night during a general session of the SDS national convention as the battle for control of the radical organization took shape.

"They say they are not counter-revolutionaries," shouted the Black Panther from the podium as he gestured to a section of PLP delegates. "But they are educated and their actions show them to be God-damned (obscenely) counter-revolutionaries."

"Bull ... bull ..." screamed back members of the PLP faction, standing on their chairs and stamping their feet on both the wooden chairs and the floor of the massive old Chicago Coliseum.

Other SDS delegates, most of them members of the Revolutionary Youth Movement faction of the organization, shouted back in a chorus: "Power to the people, power to the people."

"Power to the workers, power to the workers," replied the PLPs in the rising din.

The Black Panther speaker was at a momentary loss for words when the tumult broke out, but finally was able to make himself heard over the roar from the convention floor.

"You had better get your God-damned self together and get ready for the God-damned revolution," he said. "My people want to be free but we can't be free until we have fulfilled our destiny."

A female member of the Black Panthers then took the podium and, gesturing to the PLP, told them to read their "red book" of teachings by Communist Chinese leader Mao Tse-Tung.

Throughout the day the convention delegates were urged to forge tighter links with workers and go on record against the use of narcotics.

Resolutions along these lines were circulated at a massive disorganized "bull session" in the Coliseum before the general session while clumps of delegates caucused and others picked up credentials for a showdown election battle between opposing factions.

The resolutions decisions — and possibly the election of national officers — were expected today.

While 2,000 or 3,000 college students and campus hangers-on wrangled inside the old convention hall, a curly-haired youth staged a card-burning demonstration outside the building against the "paranoia" of the SDS.

SIGHT-SEEING buses paused outside the Coliseum to give tourists a quick look at the comings and goings of the disenfranchised members of the younger generation.

Jared Israel and Michael Schwartz, two members of the Progressive Labor Party faction seeking to wrest control of the SDS from Michael Klonsky's Revolutionary Youth Movement, circulated a resolution heavily larded with proposals for a closer alliance with labor.

It would proclaim that all wealth is produced by workers, attack racial exploitation of campus workers, and plug for better wages, working conditions and rights to unionization of college and university employees.

The resolution also demanded an end to Reserve Officer Training Corps programs, military recruiting and military research on campus and support of black struggles and rebellions.

Addressing himself only to the 29.1 figure, Connor described it as "much higher than we would like to see it."

Asked to compare the current rates with past wars, Connor said "at the height of Korea" desertions reached 20 per thousand. He said he thought in World War II it reached about 61.

MINSHALL said he was concerned about the increase in the past year and asked what was being done about it. Connor told him the Army was showing films to young soldiers spelling out "the consequences of desertion."

In the course of the questioning, Connor noted that while more than 500 men had deserted to foreign countries more than 190,000 men had volunteered to serve in Vietnam.

"That would indicate a high degree of dedication to the country. I would assume," commented Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex.

"Absolutely, sir," Connor replied. "We do not have to be too concerned about our youth. The vast majority of them are doing their job and doing it beautifully."

Nixon to Miss Warren Tribute; No Slight Seen

By WILLIAM M. BLAIR

WASHINGTON — President Nixon will speak at the Supreme Court on Monday when Earl Warren retires as chief justice but he has declined an invitation to participate in a national tribute for Warren at Lincoln Memorial on June 29.

The President was understood to have told sponsors of the Lincoln Memorial event, including three members of his own cabinet, that his schedule would not permit him to attend. He did not indicate any prior engagement.

Invitations are being sent to former Presidents Truman and Johnson, the Supreme Court and former justices, members of Congress, the diplomatic corps, present and past cabinet members and other dignitaries.

The invitation was said to have been in a letter to Nixon from former Republican Sen. Thomas H. Kuchel of California and former Democratic Secretary of the Interior Stewart L. Udall. They form an organizing committee which also includes Secretary of Health, Education and Welfare Robert H. Finch and former Supreme Court Justice Arthur Goldberg. Finch is a close adviser to the president and a former lieutenant governor of California, Chief Justice Warren's home state.

A WHITE HOUSE spokesman said that there was nothing sinister, implied or calculated in Nixon's declining the invitation.

He said that the President and chief justice had been on good terms and that Nixon could be expected to speak about Warren on Monday when the chief justice steps down and his successor, Judge Warren E. Burger of the United States Court of Appeals for the District of Columbia, is sworn in. The spokesman, however, did not know whether Nixon had a prior engagement for June 29.

The National Park Service of the Interior Department gave the committee approval to use the Lincoln Memorial as the place for the Warren tribute. The Pentagon was reported to have reluctantly acceded to a request that the Army chorus sing at the event, which will start at 6 p.m. on June 29.

SPEAKERS at the tribute will include former Justice Goldberg, Dr. Kenneth B. Clark, Negro rights spokesman and professor of psychology at the New York University, and Eric Severell of the Columbia Broadcasting Company.

Other sponsors of the tribute include former Attorney General Nicholas Katzenbach, Solicitor General Erwin N. Griswold and five former solicitors general, Judge Walter Cummings of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Seventh Circuit, in Chicago; former Chief Judge Simon E. Sobeloff of the U.S. Court of Appeals for the Fourth Circuit, in Bal-

Army Says Influx of 'Kooks' Pushes Up Desertion Rate

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Army says its steadily climbing desertion rate is due to an influx of "kooks" into the service and in a society which trains its young to resist authority.

Nevertheless, the Army's chief of personnel said, morale among American troops in Vietnam is "fabulous."

At a March 11 House appropriations subcommittee hearing, the transcript of which was released Friday, Lt. Gen. A.O. Connor explained the seeming contradiction.

"We are getting more kooks into the Army, for one thing. We are getting more young men who are coming in undisciplined, the product of a society that trains them to resist authority," he said.

"Does your Army training overcome this, it would seem that it should?" asked Rep. William E. Minshall, R-Ohio.

"Most of the desertions take place very early in the man's training," Connor replied. "We do not experience this sort of thing in the trained soldier to any great extent."

DATA SUPPLIED to the subcommittee by the Army and printed in the transcript showed that the rate of desertions has increased steadily over the past three years.

The latest figures covered the period from July 1, 1968 through Nov. 30, 1968 and revealed that desertions are currently running at the monthly rate of 3.3 for every 1,000 members of the 1.5 million man Army.

It marked a 37.5 per cent increase over the rate for during the previous fiscal year when the monthly rate was 2.4 and an increase of 83.3 per cent over the 1.8 rate set the year before that.

Translated to a yearly basis the figures went from 21.4 to 29.1 to the 39.6 for the current year — if present trends hold up.

Addressing himself only to the 29.1 figure, Connor described it as "much higher than we would like to see it."

Asked to compare the current rates with past wars, Connor said "at the height of Korea" desertions reached 20 per thousand. He said he thought in World War II it reached about 61.

MINSHALL said he was concerned about the increase in the past year and asked what was being done about it. Connor told him the Army was showing films to young soldiers spelling out "the consequences of desertion."

In the course of the questioning, Connor noted that while more than 500 men had deserted to foreign countries more than 190,000 men had volunteered to serve in Vietnam.

"That would indicate a high degree of dedication to the country. I would assume," commented Appropriations Committee Chairman George H. Mahon, D-Tex.

AID FOR POOR

Lawmakers Vote Rental Subsidies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The House Appropriations Committee has approved substantial additional federal contributions to two new housing programs intended to make more homes and apartments available to low-income groups.

However, the committee gave President Nixon less than he asked for the two programs.

The programs involved are identified in housing circles as 235 and 236. One provides interest subsidies to help low-income persons buy homes. The other subsidizes interest payments by builders so they can charge lower rents.

The programs were launched last year, and the committee provided the full $46.5 million needed for payments on contracts already authorized. In addition, the Administration asked additional contract authority to commit the government to additional payments of $100 million yearly on each of the two programs, over periods of 30 to 40 years.

The committee allowed $80 million of the added annual contract authority asked for the homeownership subsidy and $70 million of the requested contract authority for rental assistance.

Funds were included in a $14.9-billion money bill, covering various housing and other government programs, sent to the House for action next Tuesday.

ANNUAL ASTERS ADD A BRIGHT, BREEZY TOUCH TO GARDEN

Garden Clinic

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Q. My Goldbeck variety apricot tree about 9 years old bears only 8 to 12 apricots a season. The fruit is large, about the size of peaches. I have tried pruning the tree severely, also very lightly with no increased fruit yield. Paul M. Combs.

A. Tree would be happier in drier area. However, unless it is growing in a lawn. Yes you can help the tree provide more fruit. Late October soak soil around tree. Day or two later, scatter evenly two cups of bone meal for each inch of tree trunk diameter. Lightly scratch in with cultivator. For that old apricot tree, spread evenly one inch layer of manure, soak slowly and thoroughly. Few days later soak again, then water as needed. Late January feed it 2 cups of a balanced plant food containing less nitrogen than phosphoric acid to each inch of tree trunk diameter and soak well. Repeat soaking few days later if no rain. Three months later apply only half amount of balanced plant food.

Q. Any solutions to following two questions? I have hundreds, maybe thousands of rabbits nibble at the grass here in Leisure World. Do they do any damage to the grass? We know they devour anything else we plant except onions, garlic, and parsley. We wonder if they eat the roots of grass, the dichondra, and cause the brown spot — or just nibble the top grass? Mrs. S. P. Martin.

A. They eat the top grass. Use rabbit-deer repellent. Ask Nurseryman.

2—My son in the Santa Monica Mountains (Bel Air) this month was having the same problem with the precious little squirrels, four at a time on top of his vines, apparently nibbling all the white blossoms, and on the ground apparently eating dichondra, as bare spots appear.

A. If they eat the flowers, ask nurseryman for nicotine sulphate and spray. Direction on container label. Spray lawn too if such is the condition.

Q. Enclosed is a rose leaf from one of my rose bushes which I've sprayed once a week with Bordoli, next week with Malathion, ever since foliage leafed out. Not many insect pests because I spray lower and upper sides of the foliage, even so this orange stuff seems immune to either one of the poisons. What is it and how to get rid of the same? J. C. Hamel

A. It is the dreaded rust disease. Frequent superficial waterings of the roses are one of the contributory causes. It is best to soak the roses 18 to 20 inches deep, not as often. Hand pick off all the leaves off the bushes and the ground. Check with your nurseryman for a fungicide spray that lists "rust" as one of several kinds of fungus diseases that spray controls. Thoroughly spray drench all parts of the plants, also the soil all around those infested bushes. Repeat the sprayings as directed on the fungicide container label. Remember, don't water the roses lightly and often, instead much less often and deeper!

Q. My beautiful Philodendron specimen looks healthy, and has grown from 10 inches to over 4 feet in less than once year. Occasionally a developing leaf fails to completely unfold, the leaf stem is soft instead of stiff like the rest of the leaves. What causes this? Once a month it gets vitamin B-1 plus, and fish-oil liquid fertilizer.

A. Pass up the vitamin doses, and feed once every two months. Don't keep the soil constantly moist. Water thoroughly when soil dries. Empty saucer or jardiniere the pot sets on or in, an hour or so after plant has been watered. Pot should set on couple of prune inch square size stakes, on inside saucer bottom, or on the inside of a jardiniere bottom.

Q. I'm a member of the Belmont Heights Garden Club and always read your column and find it very helpful. I'd like to submit a garden question as follows: there is a tiny little white fly that seems to suck the life out of leaves of my string beans and boysenberries. The result is that they stunt the growth of the berries and cause the beans to dry up and not mature. When the vines are touched they emit a white cloud of these little flies. Later on in the season the leaves turn brown and drop off. They also affect the summer squashes. I'm afraid to use dusting powders, especially on the berries, and am wondering if there is an insecticide that would be safe to use? Mrs. Agnes Hemphill.

A. Malathion is a liquid insecticide which you can use on fruits and vegetables for those white flies that are sap-sucking destructive pests. It is fast acting and quick dissipating. Harvest the fruit about five days later, wash thoroughly before using. The vegetable dusts are recommended as safe for fruits and vegetables. Be sure to read the container's labels and use only as directed.

GARDENING

By JOE LITTLEFIELD

Annual asters more than hold their own when compared with zinnias as cut flowers. They additionally provide some needed tone of blue colors such as lavenders, purple shades, as well as deep magentas, in the sunny garden.

Gardeners have quite a choice of flowers to select. None-the-less, check with your local nurseryman about the Giant Crego, American Beauty, Pompom, Powder Puffs, Giant Branching, California Giants, Fluffy Ruffles and Dwarf asters that grow about 10 inches tall and are ideal for edgings and low beds, in colors now of white and blue. Of the kinds of asters mentioned, one of our gardener friends seemed to think the powder-puff asters blooms stayed fresh longer as cut flowers, also lasted longer on the plants.

ASTERS TEND to be a little on the prima-donnish side. They should be planted between lawn sprinkler heads to avoid being kept more moist when they're not thirsty. If the flower bed is close to the lawn. They'll grow better if they're kept on the dry side and watered only when they really thirst. The smallest plants with least root disturbance when setting them out get a better growth start. "Least root disturbance" means to carefully break off the individual plant root balls rather than cut the root balls into inch size squares, from flats or pony paks.

HOT WEATHER means lawns and plants thirst sooner. The answer to moisture conservation is to mulch, top dress, to apply one of the fine organic materials. It filters and washes down between the leaf stalks of dichondra or blades of grass lawn, serves as an insulant material, saves on frequency of watering, possibly provides a light feeding action, helps the lawns to grow lush, and withstand hot weather better.

The top-dressing idea definitely would help an immature struggling seed, sown or clumps planted dichondra lawn cover the soil quicker. It prevents the covered bare soil from baking and cracking, maintains more even moisture content in the soil and teases the dichondra runner branches to grow together over the mulch much faster than they normally would grow over the hard, dry bare soil areas.

We have seen a home owner periodically cover a strip of soil with steer manure at the edge of a small sector of dichondra lawn and kept it moist like an immature lawn. Soon as the rascally dichondra runner branches had almost grown across the manure covered strip of soil, she would spread another similar strip layer of manure. She kept this up until the rest of the area was completely covered by the dichondra.

Shrubs and flowers would grow better and need less frequent watering if they too were mulched.

LAWNS PESTS such as moth worms in grass lawn or cutworms or one of the other chewing types in dichondra can damage the neat appearance of such lawns. Stomach type spray properly applied as per directions on the spray bottle labels kills those pests. This doesn't mean the spraying lasts for the whole active growing season. Later, a new infestation can occur.

Some turf fertilizers contain such an insecticide which serves the same purpose as would an insecticide spray, excepting the material dissolves into the lawn slower, hence has a longer lasting effect.

IMPORTANT THOUGHT . . . From time to time we keep reminding you to "visit your local nursery" or "buy the plants and materials at your local nursery."

Here's the reason, when you purchase plants at other sources than a nursery, the plants may be good and you might buy at less cost and think it a bargain. But should something go wrong with some of the plants, more often than not you can't find out what's wrong from such source, because the salesman may not be a horticulturist and may not know plants. Buy from your local nurseryman who is interested in selling you the best plants possible, and willing to help you with your garden problems. He's your garden's best friend.

HELPFUL HINTS ON HORTICULTURE

Camellias, azaleas, gardenias, citrus or any other plants in pots or tubs should be deeply watered and properly. Fill the containers with water slowly, three or four times and count those water fillings as one unit drink of water. Thorough watering leaches out any possible sodium alkali build up in the plants root balls areas. Such watering from spring through fall season actually saves on frequency of watering, too.

With sharp stream of water-hose spray hedges, shrubs and any plants that withstand such force spray of water. They should be hosed off several times a month. Such hosing dislodges leaves that nest in branch crotchets. Insect pests that may have started to nest in those areas are dislodged and seek other areas undisturbed by such watering.

YOU CAN start St. Augustine lawn in your grass lawn. Mow your lawn close. Soak well. Day or two later dump flat of St. Augustine grass upside down on the walk or driveway. Tear apart the runners. Break or cut the runners several inches long. Be sure there are a couple of joints which are slightly thick swelling. Jab the screw driver on a slant downward into the lawn soil about an inch deep. Push the joint into the soil and firm with fingers. Spacing depends upon how quickly you want that lawn to cover. Spread evenly one sack of steer manure per each 200 square feet and keep moist.

OTHER HINTS: Continue pinching fall blooming chrysanthemums. Pinch each time the plants have developed two to three sets of leaves. Pinching forces more branch growths. You don't pinch the commercial or exhibition mums as recommended for the other types.

Get that new lawn in, or re-do the old one soon as you can, before the hot weather begins.

DIG UP the finished blooming gladiolus bulbs. Cut off the foliage whether they are green or dead. Leave the soil on them. Dust the bulbs with a combination insecticide and fungicide. Put them in a paper sack and store in the shade in garage or tool shed. Several weeks later take them out, clean off the soil and dry husks. Dust the bulbs again and store them till late in the year to be replanted in the garden.

Plant roses from containers into the ground. Mix some organic material, and handful of bone meal with the soil. Be sure the bud union area where all the branches emanate from is above the ground level.

FUCHSIAS-- DARLING OF THE LAZY

Fuchsias, June plants of the month at South Coast Botanic Garden, are the darlings of all lazy gardeners. Named for German herbalist Leonard Fuchs, containers as accent they grow for people with brown thumbs or all thumbs, as well as for professional gardeners.

Coastal climates are ideal for growing the finest fuchsias, shade plants which cover large areas, form a "tree," or a bush, or hang down in basket containers as accent plants. Many colors and bicolors are available. Fuchsias are bothered by few pests and respond well to a minimum of care.

Exhibit opens June 8 at South Coast Botanic Garden, 26701 Rolling Hills Road, Palos Verdes Peninsula. It is open on Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

MIDWINTER BLOSSOM

Among the several plants for midwinter indoor blossom is the delicate lily-of-the-valley. This fragrant plant requires little effort by the grower, but to force the hardy bulbs to blossom it is necessary to put them through a period of "cold storage." This "fake winter" should start after cool weather comes in the fall and last six to ten weeks. If properly done, roots develop into the extensive network necessary for successful forcing of bloom.

THE CHINCH BUG

UC Study Shows Turf Pest Easily Controlled

Research results indicate a new Southland turf pest — the southern chinch bug — can be controlled easily.

The pest has severely damaged St. Augustine grass lawns in some Southland areas. It was first detected in Southern California less than two years ago.

Frank S. Morishita, entomology technician at the University of California, said results of his research on the pest show several chemicals will hold the pest in check. He reported on his study at the Eleventh Annual Conference of the Department of Entomology, UCR.

LAST YEAR Morishita studied the pest's infestation of the Whittier area where about 75 percent of the lawns are St. Augustine grass. His research results show that a single application in June of Akton, Ethion, Diazinon or Dursban will provide adequate control of the pest. All are granular materials which will control the chinch bugs for two or three months, according to Morishita.

Insecticides act against the nymph stage of the pest. The nymph count in the Southland starts rising rapidly in April. Although the one-shot chemical treatment appears to do the job, Morishita said the pest were in his lawn he probably would apply one of the granular materials once in April and again in August.

As is the case of many turf pests, he added, good cultural practices also help to reduce lawn damage by the southern chinch bug. The pest seems to hit where the grass stand is the weakest.

Morishita's study showed the level of chinch bug infestation varied greatly from lawn to lawn in the Whittier area. One lawn he checked had about 1,000 chinch nymphs per square foot.

Annual asters more than hold their own when compared with zinnias as cut flowers. They additionally provide some needed tone of blue colors such as lavenders, purple shades, as well as deep magentas, in the sunny garden.

Gardeners have quite a choice of flowers to select. None-the-less, check with your local nurseryman about the Giant Congo, American Beauty, Pompom, Powder Puffs, Giant Branching, California Giants, Fluffy Ruffles and Dwarf asters that grow about 10 inches tall and are ideal for edgings and low beds, in colors now of white and blue. Of the kinds of asters mentioned, one of our gardener friends seemed to think the powder-puff asters blooms stayed fresh longer as cut flowers, also lasted longer on the plants.

ASTERS TEND to be a little on the prima-donnish side. They should be planted between lawn sprinkler heads to avoid being kept more moist when they're not thirsty, if the flower bed is close to the lawn. They'll grow better if they're kept on the dry side and watered only when they really thirst. The smallest plants with least root disturbance when setting them out get a better growth start. "Least root disturbance" means to carefully break off the individual plant root balls rather than cut the root balls into inch size squares, from flats or pony paks.

HOT WEATHER means lawns and plants thirst sooner. The answer to moisture conservation is to mulch, top dress, to apply one of the fine organic materials. It filters and washes down between the leaf stalks of dichondra or blades of grass lawn, serves as an insulant material, saves on frequency of watering, possibly provides a light feeding action, helps the lawns to grow lush, and withstand hot weather better.

The top-dressing idea definitely would help an immature struggling seed sown or clumps planted dichondra lawn cover the soil quicker. It prevents the covered bare soil from baking and cracking, maintains more even moisture content in the soil and teases the dichondra runner branches to grow together over the mulch much faster than they normally would grow over the hard, dry bare soil areas.

We have seen a home owner periodically cover a strip of soil with steer manure at the edge of a small sector of dichondra lawn and kept it moist like an immature lawn. Soon as the rascally dichondra runner branches had almost grown across the manure covered strip of soil, she would spread another similar strip layer of manure. She kept this up until the rest of the area was completely covered by the dichondra.

Shrubs and flowers would grow better and need less frequent watering if they too were mulched.

LAWNS PESTS such as moth worms in grass lawn or cutworms or one of the other chewing types in dichondra can damage the neat appearance of such lawns. Stomach type spray properly applied as per directions on the spray bottle labels kills those pests. This doesn't mean the spraying lasts for the whole active growing season. Later, a new infestation can occur.

Some turf fertilizers contain such an insecticide which serves the same purpose as would an insecticide spray, excepting the material dissolves into the lawn slower, hence has a longer lasting effect.

Here's the reason, when you purchase plants at other sources than a nursery, the plants may be good and you might buy at less cost and think it a bargain. But should something go wrong with some of the plants, more often than not you can't find out what's wrong from such source, because the salesman may not be a horticulturist and may not know plants. Buy from your local nurseryman who is interested in selling you the best plants possible, and willing to help you with your garden problems. He's your garden's best friend.

MIDWINTER BLOSSOM

Among the several plants for midwinter indoor blossom is the delicate lily-of-the-valley. This fragrant plant requires little effort by the grower, but to force the hardy bulbs to blossom it is necessary to put them through a period of "cold storage." This "fake winter" should start after cool weather comes in the fall and last six to ten weeks. If properly done, roots develop into the extensive network necessary for successful forcing of bloom.

THE CHINCH BUG

UC Study Shows Turf Pest Easily Controlled

Research results indicate a new Southland turf pest — the southern chinch bug — can be controlled easily.

The pest has severely damaged St. Augustine grass lawns in some Southland areas. It was first detected in Southern California less than two years ago.

Frank S. Morishita, entomology technician at the University of California, said results of his research on the pest show several chemicals will hold the pest in check. He reported on his study at the Eleventh Annual Conference of the Department of Entomology, UCR.

LAST YEAR Morishita studied the pest's infestation of the Whittier area where about 75 percent of the lawns are St. Augustine grass. His research results show that a single application in June of Akton, Ethion, Diazinon or Dursban will provide adequate control of the pest. All are granular materials which will control the chinch bugs for two or three months, according to Morishita.

Insecticides act against the nymph stage of the pest. The nymph count in the Southland starts rising rapidly in April. Although the one-shot chemical treatment appears to do the job, Morishita said if the pest were in his lawn he probably would apply one of the granular materials once in April and again in August.

As is the case of many turf pests, he added, good cultural practices also help to reduce lawn damage by the southern chinch bug. The pest seems to hit where the grass stand is the weakest.

Morishita's study showed the level of chinch bug infestation varied greatly from lawn to lawn in the Whittier area. One lawn he checked had about 1,000 chinch nymphs per square foot.

Q. My Goldbeck variety apricot tree about 9 years old bears only 8 to 12 apricots a season. The fruit is large, about the size of peaches. I have tried pruning the tree severely, also very lightly with no increased fruit yield. Paul M. Combs.

A. Tree would be happier in drier area. However, unless it is growing in a lawn. Yes you can help the tree provide more fruit. Late October soak soil around tree. Day or two later, scatter evenly two cups of bone meal for each inch of tree trunk diameter. Lightly scratch in with cultivator. For that old apricot tree, spread evenly one inch layer of manure, soak slowly and thoroughly. Few days later soak again, then water as needed. Late January feed it 2 cups of a balanced plant food containing less nitrogen than phosphoric acid to each inch of tree trunk diameter and soak well. Repeat soaking few days later if no rain. Three months later apply only half amount of balanced plant food.

Q. Any solutions to following two questions? I — Hundreds, maybe thousands of rabbits nibble at the grass here in Leisure World. Do they do any damage to the grass? We know they devour anything else we plant except onions, garlic, and parsley. We wonder if they eat the roots of grass, the dichondra.

A. They eat the top grass? Mrs. S. P. Martin.

A. They eat the top grass. Use rabbit-deer repellent. Ask Nurseryman.

2.—My son in the Santa Monica Mountains (Bel Air) this month was having the same problem with the precious little squirrels, four at a time on top of his vines, apparently nibbling all the white blossoms, and on the ground apparently eating dichondra, as bare spots appear.

A. If they eat the flowers, ask nurseryman for nicotine sulphate and spray. Direction on container label. Spray lawn too if such is the condition.

Q. Enclosed is a rose leaf from one of my rose bushes which I've sprayed once a week with Bordeaux, next week with Malathion, ever since foliage leafed out. Not many insect pests because I spray lower and upper sides of the foliage, even so this orange stuff seems immune to either one of the poisons. What is it and how to get rid of the same? J. C. Hamel

A. It is the dreaded rust disease. Frequent superficial waterings of the roses are one of the contributory causes. It is best to soak the roses 18 to 20 inches deep, not as often. Hand pick off all the leaves off the bushes and the ground. Check with your nurseryman for a fungicide spray that lists "rust" as one of several kinds of fungus diseases that spray controls. Thoroughly spray drench all parts of the plants, also the soil all around those infested bushes. Repeat the sprayings as directed on the fungicide container label. Remember, don't water the roses lightly and often, instead much less often and deeper!

Q. My beautiful Philodendron specimen looks healthy, and has grown from 10 inches to over 4 feet in less than once year. Occasionally a developing leaf fails to completely unfold, the leaf stem is soft instead of stiff like the rest of the leaves. What causes this? Once a month it gets vitamin B-1 plus, and fish-oil liquid fertilizer.

A. Pass up the vitamin doses, and feed once every two months. Don't keep the soil constantly moist. Water thoroughly when soil dries. Empty saucer or jardiniere the pot sets on or in, an hour or so after plant has been watered. Pot should set on couple of prone inch square size stakes, on inside saucer bottom, or on the inside of a jardiniere bottom.

Q. I'm a member of the Belmont Heights Garden Club and always read your column and find it very helpful. I'd like to submit a garden question as follows: there is a tiny little white fly that seems to suck the life out of leaves of my string beans and boyenberries. The result is that they stunt the growth of the berries and cause the beans to dry up and not mature. When the vines are touched they emit a white cloud of these little flies. Later on in the season the leaves turn brown and drop off. They also affect the summer squashes. I'm afraid to use dusting powders, especially on the berries, and am wondering if there is an insecticide that would be safe to use? Mrs. Agnes Hemphill.

A. Malathion is a liquid insecticide which you can use on fruits and vegetables for those white flies that are sap-sucking destructive pests. It is fast acting and quick dissipating. Harvest the fruit about five days later, wash thoroughly before using. The vegetable dusts are recommended as safe for fruits and vegetables. Be sure to read the container's labels and use only as directed.

HELPFUL HINTS ON HORTICULTURE

Canellias, azaleas, gardenias, citrus or any other plants in pots or tubs should be deeply watered and properly. Fill the containers with water slowly, three or four times and count those water fillings as a one unit drink of water. Thorough watering leaches out any possible sodium alkali build up in the plants root balls areas. Such watering from spring through fall season actually saves on frequency of watering, too.

With sharp stream of water-hose spray hedges, shrubs and any plants that withstand such force spray of water. They should be hosed off several times a month. Such hosing dislodges leaves that nest in branch crotches. Insect pests that may have started to nest in those areas are dislodged and seek other areas undisturbed by such watering.

YOU CAN start St. Augustine lawn in your grass lawn. Mow your lawn close. Soak well. Day or two later dump flat of St. Augustine grass upside down on the walk or driveway. Tear apart the runners. Break or cut the runners several inches long. Be sure there are a couple of joints which are slightly thick swelling. Jab the screw driver on a slant downward into the lawn soil about an inch deep. Push the joint into the soil and firm with fingers. Spacing depends upon how quickly you want that lawn to cover. Spread evenly one sack of steer manure per each 200 square feet and keep moist.

OTHER HINTS: Continue pinching fall blooming chrysanthemums. Pinch each time the plants have developed two to three sets of leaves. Pinching forces more branch growths. You don't pinch the commercial or exhibition mums as recommended for the other types.

Get that new lawn in, or re-do the old one soon as you can, before the hot weather begins.

DIG UP the finished blooming gladiolus bulbs. Cut off the foliage whether they are green or dead. Leave the soil on them. Dust the bulbs with a combination insecticide and fungicide. Put them in a paper sack and store in the shade in garage or tool shed. Several weeks later take them out, clean off the soil and dry husks. Dust the bulbs again and store them till late in the year to be replanted in the garden.

Plant roses from containers into the ground. Mix some organic material, and handful of bone meal with the soil. Be sure the bud union area where all the branches emanate from is above the ground level.

FUCHSIAS—DARLING OF THE LAZY

Fuchsias, June plants of the month at South Coast Botanic Garden, are the darlings of all lazy gardeners. Named for German herbalist Leonard Fuchs, containers as accent, they grow for people with brown thumbs or all thumbs, as well as for professional gardeners.

Coastal climates are ideal for growing the finest fuchsias, shade plants which cover large areas, form a "tree," or a bush, or hang down in basket containers as accent plants. Many colors and bicolors are available. Fuchsias are bothered by few pests and respond well to a minimum of care.

Exhibit opens June 8 at South Coast Botanic Garden, 26701 Rolling Hills Road, Palos Verdes Peninsula. It is open on Thursdays and Fridays from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. and on Saturdays and Sundays from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. There is no admission charge.

Steve Allen--He Began It All

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Quick, name the performer who has starred on his own television shows more than any other.

Hint: He has appeared as a regular in panel and game shows, audience participating shows, late-night talk fests, weekly hour variety skeins and announced wrestling matches.

Answer: Steve Allen. Steverino has been on the tube in 11 separate series since 1948, all but one of which survived at least a year. Five of them were titled, not too originally, "The Steve Allen Show."

"It's a dubious record," Allen agreed amiably, "but a record nonetheless."

"When I gave up announcing the Los Angeles wrestling matches I had a local show titled 'The Country Store.' It lasted only eight weeks. I might bring it back to prove you can keep almost anything on television for a year."

STEVE ALLEN
Years of Laughter

True, if you make certain Steve Allen is part of the show.

He was a panelist with "I've Got A Secret" and "What's My Line," a pair of long-run hits. His other shows have featured Allen in robust comedy, satire, slapstick — the entire gamut of humor.

Most of his work is ad lib, and Allen clearly enjoys a spontaneous mot as much as his audience.

He and Red Skelton are about the only top comedians who laugh at their own jokes. "I laugh at myself because some of the things I say I'm hearing for the first time, just like the audience," Allen says.

PERHAPS more than any other television celebrity, Ed Sullivan notwithstanding, Allen has provided a showcase for newcomers who have gone on to become stars. Sullivan has done his share, but many acts that appear on his show are forgotten immediately.

Allen, for better or worse, has presented:

The Smothers Brothers, The Supremes, Jim Nabors, Bill Dana, Andy Williams, Steve Lawrence and Edy Gorme, Louis Nye, Tom Poston, Don Knotts, Don Adams, Jackie Vernon, Elaine May and Mike Nichols, Jack Jones, Lou Rawls and Mariam Makima — there are half-a-hundred others.

Steve admits he has a special feeling for young talent.

"IT BEGAN years ago," he said. "I was growing up when my parents were in vaudeville. I hung around backstage and soon developed a sensitivity to real talent."

"When you spend as much time as I did around show business, you can tell the real talent — which I respect deeply — from those who don't have it."

Allen's new "Steve Allen Show" is syndicated in more than 50 cities, showing at a variety of times from 9 a.m. to as late as 11 p.m. Like his other efforts, Allen's 90 minutes of grab-bag humor and fun is something he invented for television.

He blazed the trail. Others just followed the arrows.

BIT PARTS: Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Jackie Gleason will co-star in "The Bride Wore Blinks" in Florida and Ireland. Martha Raye has been made an honorary nurse in the U.S. Army Reserve thanks to her many trips to Vietnam. Zsa Zsa Gabor will play a guest star role in an early segment of "Bracken's World," the new NBC-TV series.

MUSICAL AWARD OF MERIT

PRODUCER SELIGMAN DIES

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Selig J. Seligman, independent motion picture producer, author and former vice president of the American Broadcasting Co., died Saturday at his home of a heart attack. He was 51.

Prior to becoming a producer, Seligman was president of a wholly owned production subsidiary of the ABC.

He was born in New York City and graduated cum laude from New York University in 1937. He received a master's degree, also cum laude, from Harvard Law School.

Between 1941 and 1943 he was on the legal staff of the War Production Board, then spent 20 months in Europe with the Third Army's signal intelligence corps.

After leaving the Army, Seligman served as a prosecuting attorney at the Nuremberg war trials and joined the State Department as an attorney.

In 1946 he joined the legal division of Paramount Pictures in New York, becoming assistant to the vice president in charge of theaters.

He joined ABC in Los Angeles in 1953 as a writer-producer and was named general manager of KABC-TV, Los Angeles, in 1955. He became a vice president of ABC in 1958 and formed his own company in 1960.

Recent feature releases of his company include "Charly" and "Hell in the Pacific." He was executive producer of many ABC-TV series, including "Combat," "Garrison's Gorillas," "Day in Court" and "General Hospital."

Survivors include his widow Muriel and five children.

A photography contest is underway for children who record their impressions of vast Irvine Ranch, now having a "Pathways to Progress" week open house. Black and white and color photographs must be entered by June 30 to compete for trophies and plaques, it was announced.

The Irvine Ranch open house features four tours over its 84,000 acres of farm, industrial, residential and commercial developments. The event ends Sunday evening.

Steve Allen--He Began It All

By VERNON SCOTT

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Quick, name the performer who has starred on his own television shows more than any other.

Hint: He has appeared as a regular in panel and game shows, audience participating shows, late-night talk fests, weekly hour variety skeins and announced wrestling matches.

Answer: Steve Allen. Steverino has been on the tube in 11 separate series since 1948, all but one of which survived at least a year. Five of them were titled, not too originally, "The Steve Allen Show."

"It's a dubious record," Allen agreed amiably, "but a record nonetheless."

"When I gave up announcing the Los Angeles wrestling matches I had a local show titled 'The Country Store.' It lasted only eight weeks. I might bring it back to prove you can keep almost anything on television for a year."

STEVE ALLEN
Years of Laughter

True, if you make certain Steve Allen is part of the show.

He was a panelist with "I've Got A Secret" and "What's My Line," a pair of long-run hits. His other shows have featured Allen in robust comedy, satire, slapstick — the entire gamut of humor.

Most of his work is ad lib, and Allen clearly enjoys a spontaneous mot as much as his audience.

He and Red Skelton are about the only top comedians who laugh at their own jokes. "I laugh at myself because some of the things I say I'm hearing for the first time, just like the audience," Allen says.

PERHAPS more than any other television celebrity, Ed Sullivan notwithstanding, Allen has provided a showcase for newcomers who have gone on to become stars. Sullivan has done his share, but many acts that appear on his show are forgotten immediately.

Allen, for better or worse, has presented:

"The Smothers Brothers, The Supremes, Jim Nabors, Bill Dana, Andy Williams, Steve Lawrence and Edye Gorme, Louis Nye, Tom Poston, Don Knotts, Don Adams, Jackie Vernon, Elaine May and Mike Nichols, Jack Jones, Lou Rawls and Mariam Makima — there are half-a-hundred others.

Steve admits he has a special feeling for young talent.

"IT BEGAN years ago," he said. "I was growing up when my parents were in vaudeville. I hung around backstage and soon developed a sensitivity to real talent."

"When you spend as much time as I did around show business, you can tell the real talent — which I respect deeply — from those who don't have it."

Allen's new "Steve Allen Show" is syndicated in more than 50 cities, showing at a variety of times from 9 a.m. to as late as 11 p.m. Like his other efforts, Allen's 90 minutes of grab-bag humor and fun is something he invented for television.

He blazed the trail. Others just followed the arrows.

BIT PARTS: Bob Hope, Bing Crosby and Jackie Gleason will co-star in "The Bride Wore Binkers" in Florida and Ireland... Martha Raye has been made an honorary nurse in the U.S. Army Reserve thanks to her many trips to Vietnam... Zsa Zsa Gabor will play a guest star role in an early segment of "Bracken's World," the new NBC-TV series...

MUSICAL AWARD OF MERIT

PRODUCER SELIGMAN DIES

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — Selig J. Seligman, independent motion picture producer, author and former vice president of the American Broadcasting Co., died Saturday at his home of a heart attack. He was 51.

Prior to becoming a producer, Seligman was president of a wholly owned production subsidiary of the ABC.

A photography contest is underway for children who record their impressions of vast Irvine Ranch, now having a "Pathways to Progress" week open house. Black and white and color photographs must be entered by June 30 to compete for trophies and plaques, it was announced.

The Irvine Ranch open house features four tours over its 84,000 acres of farm, industrial, residential and commercial developments. The event ends Sunday evening.

He was born in New York City and graduated cum laude from New York University in 1937. He received a master's degree, also cum laude, from Harvard Law School.

Between 1941 and 1943 he was on the legal staff of the War Production Board, then spent 20 months in Europe with the Third Army's signal intelligence corps.

After leaving the Army Seligman served as a prosecuting attorney at the Nuremberg war trials and joined the State Department as an attorney.

In 1946 he joined the legal division of Paramount Pictures in New York, becoming assistant to the vice president in charge of theaters.

He joined ABC in Los Angeles in 1953 as a writer-producer and was named general manager of KABC-TV, Los Angeles, in 1955. He became a vice president of ABC in 1958 and formed his own company in 1960.

Recent feature releases of his company include "Charly" and "Hell in the Pacific." He was executive producer of many ABC-TV series, including "Combat," "Garrison's Gorillas," "Day in Court" and "General Hospital."

Survivors include his widow Muriel and five children.

Filmmaker Tells It All ---Bluntly

SAN ANTONIO (AP) — Veteran film director John Ford, 74, proved to be a man who speaks his mind when he arrived here for a citation as "Mr. American Cinema."

Today's movies are inferior to those of two decades ago, and so are current box-office stars, Ford said.

He was honored for his contributions to American cinema Wednesday night during awards ceremonies at HemisFair, an international film festival at St. Mary's University.

FORD, WHO has directed more than 200 movies, said he would consider it a mortal sin to direct some of the "dirty pictures" of today. "They really aren't making money on those pictures—the people in the Middle West won't go to see them," he said.

Asked how today's stars compare with those of yesteryear, Ford replied: "I should say no comment, but I'll say they don't compare."

Hayes Defends Legislature on Property Tax Accusation

By BILL MAYER

From Our L.A. Bureau

Assemblyman James A. Hayes (R-Long Beach) blasted Chairman Ernest E. Debs of the Board of Supervisors Friday for suggesting the State Legislature is stalling on property tax relief.

In a letter to Debs, Hayes said he has personally spent "hundreds of hours" trying to find ways to shift some of the tax burden from the property owner. Hayes is a member of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

"Apparently," he wrote Debs, "your action is intended to have the effect of informing the people that your board is for property tax relief, while the Legislature is dragging its feet."

The letter stated the committee is weighing a number of measures. This approach, it suggested, is likely to lead to success, and sniping from the sidelines will not.

"If property tax relief can be effected in this session," Hayes wrote, "I believe it will come about as a result of thoughtful work. I believe it will not come about as a result of your ill-disguised efforts to mislead the public into thinking we are not seriously trying to accomplish tax reform."

Another sharp comment came from Supervisor Kenneth Hahn, who stated:

"I think Assemblyman Hayes is starting to feel the pressure, and pressure is what Sacramento needs if the homeowners are going to get meaningful tax relief. Every year, assemblymen and senators, as well as Gov. Ronald Reagan, have campaigned for tax relief but none so far has been voted."

Hearings on the subject will resume before the committee next week. Supervisor Warren Dorn will be there to press measures the board thinks will be most helpful.

Copies of the Hayes letter were sent to the five board members.

HIGHWAY IMPROVEMENTS

Newport Freeway Reroute, L.A. County Project OK'd

Revised routing of 2.2 miles of the Newport Freeway (California Route 55) in Orange County was announced Friday by the State Highway Commission.

At the same time, the State Department of Public Works announced a total of $1,871,000 will be included in the next State Highway budget to assist in construction or improvement of local roads in seven cities in Los Angeles County.

The newly-aligned "Red-Blue" section of Newport Freeway would run parallel to and west of Superior Avenue, from Route 1 Freeway in Newport Beach to Bay Street in Costa Mesa.

Highway Commission Chairman Vernon J. Cristina said the change in routing was made at request of residents and local government officials in the area. It will permit Newport Boulevard to continue in use as a major arterial. The total segment of 4.6 miles will cost $39.9 million for rights-of-way and about $20.8 million for construction.

Among the L.A. County projects to be budgeted is widening of Alondra Boulevard, and reconstruction as a four-lane divided highway with two additional parking or travel lanes between Paramount Boulevard in Paramount and Virginia Avenue in Bellflower, a distance of 1.25 miles. State funds will finance half the project's $740,000 cost, with $212,000 and $158,000 going to Paramount and Bellflower, respectively.

ALONDRA, which extends between Normandie Avenue in Gardena to La Mirada Boulevard at the Orange County line, provides direct connection between 10 cities.

Another project on Alondra Boulevard will widen it to four lanes, divided by a 14-foot median with two additional parking or travel lanes, between Shoemaker Avenue and Marquardt Avenue in Santa Fe Springs, a distance of one mile.

This section of Alondra traverses what is now generally dairy land but which is rapidly becoming a commercial and residential area. Its present 1,000-vehicles-daily traffic flow is expected to double in the next 10 years. The state and city will share equally the project's $620,000 estimated cost.

WIDENING of the South Street Bridge across the San Gabriel River and its approaches in Cerritos and Lakewood to four lanes, divided by a raised median with two additional parking or travel lanes, is budgeted at $382,000, with Cerritos to receive $173,000 and Lakewood $18,000 as their respective shares.

Improvement of this route between the river and Carmenita Avenue in Cerritos was recently completed with the aid of State Highway funds.

When fully developed, South Street will extend approximately 37 miles from Redondo Beach in Los Angeles County to the Yorba Linda Freeway (Route 42) in Orange County.

YOUTH CORPS HAS 140 JOB OPENINGS

Norwalk-La Mirada Unified School District has been provided with 140 summer job openings for students who can qualify under the Neighborhood Youth Corps (NYC) Program. It was reported Friday.

Main objective of the program is to keep the enrollees in school and provide part-time work training experience.

To qualify for an NYC job, an applicant's family income in relation to total number in the family is considered, and he or she must be enrolled in a high school of the district as of September 1969. This includes eighth-grade graduates who have registered for next fall's classes.

The program is sponsored by the Economic Youth Opportunities Agency (EYOA) and is federally funded. Selected students will work in the elementary schools as tutorial aides.

Hayes Defends Legislature on Property Tax Accusation

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

Assemblyman James A. Hayes (R-Long Beach) blasted Chairman Ernest E. Debs of the Board of Supervisors Friday for suggesting the State Legislature is stalling on property tax relief.

In a letter to Debs, Hayes said he has personally spent "hundreds of hours" trying to find ways to shift some of the tax burden from the property owner. Hayes is a member of the Assembly Revenue and Taxation Committee.

"Apparently," he wrote Debs, "your action is intended to have the effect of informing the people that your board is for property tax relief, while the Legislature is dragging its feet."

The letter stated the committee is weighing a number of measures. This approach, it suggested, is likely to lead to success, and sniping from the sidelines will not.

MINNESOTA TO PHOENIX A $1 MILLION MOVE

Hawkins: An Outcast No More

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Connie Hawkins flew to his new National Basketball Assn. home Friday, after "seven years in a fantasy land."

At 10:30 this (Friday) morning, the papers were signed and Connie Hawkins became a member of the Phoenix Suns," said Phoenix general manager Jerry Colangelo.

Hawkins made the jump from the American Basketball Assn., where he has played the past two years, in exchange for a five-year contract, an undisclosed sum of money (reported to be more than $1 million) and his agreement to drop a $6 million lawsuit against the NBA.

The suit dates back to his college career in 1961 with Iowa. He was barred by the NBA for allegedly introducing a gambler to a fellow player.

"The negotiations have been very tense, very exciting," the 28-year-old, 6-foot-8 forward said. "I'm glad the seven years have gone by."

"It's been like seven years in a fantasy land," he said, referring to the years spent after the gambling scandal and playing for the Harlem Globetrotters and Minnesota Pipers.

"I still think it's a dream. It's kind of hard to believe I'm here now," he said.

"I was hoping desperately a settlement could be reached. I was so excited I couldn't sleep at all last night."

Hawkins left the ABA, which had selected him its most valuable player, with kind words.

"The feeling among most ABA players is the league is improving each year," he said.

Colangelo said Hawkins would return to Phoenix next week for the rookie camp, but will not work out until fully recovered from a knee operation.

"Connie fits directly into our kind of ball club — a fast club," coach Johnny Kerr said. "I think we can build a winner," Hawkins added. NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy said he has approved the contract with Hawkins.

Carlos Wins 100; Kansas in Lead

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — San Jose State sprinter John Carlos whipped defending champion Lennox Miller of USC in the 100-yard dash final in 9.2 seconds Friday, as Kansas piled up points in the team race at the NCAA Track and Field Championships.

Carlos, who had promised to try to become the first runner ever to crack the 9-second barrier, shook his head in frustration after the time was posted.

However, he still has a shot at a world record in the 220 today.

The controversial speedster, thrown out of the Olympic Village last fall, also anchored the San Jose State 440 relay team which set the pace in the trials with a 38.8 clocking, only two-tenths of a second off USC's world record. USC won its heat in 39.3.

Kansas jumped into the team lead with the help of a 1-2 sweep in the shotput, where Karl Saib won with a toss of 64 feet, 9 inches and Steven Wilhelm was second with 63-6 1/2, and with Stan Whitley's second-place in the long jump at 26-7.

Whitley was beaten by Jerry Proctor of Redlands, who surprised his big school rivals with a leap of 26-11 1/2.

Proctor, who also is the NAIA champion, bettered the NCAA meet record by 2 1/2 inches, but the mark was nullified because of a favoring wind of 6.7 miles an hour.

"This jump was my best ever," said Proctor, who credited advice from former Olympic champion Ralph Boston with helping him stretch his distance.

Kansas, expected to battle San Jose State for the team title, is counting on distance ace Jim Ryun in today's 13-event finale. Ryun, world record holder in the mile, will try for an unprecedented sweep of the mile and three-mile.

Kansas piled up 30 points after the first two days of the meet, with Oregon State second at 20, Villanova third with 17, and San Jose State fourth with 16.

Tennessee had 14, Washington State 14, UCLA 13 and Oregon 12.

Oregon State's Steve Barkley won the day's final event, the 3,000-meter steeplechase, in 8:44.4.

CONSIDERS FOOTBALL, FILMS
Carlos: Gold, Not Gold Medals

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — John Carlos is a man fishing around for a future.

Maybe it's football — "people are talking about me." Maybe it's television — "what if I go on TV, acting, or on one of the talk shows?" asks the San Jose State sprinter.

Carlos won the 100-yard dash here Friday in 9.2, something less than the 9.0 or "eight-something" he had hoped for in the NCAA track and field championships.

"I'm satisfied," Carlos said. "I was disappointed in the time, but I'm satisfied. The main thing is trying to win the championship for the school. Unless I get sick tonight, I am going to win the 220 tomorrow."

As always, Carlos was a crowd pleaser. He works at it.

"It's just me," Carlos said. "I believe in being good to the fans. After all, they come and spend their money."

Maybe it's his New York background, where money was hard to come by that makes the green stuff loom large in Carlos' mind. He makes no secret that he figures football would be a good road to hitting the big money.

"I don't care where I play," he said to the question of where he would rather go.

"I'm not prejudiced. I'll go where the money is," Carlos said.

Carlos figures he also would make it on television if he got a chance as an actor. There's no doubt that the big sprinter has a flare for the dramatic, and he plays everything to his audience.

"Most of the guys think about the events," said Carlos. "But I think about the people, too."

Combined News Services
The experts of boxing are having a field day picking the winner of the Jerry Quarry-Joe Frazier fight Monday night.

Rocky Marciano, retired heavyweight champion, picks Frazier.

"Quarry has a good right and left and can punch, but Frazier has the experience and the ability to win and continue winning," Marciano said.

"All you have to do is compare the records. Frazier has fought much better opponents than Quarry."

On the other hand a man who has seen Quarry close, Jimmy Ellis' manager, Angelo Dundee, doesn't have any doubts about who is going to win the fight.

"Quarry is a cinch to beat Frazier, and I'm not biased, either."

Ellis fought Quarry last year to win the World Boxing Assn. title.

The fight between Quarry and Ellis last year for the WBA title was about as dull as any heavyweight match in history, and even Dundee admits that.

"Can Frazier fight the way Ellis did?" Dundee

asked. "Frazier won't wait. He'll move in on Quarry, and nobody can get away with that. The worst thing in the world for us would be to have Quarry win, but that's what's going to happen. Ellis is the only guy in the world who can beat Quarry."

Quarry says he is a different fighter from the one who lost to Ellis.

"I was at the bottom after that fight," Quarry said. "I knew I had to change, and when I fight now I'm aggressive. I don't wait for the other man. Frazier should be knocked out by the fifth round."

"You go foolin' around, and you won't be around for five," Frazier retorts.

"The title is split and we want to get it settled as soon as possible," Dundee said. "But if Quarry wins it would only delay getting the two champions together."

Dundee said Ellis has been working out in the gym every day for more than two months, preparing for a title fight that still hasn't been signed. Sonny Liston is the most likely opponent for Ellis.

Angels, Chisox Divide

Alomar Delivers Key Hit in Opener
By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

Sandy Alomar didn't mind when the Chicago White Sox swapped him to the Angels. But he didn't like it a bit when the Sox popped off about his hitting.

"They said I was a sloppy hitter," Little Sandy smiled after his 12th-inning single scored Roger Repoz with the winning run in a 2-1 victory over the White Sox in the opener of Friday night's two-night doubleheader.

Paul Edmondson hurled a two-hitter in his major league debut as the White Sox scored four times in the third and ninth innings to drub the Angels 9-1 to gain a standoff in the nightcap.

ANGEL OF DAY
SANDY ALOMAR singled in the winning run in the 12th inning of the first game against the White Sox, won by the Angels, 2-1.

"The manager (Don Gutteridge) said all I ever got was little bloop hits that didn't mean a thing," Alomar went on. "He said I couldn't drive in anyone from second base."

So, for the time being at least, Alomar has the laugh on Gutteridge and the Sox.

It was the first run-in between the Angels and White Sox since the May 14 deal that sent Bobby Knop, the popular second baseman, to Chicago for Alomar.

Alomar was hitless his first four times to the plate while Tom Murphy and Chicago's Tommy John struggled 10 innings with a 1-1 draw.

Finally, in the 12th and the game still at 1-1, Repoz walked and was sacrificed to second by the eventual winning pitcher Ken Tatum.

Gutteridge admitted later he never considered walking Alomar and the Little Puerto Rican promptly slipped one, though the middle to score Repoz.

"I feel just great about it," Sandy said after the win. "It's not that I have anything against the White Sox for trading me. Not at all. I've been traded before."

"But when I read in the papers what Gutteridge said about my hitting, well, I wasn't happy about it."

Sandy has batted lead-off ever since coming to the Angels and it's a little tough driving in runs batting No. 1. Still, he's driven in nine runs the last 14 games including the game-winner in Friday's opener.

Alomar is a switch-hitter, something he started on his own two years ago. "I want to beat every club," Alomar said, later admitting, "but I guess it's a little sweeter beating the White Sox."

Tatum entered the game in the 11th and went through six White Sox in a row and netted the win, his second without a loss since arriving in the bigs from Hawaii.

Lefty Phillips, the Angels' manager, says Tatum just might turn out to be quite a relief pitcher, something that's a little new to the 25-year-old Louisianan.

"I've always been a starter," he said, "so it's something I'm going to have to get used to."

"It really doesn't seem fair, though, that Murphy can pitch 10 great innings like he did and I come in and get the win." Tatum's ERA for nine appearances is a minute 0.55.

Murphy scattered 10 Chicago hits across his 10 innings but the best the Angels could do for him was Bubba Morton's bases empty home run, Bubba's third of the year.

"We won, that's the important thing," Murphy said. "We had chances to

Pete, Joe May Meet Next Week

NEW YORK (UPI) — A meeting between recently retired quarterback Joe Namath and pro football commissioner Pete Rozelle could take place "sometime next week," a spokesman for the commissioner's office announced Friday.

The spokesman emphasized that no definite date for a meeting has been arranged but that "sometime next week seems a likely possibility" when both men return here. Rozelle has been on a fishing vacation off the California coast while Namath is participating in a golf tournament at Seattle.

Representatives of both parties reportedly have been trying to arrange a meeting that might resolve the impasses between Rozelle and Namath that led to the quarterback's retirement June 6. At that time Namath revealed he had been ordered by Rozelle to sell his interest in his East Side nightclub or face suspension.

Namath decided to fight Rozelle's "sell or be suspended" order by announcing his retirement.

Rozelle said an investigation by the league revealed that Namath's club, Bachelors III, was frequented by known gamblers, who were using the place for bookmaking purposes.

Namath continues to emphasize that he has no plans to sell the night spot.

MINNESOTA TO PHOENIX A $1 MILLION MOVE

Hawkins: An Outcast No More

PHOENIX, Ariz. (AP) — Connie Hawkins flew to his new National Basketball Assn. home Friday, after "seven years in a fantasy land."

"At 10:30 this (Friday) morning the papers were signed and Connie Hawkins became a member of the Phoenix Suns," said Phoenix general manager Jerry Colangelo.

Hawkins made the jump from the American Basketball Assn., where he has played the past two years, in exchange for a five-year contract, an undisclosed sum of money (reported to be more than $1 million) and his agreement to drop a $6 million lawsuit against the NBA.

The suit dates back to his college career in 1961 with Iowa. He was barred by the NBA for allegedly introducing a gambler to a fellow player.

"The negotiations have been very tense, very exciting," the 28-year-old, 6-foot-8 forward said. "I'm glad the seven years have gone by."

"It's been like seven years in a fantasy land," he said, referring to the years spent after the gambling scandal and playing for the Harlem Globetrotters and Minnesota Pipers.

"I still think it's a dream. It's kind of hard to believe I'm here now," he said.

Hawkins left the ABA, which had selected him its most valuable player, with kind words.

"The feeling among most ABA players is the league is improving each year," he said.

Colangelo said Hawkins would return to Phoenix next week for the rookie camp, but will not work out until fully recovered from a knee operation.

"Connie fits directly into our kind of ball club — a fast club," coach Johnny Kerr said. "I think we can build a winner," Hawkins added.

NBA commissioner Walter Kennedy said he has approved the contract with Hawkins.

Dodgers' Streak at Four

Three Pitchers Cool Reds' Bats

CINCINNATI—Baseball people will tell you good pitching normally beats good hitting.

You can argue the point, but it was that way Friday night with the Dodgers beating Cincinnati, 4-2, for their fourth win in a row.

The Dodgers remained one game behind Western Division leader Atlanta, while the Reds fell four games off the pace and dropped from third to fourth place.

The Dodgers and Reds represent the classic confrontation of pitching vs. hitting. The earned run average of the Dodger staff entering the game was 2.77, best in the National League. The Reds came into the game with a team batting average of .290, easily the best in baseball, and had four regulars with batting averages higher than .330.

DODGER OF DAY

DON DRYSDALE gained his second victory in five days by defeating Cincinnati, 4-2.

Cincinnati's eight starters were hitting combined .310.

"I don't look at those averages," said Dodger winning pitcher Don Drysdale, who worked the first six innings and gave up three hits while gaining his second victory since Sunday and third of the season.

The Reds managed only seven hits, and they collected three of them in the seventh inning for two runs against Al McBean.

When McBean walked Pete Rose with one out in the eighth the Dodgers called on their stopper—Jim Brewer—who quickly disposed of the Reds to gain his ninth save of the season. He also had finished up in Drysdale's victory Sunday and lowered his earned run average to 1.74.

The Dodgers' pitching staff never has been in better shape this season with the recent strong performance by the veteran Drysdale, 32, and young Alan Foster, 22.

Both have won their last two starts—Foster pitching two shutouts while Drysdale has yielded only two runs in 11 $\frac{1}{2}$ innings since being removed from the disabled list last Friday.

They team with the consistent trio of Don Sutton, Ed Singer and Claude Osteen to give the Dodgers a brilliant staff.

If there is an underrated person in the pitching picture it is Brewer, who has been brilliant.

He has allowed only one run in his last nine relief appearances, covering 15 innings. In his last 14 outings he has three victories and six saves.

Brewer is a starting pitcher's best friend. When he came into the Dodger clubhouse Friday night the first person to greet him was Drysdale, who has just had a rub down and shower.

"Thanks, fireballer," said Drysdale. "Don't mention it," replied the good guy from Broken Arrow, Okla.

Drysdale defeated the Reds here on opening day but didn't win again until last Sunday. It was just two months ago he considered retirement but Drysdale now is encouraged.

"I'm throwing as hard as I ever had. Of course, the ball may not be getting there as fast," smiled Drysdale.

The Dodgers' hitting could best be described as timely, with Jim Lefebvre leading the way. His two-out single scored Tom Haller to give the Dodgers a run in the second inning.

Monty Wills had a two-out single in the fifth to score Lefebvre with the second run. Lefebvre had been working out in the gym every day for more than two months, preparing for a title fight that still hasn't been signed. Sonny Liston is the most likely opponent for Ellis.

"You go foolin' around, and you won't be around for five," Frazier retorts.

"The title is split and we want to get it settled as soon as possible," Dundee said. "But if Quarry wins it would only delay getting the two champions together."

"I was at the bottom after that fight," Quarry said. "I knew I had to change, and when I fight now I'm aggressive. I don't wait for the other man. Frazier should be knocked out by the fifth round."

Angels, Chisox Divide

By GORDON VERRELL
Staff Writer

Sandy Alomar didn't mind when the Chicago White Sox swapped him to the Angels. But he didn't like it a bit when the Sox popped off about his hitting.

"They said I was a sloppy hitter," little Sandy smiled after his 12th-inning single scored Roger Repoz with the winning run in a 2-1 victory over the White Sox in the opener of Friday night's two-night doubleheader.

Paul Edmondson hurled a two-hitter in his major league debut as the White Sox scored four times in the third and ninth innings to drub the Angels 9-1 to gain a standoff in the nightcap.

"The manager (Don Gutteridge) said all I ever got was little bloop hits that didn't mean a thing," Alomar went on. "He said I couldn't drive in anyone from second base."

So, for the time being at least Alomar has the laugh on Gutteridge and the Sox.

It was the first run-in between the Angels and White Sox since the May 14 deal that sent Bobby Knoop, the popular second baseman, to Chicago for Alomar.

Alomar was hitless his first four times to the plate while Tom Murphy and Chicago's Tommy John struggled 10 innings with a 1-all draw.

Finally, in the 12th and the game still at 1-1, Repoz walked and was sacrificed to second by the eventual winning pitcher Ken Tatum.

Gutteridge admitted later he never considered walking Alomar and the little Puerto Rican promptly stepped one though the middle to score Repoz.

"I feel just great about it," Sandy said after the win. "It's not that I have anything against the White Sox for trading me. Not at all. I've been traded before."

"But when I read in the papers what Gutteridge said about me hitting, well, I wasn't happy about it."

Sandy has batted lead-off ever since coming to the Angels and it's a little tough driving in runs batting No. 1. Still, he's driven in nine runs the last 14 games, including the game-winner in Friday's opener.

Alomar is a switch-hitter, something he started on his own two years ago. "I want to beat every club," Alomar said, later admitting, "but I guess it's a little sweeter beating the White Sox."

Tatum entered the game in the 11th and went through six White Sox in a row and earned the win, his second without a loss since arriving in the bigs from Hawaii.

Larry Phillips, the Angels' manager, says Tatum just might turn out to be quite a nice pitcher, something that's a little new to the 25-year-old Louisianan.

"I've always been a starter," he said, "so it's something I'm going to have to get used to."

"It really doesn't seem fair, though, that Murphy can pitch 10 great innings like he did and I come in and get the win," Tatum's ERA for nine appearances is a minuscule 0.55.

Murphy scattered 10 Chicago hits across his 10 innings but the best the Angels could do to him was Ruben Munton's bases empty home run, Ruben's third of the year.

"We won, that's the important thing," Murphy said. "We had chances to

Carlos Wins 100; Kansas in Lead

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (AP) — San Jose State sprinter John Carlos whipped defending champion Lennox Miller of USC in the 100-yard dash final in 9.2 seconds Friday, as Kansas piled up points in the team race at the NCAA Track and Field Championships.

Carlos, who had promised to try to become the first runner ever to crack the 9-second barrier, shook his head in frustration after the time was posted.

However, he still has a shot at a world record in the 220 today.

The controversial speedster, thrown out of the Olympic Village last fall, also anchored the San Jose State 440 relay team which set the pace in the trials with a 38.8 clocking, only two-tenths of a second off USC's world record. USC won its heat in 39.3.

Kansas jumped into the team lead with the help of a 1-2 sweep in the shotput, where Karl Salb won with a toss of 64 feet, 9 inches and Steven Wilhelm was second with 63-6 $\frac{1}{2}$, and with Stan Whitley's second-place in the long jump at 26-7.

Whitley was beaten by Jerry Proctor of Redlands, who surprised his big school rivals with a leap of 26-11 $\frac{1}{2}$.

Proctor, who also is the NAIA champion, bettered the NCAA meet record by 2 $\frac{1}{2}$ inches, but the mark was nullified because of a favoring wind of 6.7 miles an hour.

"This jump was my best ever," said Proctor, who credited advice from former Olympic champion Ralph Boston with helping him stretch his distance.

Kansas, expected to battle San Jose State for the team title, is counting on distance ace Jim Ryan in today's 13-event finale. Ryan, world record holder in the mile, will try for an unprecedented sweep of the mile and three-mile.

Kansas piled up 30 points after the first two days of the meet, with Oregon State second at 20, Villanova third with 17, and San Jose State fourth with 16.

Tennessee had 14, Washington State 14, UCLA 13 and Oregon 12.

Oregon State's Steve Barkley won the day's final event, the 3,000-meter steeplechase, in 8:44.4.

Carlos: Gold, Not Gold Medals

KNOXVILLE, Tenn. (UPI) — John Carlos is a man fishing around for a future.

Maybe it's football -- "people are talking about me." Maybe it's television -- "what if I go on TV, acting, or on one of the talk shows?" asks the San Jose State sprinter.

Carlos won the 100-yard dash here Friday in 9.2, something less than the 9.0 or "eight-something" he had hoped for in the NCAA track and field championships.

"I'm satisfied," Carlos said. "I was disappointed in the time, but I'm satisfied. The main thing is trying to win the championship for the school. Unless I get sick tonight, I am going to win the 220 tomorrow."

As always, Carlos was a crowd pleaser. He works at it.

"It's just me," Carlos said. "I believe in being good to the fans. After all, they come and spend their money."

Maybe it's his New York background, where money was hard to come by that makes the green stuff loom large in Carlos' mind. He makes no secret that he figures football would be a good road to hitting the big money.

"I don't care where I play," he said to the question of where he would rather go.

"I'm not prejudiced. I'll go where the money is," Carlos said.

Carlos figures he also would make it on television if he got a chance as an actor. There's no doubt that the big sprinter has a flare for the dramatic, and he plays everything to his audience.

Quarry Cinch to Win--Dundee; Frazier Has Edge -- Marciano

Combined News Services

The experts of boxing are having a field day picking the winner of the Jerry Quarry-Joe Frazier fight Monday night.

Rocky Marciano, retired heavyweight champion, picks Frazier.

"Quarry has a good right and left and can punch, but Frazier has the experience and the ability to win and routine winning," Marciano said.

"All you have to do is compare the records. Frazier has fought much better opponents than Quarry."

On the other hand a man who has seen Quarry close, Jimmy Ellis' manager, Angelo Dundee, doesn't have any doubts about who is going to win the fight.

"Quarry is a cinch to beat Frazier, and I'm not biased, either."

Ellis fought Quarry last year to win the World Boxing Assn. title.

The fight between Quarry and Ellis last year for the WBA title was about as dull as any heavyweight match in history, and even Dundee admits that.

"Can Frazier fight the way Ellis did?" Dundee

what's going to happen. Ellis is the only guy in the world who can beat Quarry."

Quarry says he is a different fighter from the one who lost to Ellis.

"I was at the bottom after that fight," Quarry said. "I knew I had to change, and when I fight now I'm aggressive. I don't wait for the other man. Frazier should be knocked out by the fifth round."

"You go foolin' around, and you won't be around for five," Frazier retorts.

"The title is split and we want to get it settled as soon as possible," Dundee said. "But if Quarry wins it would only delay getting the two champions together."

Dundee and Ellis has been working out in the gym every day for more than two months, preparing for a title fight that still hasn't been signed. Sonny Liston is the most likely opponent for Ellis.

FRAUDULENT ENLISTMENT?

Celtic Involved in Draft Row

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Jo Jo White, the Kansas all-American drafted by the Boston Celtics, may have fraudulently avoided the military draft to play pro basketball, a selective service official said Friday.

Arthur Kreisman, chairman of White's draft board in St. Louis, said White apparently joined a U.S. Marine Corps reserve program in Connecticut after he had received orders for induction.

The reserve program would require six months' active duty, while the draft would require two years of White's time.

"Kreisman explained that, if a youth enlists in a reserve program after he has received induction orders, he would be guilty of fraudulent enlistment. The reserve unit in Connecticut maintains that it had received clearance from White's draft board in St. Louis before he enlisted.

Kreisman commented on a copyrighted story in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat Friday that White was given help in avoiding the draft by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System.

White received his order of induction from his draft board "at least six or seven weeks ago," according to Kreisman. Kreisman said the exact date could not be released from White's selective service file.

Cubs Halt Skid, 2-0

CHICAGO (AP) — The Chicago Cubs broke a five-game losing streak Friday with a 2-0 victory over the Montreal Expos behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Hands.

Hands evened his record at 6-6 and hurled his first shutout of the season with the aid of inning-ending double plays in the sixth and seventh.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the first on a single by Paul Popovich, a double by Billy Williams and Ernie Banks, sacrifice fly.

The RBI was the 1,537th in Banks' career and lifted him into a tie with Joe DiMaggio for 15th place on the all-time list.

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Veteran Joaquin Loyo-Mayo of Southern California rallied to down Pat Cramer of Miami, and sophomore Mike Estep of Rice took a straight sets victory from Marcello Lara of USC Friday to enter the singles finals of the NCAA university division Tennis Championships.

Loyo-Mayo, who also advanced to the finals in doubles play, defeated Cramer, the tournament's No. 2 seed, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0, while Estep, upset victor over top-seeded Bob Lutz on Thursday, stopped Lara 6-1, 6-2.

Loyo-Mayo and Lara, teammates on Mexico's Davis Cup squad, combined to defeat UCLA's Haroon Rahim and Jeff Borowiak, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Sawchuk, Snow Sent to Rangers

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Sawchuk, the 39-year-old goalie who holds the National Hockey League record for career shutouts with 102, was obtained by the New York Rangers from the Detroit Red Wings in a three-player trade Friday.

The Rangers, who finished third in the circuit's East Division last season, also acquired Sandy Snow, a right winger, and gave Larry Jeffrey, a veteran left winger to Detroit. The Red Wings placed fifth in the East in 1968-69.

Steve Savage of Oregon finished second Friday, three yards back.

Villanova's Erv Hall, who equaled the world mark of 13.2 in Thursday's trials, won the 120-yard high hurdles in 13.3, with Tennessee freshman Bill High nipping teammate Richmond Flowers for second.

Defending champions fared badly in Friday's finals, with 1968 titlist Pertti Pousi of Brigham Young third in the long jump, and Steve Marcus of UCLA, last year's shotput king, fourth this year. Mark Ostoch of UCLA was third.

Another upset was scored in the hammer throw, with Steve DeAutremont of Oregon State winning with a heave of 190-5, 20 inches better than the best by favored Richard Narcessian of Rhode Island.

Lee Evans, the Olympic champion from San Jose State, set the pace as expected in the 440-yard dash trials, winning his heat in 45.4, a meet record.

Baseball VIPs Refuse Gamble, Quit Las Vegas

NEW YORK (UPI) — Rather than follow the lead of football rebel Joe Namath, three baseball owners, "wishing to avoid any possible occasion for criticism" of the sport, have voluntarily agreed to sever their ties with three Las Vegas gambling casinos, it was announced Friday by baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn.

The three owners, Charles O. Finley of the Oakland Athletics and William C. Bartholomay and John J. Louis Jr. of the Atlanta Braves, advised Kuhn of their intention to sell their shares of stock in Parvin-Dohrmann Company. Parvin-Dohrmann is a restaurant and hotel supply company, whose shares are publicly traded on the American Stock Exchange, which owns and operates the Fremont, Stardust and Aladdin Hotels in Las Vegas.

Another Braves' owner, Delbert Coleman, however, has decided against divesting himself of his interests in Parvin-Dohrmann and will, instead, resign from the ball club's board of directors.

Top track talent should produce top marks when graduating seniors of the L.A. City high schools meet their CIF Southern Section counterparts in the first Southern California Invitational All-Star track meet tonight at Cerritos College.

Field events get under way at 7:30, with first running event, the 440 relay, at 8.

The 17-event program, including three exhibition relays, is being run as a dual meet, with 5-3-1 point spread for first, second and third places.

Six state champions will be in the field—sprinter Willie Robinson (100-220) of El Centro, Ricco Sanchez (880) of Canoga Park, Decker Underwood (mile) of South Torrance, Ruben Chappins (2-mile) of Excelsior, Sam Cunningham (shotput) of Santa Barbara and Reynaldo Brown (high jump) of Compton.

Chappins is expected to renew his season-long duel with Fred Ritcherson of Salesian, who won in 8:55.2 at the Golden West meet in Sacramento last week.

Moore League athletes competing include Millikan's Bob Langston (880), Poly's Robert Stockton (180LH), Lakewood's Steve Gibson (100-220), and shot putter Steve Lauriano and miler Bob Somesan.

Coaches of the L.A. City team are L.A. High's Ed Bravo and Dick Kumpmann of University.

Directing the CIF squad are Willie Williams, the new U. of Arizona coach, and long-time Poly title winner Leon Forman.

Tickets, priced at $2 each, will be on sale at the stadium.

3 Moore Leaguers Sign Contracts

Three recently graduated Moore League baseball players, including two members of Millikan High's CIF championship team, have signed contracts to play pro ball.

Third baseman Rich Bailey and outfielder Russ Calderella and Wilson pitcher Mark Keller have agreed to terms with major league clubs that drafted them June 5.

Bailey, who hit .343 and drove in 21 runs, signed with the Angels and already has reported to Idaho Falls.

Calderella became the third recent Long Beach product to sign with the St. Louis Cardinals. He reportedly received a substantial bonus. The hard-hitting former Ram left Friday for Sarasota, Fla., of the Gulf Coast League. He hit .346 and scored 30 runs in 27 games this year.

Keller signed with Houston. He left at 1:30 this morning for the Astros' Covington, Va. farm club in the Appalachian League. The southpaw was 5-3 this season and had 1.23 ERA in 57 innings.

Prep All-Star Baseball Tilt Has a Long Beach Flavor

SAN FRANCISCO (Special) — There will be a definite Long Beach area flavor to today's first North-South All-Star high school baseball game at Candlestick Park.

Twelve of the 16-man South squad that represents Santa Barbara to San Diego played prep ball the past season for nearby schools.

The game is being sponsored by the California

Police Activities League and officials are hoping for a crowd of 10,000.

Three South players — outfielders Dave Chorley of Millikan and Jeff Burroughs of Wilson — and shortstop Alan Bannister of Kennedy — were honored this week on the first high school All-American team as selected by NCAA coaches at the College World Series.

Co-coach Jim Reach of Savannah (along with Bill Sandback of San Diego Crawford) has been impressed with the squad since the first day it reported at UCLA.

"Even though it's pretty tough trying to get 16 players from 16 different playing backgrounds together, this is an exceptional group. In an hour and a half of batting practice at Sawtelle Field on Wednesday, they hit 66 balls out of the park."

South lineup will include either Jerry Mantlo (Poly) or Andy Bielanski (Savanna) catcher, Jim Stafford (San Pedro) 1b, Tom Lugo (Sweetwater) 2b, Bannister ss, Ron McDonald (South Hills) 3b, Burroughs lf, Keith Marshall (Loara) cf and Chorley rf.

Chuck Minot (Royal Oak), Steve Barr (Carson) and Mike Ruddell (Lakewood) will split the pitching assignment. Each will go three innings.

FRAUDULENT ENLISTMENT?

Celtic Involved in Draft Row

ST. LOUIS (UPI) — Jo Jo White, the Kansas all-American drafted by the Boston Celtics, may have fraudulently avoided the military draft to play pro basketball, a selective service official said Friday.

Arthur Kreisman, chairman of White's draft board in St. Louis, said White apparently joined a U.S. Marine Corps reserve program in Connecticut after he had received orders for induction.

The reserve program would require six months' active duty, while the draft would require two years of White's time.

Kreisman explained that, if a youth enlists in a reserve program after he has received induction orders, he would be guilty of fraudulent enlistment. The reserve unit in Connecticut maintains that it had received clearance from White's draft board in St. Louis before he enlisted.

Kreisman commented on a copyrighted story in the St. Louis Globe-Democrat Friday that White was given help in avoiding the draft by Sen. Thomas F. Eagleton, D-Mo., Sen. Abraham Ribicoff, D-Conn., and Gen. Lewis B. Hershey, director of the Selective Service System.

White received his order of induction from his draft board "at least six or seven weeks ago," according to Kreisman. Kreisman said the exact date could not be released from White's selective service file.

Cubs Halt Skid, 2-0

CHICAGO (UPI) — The Chicago Cubs broke a five-game losing streak Friday with a 2-0 victory over the Montreal Expos behind the five-hit pitching of Bill Hands.

Hands evened his record at 6-6 and hurled his first shutout of the season with the aid of inning-ending double plays in the sixth and seventh.

The Cubs took a 1-0 lead in the first on a single by Paul Popovich, a double by Billy Williams and Ernie Banks, sacrifice fly.

The RBI was the 1,537th in Banks' career and lifted him into a tie with Joe DiMaggio for 15th place on the all-time list.

Two Trojans Advance to Net Finals

PRINCETON, N.J. (UPI) — Veteran Joaquín Loyola-Mayo of Southern California rallied to down Pat Cramer of Miami, and sophomore Mike Estep of Rice took a straight sets victory from Marcello Lora of USC Friday to enter the singles finals of the NCAA university division tennis championships.

Loyola-Mayo, who also advanced to the finals in doubles play, defeated Cramer, the tournament's No. 2 seed, 5-7, 6-4, 6-2, 6-0, while Estep, upset victor over top-seeded Bob Lutz on Thursday, stopped Lara 6-1, 6-2, 6-0.

Loyola-Mayo and Lara, teammates on Mexico's Davis Cup squad, combined to defeat UCLA's Haroon Rahim and Jeff Borowiak, 3-6, 6-3, 3-6, 6-1, 6-4.

Stearns Favored in Lake Havasu Water Skiing

LAKE HAVASU CITY, Ariz. (AP) — Chuck Stearns, who holds the world water ski speed record at 122.11 mph, heads competitors today and Sunday in the National Skiing Championships.

Stearns, 30, of Bellflower, defends his title in the men's open class and will anchor his team in the men's relay race.

Two hundred skiers and nearly 50 boats will compete in the speed events, with barefoot skiing the latest event.

The skiers will approach the starting line on skis, then kick them off. Speeds are expected to exceed 50 miles an hour over the quarter mile course for the men racing on the bottoms of their feet. The favorite is Randy Cowled, a teenager from Lynwood.

Salta to Play Twin Bill Today

Salta Pontiac will attempt to push its season record past the .500 mark today by hosting San Bernardino in a doubleheader at Long Beach City College beginning at noon.

Coach Joe Hicks' charges are 2-3 on the year, but are coming off their best game of the season, a 13-6 win over San Fernando.

The defending California Collegiate Baseball League champion travels to Glendale Sunday for a 2:30 p.m. game.

Charles Breaks Logjam to Lead Kemper by Stroke

CHARLOTTE, N.C. (AP) — Bob Charles, the world's leading left-hander, broke out of a 12-man scramble and assumed the second-round lead. Friday in the $150,000 Kemper Open Golf Tournament with a two-under-par 70 for a 138 total.

Eight others, led by 57-year-old Sam Snead, winner of 83 tour events, were tied at 139 and there were five more at 140 in one of the most jammed up halfway finishes of the season.

Snead had a second round 69, three-under par on the 7,250-yard Quail Hollow Country Club course.

Of the group tied at 139, only Snead and rookie pro Bob Payne played in the morning drizzle.

All the others played in the bright, sunny afternoon. They included veteran Dan Sikes, who had a 67; Australian Bruce Devlin, 70; England's Tony Jacklin, 69; Mason Rudolph, 70; slim Dale Douglass, 70; and recently deposed U.S. Open Champion Lee Trevino, 69.

In the group at 140 were Masters champion George Archer, who shared the first-round lead, but went to a 73 Friday; Canadian George Knudson, 69; Tom Weiskopf, 71; Bruce Crampton, 68; and Doug Sanders, 71.

That put 13 golfers within two shots of each other going into today's third round, with another large group at 141, including seniors champion Tommy Bolt. Phil Rodgers, who shared the first-round lead with Archer, went to a 74 for 141.

Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, had a 71 for 144, while Gary Player and Orville Moody were at 143.

Charles, a New Zealander and former British Open champion, said he didn't realize he had the lead until some time after he had finished.

He had two bogeys, missing the green each time, and four birdies and putts of 6, 15, 18 and 40 feet.

BRIEFLY...

Baptist Conjecture, Top Directory, Boston Firing

In entering the Southern Baptist rhubarb over President Criswell's book "Why I Preach That the Bible Is Literally True," the American Baptist Association which assembled here this week may have had a bit more in mind than taking the opportunity to reaffirm its own strong fundamentalism.

Long of the opinion that the giant Southern Baptist Convention is heading for an inevitable rift, and a shift away from the uncompromising fundamental view, the A.B.A. leaders could be hopefully staking out their claim to those Southern Baptists who might seek more traditionally fundamental churches if that came to pass.

However, anyone familiar with the makeup and temper of the large majority of Southern Baptist ministers and congregations, while noting some inevitable changes, most markedly in old racial postures, and in this open debate on the Criswell book, must still believe that the Southern Baptist Convention is a long, long way from turning toward theological "liberalism."

yet. And two "bonuses," larger and clearer type and headings, and a first-time index.

The new edition even nicely maintains the identity of merged denominations... such as Evangelical & Reformed, see United Church of Christ, and Evangelical United Brethren, see United Methodist.

Compiled with the assistance of the area Council of Churches, the directory is now a comprehensive listing including non-Council churches, chaplains, the Ys, pastors, assistants and all. We can't imagine a better one in any city. Would you believe 242 church listings, plus 22 other miscellaneous religion-related listings? At a glance, the only omissions we note in Long Beach religious life for possible inclusion in 1970 are Jehovah's Witnesses and our Buddhist Church.

awarded her a doctorate in sacred theology) was dismissed from the faculty of Jesuit-owned Boston College, might peek into her book, "The Church and the Second Sex."

In it, she wrote, "Catholic teaching has prolonged a traditional view of woman which at the same time idealizes and humiliates her... ecclesiastical pressure against birth control fits naturally within this context of oppression. In the poverty-stricken south of Italy it is not rare for a woman to have 20 children — 'a reduction of woman to the condition of biological beast.' She also quotes Pope John XXIII favorably on woman's dignity, and contrasts him on this topic with other church fathers, living and dead.

A petition signed by 2,500 Boston College students protesting Dr. Daly's ouster was turned down, and no reason given.

Outriggers Race in Summer Series Today

Coached by the nephew of the legendary Duke Kahanamoku, the Marina del Rey Outrigger Canoe Club will be favored today in the second of the summer series of outrigger canoe regattas.

First race will be at 9 a.m. off the Cherry Ave. Beach under the sponsorship of the California Outrigger Assn.

The Marina del Rey paddlers are directed by Sandy Kahanamoku, an accountant with the Doherty Oil Co. whose uncle was the swimming star of the 1912 Olympic Games and who is credited with bringing surfing to the United States.

Challengers to Marina del Rey, which won the inaugural KOA Regatta June 7, will be the Newport Canoe Club, Balboa, and Huntington Beach.

Regattas consist of races over a quarter-mile course which parallels the beach. Teams of six are required to propel the 40-foot, 400-pound canoes, and races are staged in classes for

Three Uclans Sign With K-City

KANSAS CITY (AP) — The Kansas City Royals announced Friday signing three players from UCLA's Pacific-8 conference baseball champions. They are shortstop Gary Sanerino and right-handed pitchers Jim York and Guy Hansen.

"We had good scouting reports on all three," said Charlie Metro, Royals scouting director.

Sanerino was described by Royals scouts as an "outstanding defensive infielder who has some power and is a good competitor." He hit .368 for UCLA. Sanerino will report immediately to High Point-Thomasville in the Carolina League.

York and Hansen will report to Winnipeg of the Northern League. Hansen had a 12-3 record this season with an earned run average of 1.79 and York was 7-3 with 1.83 ERA.

'Record' 61 at Rio Hondo

Allen Newman, owner of Cove Bowl in Wilmington, has broken the course record at Rio Hondo in Downey, but it probably won't be counted.

Newman carded 31-30 — 61, nine under par, but he played the back nine twice in firing 10 birdies, 7 pars and 1 bogey. Newman explained that he started on the back side because the course was crowded. When it came time to play the front, the traffic remained heavy, so he went off again on the last nine. A spokesman at Rio Hondo confirmed the record, but admitted he wasn't sure if it would count.

Falcons Play Pair Tonight

The league-leading Lakewood Falcons tonight meet Angelus Music of South Gate in a Southern California Amateur Softball Assn. doubleheader at Mayfair Park, 7:30 p.m.

Versatile Bart Hammer and speedy Gary Hunt have been banging the ball with authority lately. Hunt collected a homer and two singles in the Falcons' double win last week against Burbank. Another twin victory would put the Falcons in an excellent position to capture the title in the league's first year of operation.

Of the group tied at 139, only Snead and rookie pro Bob Payne played in the morning drizzle.

All the others played in the bright, sunny afternoon. They included veteran Dan Sikes, who had a 67; Australian Bruce Devlin, 70; England's Tony Jacklin, 69; Mason Rudolph, 70; slim Dale Douglass, 70; and recently deposed U.S. Open Champion Lee Trevino, 69.

In the group at 140 were Masters champion George Archer, who shared the first-round lead, but went to a 73 Friday; Canadian George Knudson, 69; Tom Weiskopf, 71; Bruce Crampton, 68; and Doug Sanders, 71.

That put 13 golfers within two shots of each other going into today's third round, with another large group at 141, including seniors champion Tommy Bolt, Phil Rodgers, who shared the first-round lead with Archer, went to a 74 for 141.

Arnold Palmer, the defending champion, had a 71 for 144, while Gary Player and Orville Moody were at 143.

Charles, a New Zealander and former British Open champion, said he didn't realize he had the lead until some time after he had finished.

He had two bogeys, missing the green each time, and four birdies and putts of 6, 15, 18 and 40 feet.

METHODIST CONVENTION LIKED SERVICE

Some Teen-Age Thoughts While Waiting for the Bus

By LES RODNEY

"Listen, Not Just Hear" read the hand lettering on the colorful banner, which showed an adult being addressed by a couple of youngsters.

The banner was being held by a junior high girl, one of some 40 teens, mostly of high school age, who were rambling around the patio of Los Altos Methodist Church at Willow and Woodruff. There were other banners, trumpets, guitars, and the desultory chatter, quicksilver comings and goings and boy-girl greetings of any teen gathering.

They were waiting for a bus which would grind through the Tuesday evening traffic all the way to Redlands. There these Long Beach young people were scheduled to lead the worship services of the Southland United Methodist Conference before 1,500 clerics and lay leaders in the cavernous university chapel.

IT WAS, for better or worse, to be their own service, from start to finish, their message to the "old" Methodists. They had worked on it, written songs and responsive dialogue, created dances. It was all lovingly dedicated to their popular pastor, Rev. David H. McKelthen, who is recuperating nicely from a heart attack suffered six weeks ago.

What was the message? "Agape — God's love for all, and acting that out in life instead of just saying it," explained a young man.

Randy Pitts, a Millikan High junior who is one of the leaders of the strong Los Altos youth group, said with 16-year-old candor "Most of the things at a convention like this are boring, business matters. They don't really get down to the things people are worried or uptight about."

The contention of some churchgoers that "social action" is not the business of the church, and is hurting the church, amuses Randy in a somber way.

He shakes his head as though this idea is simply beyond belief or comment. "Just the opposite, of course. If the church doesn't show young people more real concern with the world, the way Jesus was concerned, in another generation there won't be any church."

In agreement was Sharon Rhodes, 20, a student at Cypress Junior College and a Methodist Youth Federation counselor to eighth graders, who was riding along to Redlands.

SHE PUTS it this way: "Our generation is very social conscious. If they come to church and find it isolated from all the things they care about, which they believe Christians must care about, they just can't relate to the church."

She too was thrown almost beyond words by arguments against church social involvement. "Oh, the church must be terribly involved. It must be right in the center of it!"

And not only the older teens are a different generation, in her view. She wonders if eighth graders were ever as alert as today's breed.

"They're kids and they goof around and all, but they're real smart. They want to know what life means. You should hear the dialogue in the group. They find a gap between what the ideals are and the way they see things in real life. They keep you on your toes with such honest questioning, why is this, how do you explain that..."

The pastor's son, Floyd McKelthen, 15, allowing that he might be too close to the situation for objectivity, sighed: "Sometimes I think it'll take a bulldozer to move the Methodist Church from some of its old ways, then hastened to make clear that he has not given up on the object of his criticism. In fact, he enthusiastically outlined plans by the Los Altos young people for a swinging coffee house setup for area teens.

And the same view of the church and its place on the great secular moral issues of the day. It didn't seem possible to get any other view of this controversial question among these active young church workers. It is to the front of all their thinking.

"As I see Jesus," said Floyd, "I have to talk up and be active against injustice in order to be a Christian. I can't sit in my sanctuary."

The kids, he said, worked hard on this prayer presentation. "We're saying war is wrong, we're saying we all must stop being hypocrites, must let love work..."

THOUGH THIS sounds serious enough, it was not a solemn group which hurried to the church at 330 from Millikan, Wilson, Marshall, Hill, Stanford and Newcomb for a 4 p.m. departure carrying sack lunches in order to make the 7 p.m. schedule at Redlands... and then back into the bus. The smilingly resigned bus driver had a fair idea that he wasn't in for a quiet journey.

The power of ecumenical attraction was in evidence. High schooler Mar Lemke, St. Paul's Missouri Synod Lutheran Church, though he allowed suggested with a smile "We Lutherans are a little more conservative."

At Redlands, they came down the aisle behind their eight-foot-high theme banner: "Love Is a Five Letter Word — Agape (self-giving love in the early Christian tradition.) Another banner with a cheery drawing of sunshine proclaimed "Let the Sun Shine In. And another had a white dove on a big black background and the plaintively small word "Peace."

In the call to worship, a young liturgist called on the convention congregation to respond "Let us worship God in spirit and in truth," and from there into "We realize that we are called to love all men. Even those who profess to be our enemies... We dedicate ourselves to expressing our love of God through loving service to all men everywhere."

Following a traditional rendition of "A Mighty Fortress," there was a modern version of the Lord's Prayer, including: "Eternal God, whose existence is beyond our power to imagine... Let Your power be amplified in us... For you, God are what life is all about, and you, God, can help us break out of the patterns, and give us the strength to love."

Then "the word through song, dance and dialogue," with a colloquy between a minister and a layman, the minister troubled by murder, war, ghetto babies and "the next generation of world leaders having compassion and understanding clubbed out of them," and wondering if he can say all he feels needs to be said. ("Layman ministering to the minister, you see," a youth explained at the church. "Ministers have problems.") Dances to the words and tune of "Easy to Be Hard" from Hair, and "The Impossible Dream."

RESPONSIVE readings. "We feel trapped, Lord." "Trapped by all the routines, the patterns, that surround our lives." A touch of youthful humility with the youthful impatience. "Some of the patterns are imposed by others... By society, by the way we grew up, by our education, by the institutions and the prejudices we have inherited from the past." "But, God knows, we've also made our own limiting patterns..." "By taking the easy way, we've strengthened some of the same patterns we complain about." "We need God... We need to learn to be free, to be honest, to stop running away, to love each other."

The hymn "God of Power and God of Love" and finally, with the congregation standing and joining hands, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," with original verses ranging the popular and unpopular along with the little bitty baby "in His hands."

Regardless of opinions on the service, it bears noting in fairness that the young people of Los Altos Methodist (one of the larger church youth groups with more than 250 reported regularly active) are not just chirping from the sidelines. Working with youth minister Dr. Richard Knowles, they carried through the award-winning local "Project Outreach" last summer, in which many of them gave up six weeks of vacation time to tutor and befriend black kids from the central city. They have more such plans, and, as noted, they are planning a coffee house to draw in other teens.

A PHONE CALL to Redlands Wednesday elicited the information that the "agape" service had been very well received. The regular conference publication reported: "... was contemporary in mood and spirit. By using choral music, trumpets, dramatic dance and responsive readings these young people led us in a very meaningful worship experience. At the end there was a loud and spontaneous expression of appreciation from the congregation."

Which is what the young people had not only hoped for, but expected. "I think they'll be accepting," one girl had said before boarding the bus,

GOINGS ON

'Sound Generation' in 3 Appearances

"The Sound Generation," the John Brown University ensemble which is now a Southland favorite, will do their thing for Youth for Christ tonight at 7:30 in First Nazarene, 2280 Clark Ave., with all invited and no charge. They are also slated for two Sunday appearances, 7 p.m. in First Southern Baptist, 5640 Orange Ave., and 9 p.m. in First Baptist of Lakewood, 555 Arbor Road.

The second Monthly Sing will be held at 7:30 tonight in Community Chapel, 6465 Cherry Ave., featuring the Gospel Lads, the 42-voice Echoes of Israel, and Community Chapel Trio. All invited.

Mendelssohn's demanding "Saint Paul" will be performed at 9 and 10:30 a.m. by the 55-voice Sanctuary Choir of Los Altos Methodist, 5550 E. Willow St., directed by Frank Pooler, also choir director at Cal State, and featuring five soloists.

A 12-Sunday "Living Christ" series, professional color movies, will begin 10 a.m. Sunday at Mount Olivet Lutheran, 4405 E. South St., Lakewood, where on Sunday night at 7:30 the combined choral and youth choirs present a concert of combined sacred and secular music.

Billy Graham's "The Restless One," graphic film on today's teens, will be shown Monday, 8 p.m. in Christ Lutheran, 6500 Stearns St. and Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. in First Southern Baptist, 5640 Orange Ave.

The New Dimensions singers and instrumentalists, will appear Sunday at 5:30 and 7:15 p.m. in Christian Center Church, Riverside Freeway and East St. exit, Anaheim.

Downtown Rec. Program Set

First Lutheran Church will hold its fourth annual recreation program at their school, 10th and Linden. It will begin on Monday and will run through Friday July 4th. Activities will be centered around art and craft projects, sports, square dancing, tours and snacks. Children between 5 to 14 are welcome. Children 3 through 6 will have a separate program. Programs are 9-noon.

FROM THE PULPIT

There are different voices that speak to our hearts. Sometimes a smile, a touch of a look speaks to us in the tenderest of tones. The Word of God speaks to us through preaching. But there is a special voice of music. Music hath charm to soothe the savage beast. We specialize in Gospel music at Calvary, and part of the spiritual warmth of this church is created by the communications of music.

This Sunday night be sure to hear Marion Spiller in Gospel concert here at 7 P.M. Few men have ever equaled his ability at the keyboard, and in Gospel music, none have excelled. Dr. Collins will join Mr. Snider at the console of the great church organ, and the two will perform individually and together. This would be one of the best Sundays to "Come to Calvary. Calvary is for you."

METHODIST CONVENTION LIKED SERVICE

By LES RODNEY

"Listen, Not Just Hear" read the hand lettering on the colorful banner, which showed an adult being addressed by a couple of youngsters.

The banner was being held by a junior high girl, one of some 40 teens, mostly of high school age, who were rambling around the patio of Los Altos Methodist Church at Willow and Woodruff. There were other banners, trumpets, guitars, and the desultory chatter, quicksilver comings and goings and boy-girl greetings of any teen gathering.

They were waiting for a bus which would grind through the Tuesday evening traffic all the way to Redlands. There these Long Beach young people were scheduled to lead the worship services of the Southland United Methodist Conference before 1,500 clerics and lay leaders in the cavernous university chapel.

IT WAS, for better or worse, to be their own service, from start to finish, their message to the "old" Methodists. They had worked on it, written songs and responsive dialogue, created dances. It was all lovingly dedicated to their popular pastor, Rev. David H. McKeithen, who is recuperating nicely from a heart attack suffered six weeks ago.

What was the message? "Agape — God's love for all, and acting that out in life instead of just saying it," explained a young man.

Randy Pitts, a Millikan High junior who is one of the leaders of the strong Los Altos youth group, said with 16-year-old candor "Most of the things at a convention like this are boring, business matters. They don't really get down to the things people are worried or uptight about."

The contention of some churchgoers that "social action" is not the business of the church, and is hurting the church, amuses Randy in a somber way.

He shakes his head as though this idea is simply beyond belief or comment.

"Just the opposite, of course. If the church doesn't show young people more real concern with the world, the way Jesus was concerned, in another generation there won't be any church."

In agreement was Sharon Rhodes, 20, a student at Cypress Junior College and a Methodist Youth Federation counselor to eighth graders, who was riding along to Redlands.

SHE PUTS it this way:

"Our generation is very social conscious. If they come to church and find it isolated from all the things they care about, which they believe Christians must care about, they just can't relate to the church."

She too was thrown almost beyond words by arguments against church social involvement. "Oh, the church must be terribly involved. It must be right in the center of it!"

And not only the older teens are a different generation, in her view. She wonders if eighth graders were ever as alert as today's breed.

"They're kids and they goof around and all, but they're real smart. They want to know what life means. You should hear the dialogue in the group. They find a gap between what the ideals are and the way they see things in real life. They keep you on your toes with such honest questioning, why is this, how do you explain that..."

The pastor's son, Floyd McKeithen, 15, allowing that he might be too close to the situation for objectivity, sighed: "Sometimes I think it'll take a bulldozer to move the Methodist Church from some of its old ways," then hastened to make clear that he has not given up on the object of his criticism. In fact, he enthusiastically outlined plans by the Los Altos young people for a swinging coffee house setup for area teens.

And the same view of the church and its place on the great secular moral issues of the day. It didn't seem possible to get any other view of this controversial question among these active young church workers. It is to the front of all their thinking.

"As I see Jesus," said Floyd, "I have to talk up and be active against injustice in order to be a Christian. I can't sit in my sanctuary."

The kids, he said, worked hard on this prayer presentation. "We're saying war is wrong, we're saying we all must stop being hypocrites, must let love work..."

THOUGH THIS sounds serious enough, it was not a solemn group which hurried to the church at 3:30 from Millikan, Wilson, Marshall, Hill, Stanford and Newcomb for a 4 p.m. departure carrying sack lunches in order to make the 7 p.m. schedule at Redlands... and then back into the bus. The smilingly resigned bus driver had a fair idea that he wasn't in for a quiet journey.

The power of ecumenical attraction was in evidence. High schooler Mar Lemke, St. Paul's Missouri Synod Lutheran Church, was part of the project, though he allowed suggested with a smile "We Lutherans are a little more conservative."

At Redlands, they came down the aisle behind their eight-foot-high theme banner: "Love is a Five Letter Word — Agape (self-giving love in the early Christian tradition). Another banner with a cheery drawing of sunshine proclaimed "Let the Sun Shine In. And another had a white dove on a big black background and the plaintively small word "Peace."

In the call to worship, a young liturgist called on the convention congregation to respond "Let us worship God in spirit and in truth," and from there into "We realize that we are called to love all men. Even those who profess to be our enemies... We dedicate ourselves to expressing our love of God through loving service to all men everywhere."

Following a traditional rendition of "A Mighty Fortress," there was a modern version of the Lord's Prayer, including: "Eternal God, whose existence is beyond our power to imagine... Let your power be amplified in us... For you, God are what life is all about, and you, God, can help us break out of the patterns, and give us the strength to love."

Then "the word through song, dance and dialogue," with a colloquy between a minister and a layman, the minister troubled by murder, war, ghetto babies and "the next generation of world leaders having compassion and understanding clubbed out of them," and wondering if he can say all he feels needs to be said. ("Layman ministering to the minister, you see," a youth explained at the church. "Ministers have problems.") Dances to the words and tune of "Easy to Be Hard" from Hair, and "The Impossible Dream."

RESPONSIVE readings. "We feel trapped, Lord." "Trapped by all the routines, the patterns, that surround our lives." A touch of youthful humility with the youthful impatience. "Some of the patterns are imposed by others..." "By society, by the way we grew up, by our education, by the institutions and the prejudices we have inherited from the past." "But, God knows, we've also made our own limiting patterns..." "By taking the easy way, we've strengthened some of the same patterns we complain about." "We need God... We need to learn to be free, to be honest, to stop running away, to love each other..."

The hymn "God of Power and God of Love" and finally, with the congregation standing and joining hands, "He's Got the Whole World in His Hands," with original verses ranging the popular and unpopular along with the little bitty baby "in His hands."

Regardless of opinions on the service, it bears noting in fairness that the young people of Los Altos Methodist (one of the larger church youth groups with more than 250 reported regularly active) are not just chirping from the sidelines. Working with youth minister Dr. Richard Knowles, they carried through the award-winning local "Project Outreach" last summer, in which many of them gave up six weeks of vacation time to tutor and befriend black kids from the central city. They have more such plans, and, as noted, they are planning a coffee house to draw in other teens.

A PHONE CALL to Redlands Wednesday elicited the information that the "agape" service had been very well received. The regular conference publication reported: "... was contemporary in mood and spirit. By using choral music, trumpets, dramatic dance and responsive readings these young people led us in a very meaningful worship experience. At the end there was a loud and spontaneous expression of appreciation from the congregation."

Which is what the young people had not only hoped for, but expected. "I think they'll be accepting," one girl had said before boarding the bus,

GOINGS ON

'Sound Generation' in 3 Appearances

"The Sound Generation, the John Brown University ensemble which is now a Southland favorite, will do their thing for Youth for Christ tonight at 7:30 in First Nazarene, 2280 Clark Ave., with all invited and no charge. They are also slated for two Sunday appearances, 7 p.m. in First Southern Baptist, 5640 Orange Ave., and 9 p.m. in First Baptist of Lakewood, 555 Arbor Road.

The second Monthly Sing will be held at 7:30 tonight in Community Chapel, 6465 Cherry Ave., featuring the Gospel Lads, the 42-voice Echoes of Israel, and Community Chapel Trio. All invited.

Mendelssohn's demanding "Saint Paul" will be performed at 9 and 10:30 a.m. by the 55-voice Sanctuary Choir of Los Altos Methodist, 5950 E. Willow St., directed by Frank Pooler, also choir director at Cal State, and featuring five soloists.

A 12-Sunday "Living Christ" series, professional color movies, will begin 10 a.m. Sunday at Mount

"I don't see any static." Whether the unusual service reflected youthful overstatement, or youthful clear sightedness, or some of each, the assembled Methodist leaders had apparently felt that youngsters who believed enough to care, ought to be listened to, not just heard. Like the young girl's poster said.

Olivet Lutheran, 4405 E. South St., Lakewood, where on Sunday night at 7:30 the combined choral and youth choirs present a concert of combined sacred and secular music.

Billy Graham's "The Restless One," graphic film on today's teens, will be shown Monday, 8 p.m. in Christ Lutheran, 6500 Stearns St. and Wednesday, 7:30 p.m. in First Southern Baptist, 5640 Orange Ave.

The New Dimensions, singers and instrumentalists, will appear Sunday at 5:30 and 7:15 p.m. in Christian Center Church, Riverside Freeway and East St. exit, Anaheim.

Downtown Rec. Program Set

First Lutheran Church will hold its fourth annual recreation program at their school, 10th and Linden. It will begin on Monday and will run through Friday July 4th. Activities will be centered around art and craft projects, sports, square dancing, tours and snacks.

Children between 5 to 14 are welcome. Children 3 through 6 will have a separate program. Programs are 9-nom.

FROM THE PULPIT
There are different voices that speak to our hearts. Sometimes a smile, a touch or a look speaks to us in the tenderest of tones. The Word of God speaks to us through preaching.
But there is a special voice of music. "Music hath charm to soothe the savage beast." We specialize in Gospel music at Calvary, and part of the spiritual warmth of this church is created by the communications of music.
This Sunday night be sure to hear Marion Snider in Gospel concert here at 7 P.M. Few men have ever equaled his artistry at the keyboard, and in Gospel music, none have excelled. Dr. Collins will join Mr. Snider at the console of the great church organ, and the two will perform individually and together.
This would be one of the best Sundays to "Come to Calvary. Calvary is for you."

New Rear Admiral Didn't Give Up

By NORMAN VINCENT
PEALE

I read in the news the other day about a man who has just been made a rear admiral. He had been a junior naval officer in World War II, and was discharged from the service in 1945 because he had cancer. Between 1946 and 1950 he survived four terrible bouts with that tragic disease. At one time they told him he had only two weeks to live. In desperation he took X-ray treatments. The treatments worked, and his cancer was cured.

Now this man had worked all his life to be a naval officer, but with a record of cancer, naval regulations forbade his being reinstated. He was told "there wasn't a chance," but he kept on fighting. He finally learned that it would take an Act of Congress to get him back in the Navy. So he went after the Act of Congress. And, in September 1950, President Truman signed into law a special bill that reinstated him in the Navy.

THE MAN'S name is Edwin M. Rosenberg. He is now Rear Adm. Rosenberg. Adm. Rosenberg never gave up. He prayed. And he fought. He had a goal and he refused to believe it was impossible to achieve it.

Neither you nor I, nor any human being, can take the great impossibles of life and make them possible by ourselves. But we can join God in making the impossible possible.

I remember, as a youngster, a teacher I had at the Williams Avenue School in Cincinnati, Ohio. His name was George Reeves. He was a huge man and he taught me in the fifth grade.

"There was no fooling around with George Reeves. One day a boy answered a question by saying, 'Mr. Reeves, I can't answer.'"

Reeves said, "What do you mean 'can't'?" He went over to the blackboard and he wrote "CAN'T" on the blackboard. "Now," he said to the boy, "what would you do with that word to make it more positive?"

The boy said, "Why not take the 'T' off, sir."

And Reeves took an eraser and he rubbed away the "T" and asked, "What's left, son?"

And the boy said, "I CAN."

Well, George Reeves may not have been one of the great intellectuals in Cincinnati, but he was wise enough to know that nothing is impossible.

With the strength and the wisdom that is given to all of us we can make triumphs out of defeats, but we sometimes need help.

A COUPLE of weeks ago, I read a magazine article titled, "You Can't Find God in Church Any More." It was a survey of 1,000 readers of that magazine who were abandoning their churches. Perhaps some of their reasons were valid. No church can be all things to every man. I only hope that if those readers who were surveyed can't find God in church, they can find Him somewhere else.

Because we all need Him.

Rear Adm. Rosenberg knew, and George Reeves knew, that the greatest danger man can face in time of crisis is to retreat within himself — to give up, to say "I can't." Yet that is the very moment when he must turn to God to help make it possible. And He is always there.

Compton Church Ordains Sixth

Ordination services will be conducted Sunday, 7 p.m. at St. John's United Presbyterian Church, Compton, for Errol Ford, the sixth young man to enter the gospel ministry from that congregation. A graduate of Compton College and Cal State Long Beach, Ford received his Bachelor of Divinity Degree last Saturday at San Francisco Theological Seminary. Following ordination, he will become Assistant Pastor of the East San Diego Presbyterian Church.

READERS' OPINIONS ON GRAHAM, LAUGH-IN

Here are some reader reactions to the appearance of evangelist Billy Graham on the "Laugh In" TV program.

COULDN'T HURT HIS IMAGE

Dear Sir:
For what it is worth, I offer this opinion. Personally, since I'm particular whom I associate with, nothing could have induced me to appear with either Martin or Rowan at any time.

I can't really see, though, how Mr. Graham could have injured his image.
MRS. C. MAYBELLE HANSFORS WILMINGTON

WILL WASTE NO MORE TIME ON HIM

Editor:
You asked for it. Here

It is. Our club agreed that Billy Graham, in playing second fiddle to two clowns, really lost much of the famous image he had created. We will waste no more time listening to or viewing him.
ANN TAYLOR, SEAL BEACH

WAS SINCERE, BUT IT DIDN'T COME OFF

Editor:
This is the way I feel about it. Billy Graham was sincere about the idea, that Jesus appeared with the publicans and sinners. He thought he could do some good, if he didn't he wouldn't go on the show.

But it didn't come off well because on that kind of a show you are thinking of wise cracks and always expecting something funny, so you can't really take anyone seriously, even Billy Graham.

T. HUGHES, LONG BEACH

'VERY INTERESTING' WINDUP WAS WHOLE SHOW

Editor:
You asked for comments about Billy Graham on Laugh In. I thought it was good. Every question he was asked was answered by a Biblical verse or scripture. But the most important part of the whole show was near the end, when he was asked to briefly say a word to the youth watching, and he quoted John 3:16. That was followed by Arte Johnson as the German saying "Very interesting — and true. Think about it."

To me that was the whole show and no one has made any comment on it.

BOOKS 'New Directions in Christianity'

GOODBYE, JEHOVAH
A Survey of the New Directions in Christianity. By William Robert Miller. Walker and Company, $5.95.

The author asks: "Can today's church succeed in renewing itself, achieving the transformation required if it is not to be left behind as a relic of a bygone era?"

He offers a glimpse of efforts to develop a Christianity for man in a secular age by summarizing what the new theological thinkers are saying since Bishop Robinson's "Honest to God."

Chapters are devoted to Pierre Berton's "The Comfortable Pew," Harvey Cox's "The Secular City," Joseph Fletcher's "Situation Ethics," Malcolm Boyd's "Are You Running With Me, Jesus?" Robert Short's "The Gospel According to Peanuts," Stephen Rose's "The Grass Roots Church" and the magazine "Renewal" and Thomas Altzer's "The Gospel of Christian Atheism."

In the final chapter Miller takes a backward look at Robinson's "Honest to God," tracing the progress of the bishop's thinking up to "The New

Because we all need Him.

Rear Adm. Rosenberg knew, and George Reeves knew, that the greatest danger man can face in time of crisis is to retreat within himself — to give up, to say "I can't." Yet that is the very moment when he must turn to God to help make it possible. And He is always there.

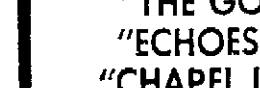

Compton Church
Ordains Sixth

Ordination services will be conducted Sunday, 7 p.m. at St. John's United Presbyterian Church, Compton, for Errol Ford, the sixth young man to enter the gospel ministry from that congregation. A graduate of Compton College and Cal State Long Beach, Ford received his Bachelor of Divinity Degree last Saturday at San Francisco Theological Seminary. Following ordination, he will become Assistant Pastor of the East San Diego Presbyterian Church.

READERS' OPINIONS ON GRAHAM, LAUGH-IN

Here are some reader reactions to the appearance of evangelist Billy Graham on the "Laugh In" TV program.

COULDN'T HURT HIS IMAGE

Dear Sir:
For what it is worth, I offer this opinion. Personally, since I'm particular whom I associate with, nothing could have induced me to appear with either Martin or Rowan at any time.

I can't really see, though, how Mr. Graham could have injured his image.
MRS. C. MAYBELLE HANSFORS WILMINGTON

WILL WASTE NO MORE TIME ON HIM

Editor:
You asked for it. Here

it is. Our club agreed that Billy Graham, in playing second fiddle to two clowns, really lost much of the famous image he had created. We will waste no more time listening to or viewing him.
ANN TAYLOR, SEAL BEACH

WAS SINCERE, BUT IT DIDN'T COME OFF

Editor:
This is the way I feel about it. Billy Graham was sincere about the idea, that Jesus appeared with the publicans and sinners. He thought he could do some good, if he didn't let the wouldn't go on the show.

But it didn't come off well because on that kind of a show you are thinking of wise cracks and always expecting something funny, so you can't really take anyone seriously, even Billy Graham.

T. HUGHES, LONG BEACH

'VERY INTERESTING' WINDUP WAS WHOLE SHOW

Editor:
You asked for comments about Billy Graham on Laugh In. I thought it was good. Every question he was asked was answered by a Biblical verse or scripture. But the most important part of the whole show was near the end, when he was asked to briefly say a word to the youth watching, and he quoted John 3:16. That was followed by Arte Johnson as the German saying "Very interesting — and true. Think about it."

To me that was the whole show and no one has made any comment on it.

MARION SNIDER IN BELLFLOWER

Gospel Piano Pioneer, Pastor Offer Concert

Marion Snider, noted gospel pianist from Dallas, will be featured in a unique piano-organ concert along with Dr. Frank Collins, the pastor and a recording artist himself, Sunday, 7 p.m. in Calvary Baptist Church of Bellflower, 14722 Clark Ave.

Snider was the pianist for the popular Stamps Quartet in their early days on radio, and his original style set the trend for much of today's gospel music. Dr. Collins was a student of Snider's in 1940-41 and they have given numerous concerts together.

The event also coincides with the conclusion of six years of the pastor's ministry at Calvary, during which the church grew into one of the Southland's largest. Says Dr. Collins: "The seventh year is not a year of rest, but of harvest from past plantings, and plantings for future harvest."

There is no admission charge for the concert. A free-will offering will be taken.

BOOKS 'New Directions in Christianity'

GOODBYE, JEHOVAH
A Survey of the New Directions in Christianity. By William Robert Miller. Walker and Company, $5.95.

The author asks: "Can today's church succeed in renewing itself, achieving the transformation required if it is not to be left behind as a relic of a bygone era?"

He offers a glimpse of efforts to develop a Christianity for man in a secular age by summarizing what the new theological thinkers are saying since Bishop Robinson's "Honest to God."

Chapters are devoted to Pierre Berton's "The Comfortable Pew," Harvey Cox's "The Secular City," Joseph Fletcher's "Situation Ethics," Malcolm Boyd's "Are You Running With Me, Jesus?" Robert Short's "The Gospel According to Peanuts," Stephen Rose's "The Grass Roots Church" and the magazine "Renewal" and Thomas Altizer's "The Gospel of Christian Atheism."

In the final chapter Miller takes a backward look at Robinson's "Honest to God," tracing the progress of the bishop's thinking up to "The New

TOURING YOUNG MUSICIANS HERE

The Continental Singers and Orchestra, a touring Southland musical group, will appear in concert Sunday, 7 p.m. in Lime Avenue Baptist Church, 850 Lime Ave. The group consists of 20 singers and a 20-piece orchestra selected by audition from all over the country. No charge, but a free-will offering will be taken.

TV Was a Boon to Other Media

By TERRY VERNON

Television, the prophets of doom were telling us a few years ago, had destroyed the movies and radio, was drying up the book market and certainly would reduce other arts-oriented, entertainment forms to rubble in the immediate future.

Instead, the movies are better — if fewer — than ever, radio in this country had record advertising receipts in 1968, books are booming and most art forms are reaching new heights of public acclaim. Clearly, television hasn't hurt the other industries as badly as had been first believed. There are many who would contend, in fact, that television has actually spurred the progress of some of the related industries.

Some of that spurring has produced the phenomenon of specialization in other media. You see art theaters, foreign-film houses and other "special type" theaters springing up around the country. Musical and dance programs have specialized, too. And so has radio.

Radio might be the most highly specialized media in existence today. We have "talk, radio and all-news" radio and Mexican-language radio and "rock-and-roll" radio and "classical" radio and a good many other types of radio that seek to appeal to specific segments of the community. How successful these specialists have been can best be gauged by viewing some of the results. KPFF, one of the Southland's most experiment-minded stations, will celebrate its 10th anniversary on July 1 — for a month. It has offered programming in all the accepted modes and in some hitherto unaccepted forms. It is what today's radio station ought to be, a bold experimenter. Another station with imagination has been KRLA, the Pasadena-based rock and roller which gave the public "Credibility Gap" news, a feature which is humorous but provocative, satiric yet incisive.

The advent of Pay TV and Cable TV — and no one with any sense doubts their eventual presence in the marketplace — will provide even more impact on other media. There is no reason to believe that continued specializing by those affected would not head off that impact.

Yet the first hollow claims of future disaster for entertainment and media industry economics are now being sounded. Dire results for those who look to the theaters, the auditoriums, the bookstalls and even the conventional television set for their entertainment are being painted. Pay TV — and to less-

Time to Forget Curse, Seek Legendary Gold

MAINZ, Germany (UPI) — It is time to forget all this talk of a curse and get on with recovering the gold legend has always said lies on the bottom of the Rhine, says Mayor Hans Jacobi.

"This is no joke," Jacobi said Thursday. "This venture is based on years of scientific research."

Wilhelm Matthes of the city surveying office has plotted the location of the gold, somewhere in a mile-long stretch of the Rhine where the river makes a 180-degree loop.

Legend said the Nibelungen gold originally belonged to the Burgundian kings from whom it was stolen. Later a Burgundian knight sank it for safe-keeping.

The dwarf Alberich was said to have put a curse on the gold just before he was slain by the Germanic prince Siegfried.

er degree, Cable TV — are being depicted as media that would take away the public's "right" to go to movies, to plays, to concerts, to read books and watch conventional TV.

The new forms, both pay and cable television, cannot fail to alter present entertainment. But that's what progress is all about. The new forms may produce as many changes as television itself. But if you'll look around you, you're certain to find that theaters and books, concerts and plays are still very much with us. They'll still be around when Pay TV and Cable TV make their debuts.

Leave It To Larry
By LARRY MEDER
HARBOR CHEVROLET

A New York cab driver, by way of being friendly toward a passenger who happened to be a visiting British Duke,
asked him the following:
"My mother had a baby
... it wasn't my sister—it wasn't my brother, so who was it?" When the Duke couldn't think of an answer, the cabbie said, "IT WAS ME!"
Upon returning to London, the Duke was giving an account of his trip to the United States to the members of an exclusive club, and by way of injecting a little humor into his talk he repeated the cabbie's story. He said, "My dear mother gave birth to a child. It wasn't my sister—it wasn't my brother—so who was it?" When they were all thoroughly stumped, he announced triumphantly,

TV Was a Boon to Other Media

By TERRY VERNON

Television, the prophets of doom were telling us a few years ago, had destroyed the movies and radio, was drying up the book market and certainly would reduce other arts-oriented entertainment forms to rubble in the immediate future.

Instead, the movies are better — if fewer — than ever, radio in this country had record advertising receipts in 1968, books are booming and most art forms are reaching new heights of public acclaim.

Clearly, television hasn't hurt the other industries as badly as had been first believed. There are many who would contend, in fact, that television has actually spurred the progress of some of the related industries.

Some of that spurring has produced the phenomenon of specialization in other media. You see art theaters, foreign-film houses and other "special type" theaters springing up around the country. Musical and dance programs have specialized, too. And so has radio.

Radio might be the most highly specialized media in existence today. We have "talk, radio and all-news" radio and Mexican-language radio and "rock-and-roll" radio and "classical" radio and a good many other types of radio that seek to appeal to specific segments of the community. How successful these specialists have been can best be gauged by viewing some of the results. KPFB, one of the Southland's most experiment-minded stations, will celebrate its 10th anniversary on July 1 — for a month. It has offered programming in all the accepted modes and in some hitherto unaccepted forms. It is what today's radio station ought to be, a bold experimenter. Another station with imagination has been KRLA, the Pasadena-based rock and roller which gave the public "Credibility Gap" news, a feature which is humorous but provocative, satiric yet incisive.

The advent of Pay TV and Cable TV — and no one with any sense doubts their eventual presence in the marketplace — will provide even more impact on other media. There is no reason to believe that continued specializing by those affected would not head off that impact.

Yet the first hollow claims of future disaster for entertainment and media industry economies are now being sounded. Here results for those who look to the theaters, the auditoriums, the bookstalls and even the conventional television set for their entertainment are being painted. Pay TV — and to lesser degree, Cable TV — are being depicted as media that would take away the public's "right" to go to movies, to plays, to concerts, to read books and watch conventional TV.

Time to Forget Curse, Seek Legendary Gold

MAINZ, Germany (UPI) — It is time to forget all this talk of a curse and get on with recovering the gold legend has always said lies on the bottom of the Rhine, says Mayor Hans Jacobi.

"This is no joke," Jacobi said Thursday. "This

The new forms, both pay and cable television, cannot fail to alter present entertainment. But that's what progress is all about. The new forms may produce as many changes as television itself. But if you'll look around you, you're certain to find that theaters and books, concerts and plays are still very much with us. They'll still be around when Pay TV and Cable TV make their debuts.

Leave It To Larry

HARBOR CHEVROLET

A New York cab driver, by way of being friendly toward a passenger who happened to be a visiting British Duke, asked him the following: "My mother had a baby . . . it wasn't my sister— it wasn't my brother, so who was it?" When the Duke couldn't think of an answer, the cabbie said, "IT WAS ME!"

Upon returning to London, the Duke was giving an account of his trip to the United States to the members of an exclusive club, and by way of injecting a little humor into his talk he repeated the cabbie's story. He said, "My dear mother gave birth to a child. It wasn't my sister— it wasn't my brother— so who was it?" When they were all thoroughly stumped, he announced triumphantly, "IT WAS SOME BLAWSTED TAXI DRIVER IN NEW YORK CITY!"

First of 1969 Tourists Aboard SS Catalina Arrive at Avalon

FEAR DAMAGE TO SHIP

Catalina Pier Criticized

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

Operators of the SS Catalina charged Friday the new steamer pier in Avalon — built under a $1.75-million state loan — is "entirely inadequate" and its "continued use may not be possible."

The 2,200-passenger cruise ship docked at the new pier for the first time June 14.

Since then Capt. L. S. Fredgren master of the "Big White Steamer," has reported docking difficulty because of excessive surge.

The captain earlier advised Charley Stillwell, president of MGRS Inc., operators of the vessel he would have to anchor in Avalon Bay to avoid serious damage to the ship and docking facility. Fredgren said the Long Beach based engineering firm of Ocean Science and Engineering "must bear the responsibility."

However, Roy Roberts, West Coast Division manager of the firm, denied responsibility.

"OUR DESIGN recommendations were not used for reasons we know not," Roberts said.

The firm was retained to do a study of surge and wave patterns in Avalon Bay to determine what, if any, effect wave action might have on the steamer at the then proposed docking facility on the Cabrillo Mole.

Stillwell and Capt. Fredgren claimed Jan. 20, 1967, the docking facility would create an "impossible situation." They predicted that if a santana storm occurred it would be impossible to dock without serious damage to both the steamer and the pier.

AT THE TIME Ocean Science and Engineering conducted their studies, a santana did develop over a weekend. However, the company had removed its submerged measuring devices to avoid damage by the fleet of weekend pleasure yachts.

During construction of the new pier, Stillwell and others urged the old steamer pier — used to dock the Catalina for more than 40 years — not be torn down until the new facility was tested and proven.

However, Avalon City Council, eyeing additional revenue generated by mooring fees for boats in the old pier area, ordered the steamer pier removed, creating about 90 additional yacht moorings.

PASSENGERS on the SS Catalina who anticipated a four-hour visit in Avalon last Monday were delayed more than two hours because the ship was unable to dock on schedule.

Capt. Fredgren said he was forced to wait until waves created by passing of Navy ships, including the battleship New Jersey, subsided.

MGRS said some passengers demanded a refund on their tickets.

Stillwell said during the first week of operation he had to purchase $2,000 worth of mooring lines to replace those snapped by surge action.

Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, chairman of the State Joint Auditing Committee, expressed concern Friday over Avalon's ability to meet its loan commitment.

"THE CITY charges each passenger 50 cents per round trip to use the new berth. If the steamer cannot use it, the city may have difficulty raising funds to meet the interest and principal payments on their state loan," he said.

Capt. Fredgren said, "The most critical problem

Alioto--Dissent, Yes; Student Violence, No

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto told a Long Beach audience Friday he would entertain no pleas of amnesty from campus troublemakers.

Speaking to the Third Friday Forum at Lakewood Country Club, Alioto said one such campus disrupter asked him for amnesty, but he replied, "You wanted to be a hero. I wouldn't deprive you of the opportunity."

"Did Patrick Henry say, 'Give me liberty or give me amnesty?'"

Alioto, considered a leading prospective candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor next year, stressed his belief dissent in universities should be cherished, but once the dissenter throws a rock, enforcement of law should immediately become the responsibility of professionals — the mayor of a city or its chief of police, not campus administrators.

CAMPUS DISRUPTERS, he said, can be easily isolated, arrested and prosecuted. They are not Communists, but "our children," said Alioto.

He said there is no "silent majority" on campus, contending the majority is involved in the argument against shortcomings in the educational system, arguments in which, "for the most part, they are right."

Except for the few radicals, the voice from the so-called silent majority on campus, said Alioto, "is talking sense."

"There is more revolutionary juice in the Constitution," said Alioto, "than in all the writings of Che Guevara or Chairman Mao. And so — dissent, yes, but violence, never. We will negotiate reform."

ALIOTO CHARGED

Gov. Reagan has shown no interest at all in isolating radicalism from legitimate student complaints and that his administration has been marked by "anti-intellectual warfare."

Without specifying a preference for age 19 or 18, the Mayor said it is important the voting age barrier of 21 be revised downward.

Alioto expressed no fear in response to a questioner who pointed out Gov. Reagan's current poll popularity. The Mayor said Reagan's popularity was at a low after the Miami Republican convention and could change again in the year and a half until the 1970 election.

People have recognized, he said, that Reagan has not been able to keep his promise to end campus problems or to end the "horrible inequity" of the tax system with its "great deal of favoritism to large corporations."

HE URGED that Democrats make it very clear Democrats do not fear law enforcement so long as there is no constitutional infringement. Enforcement, he said, requires orthodox means of arrest, not punishment by police, continued professionalization of police departments and "an unending struggle against social evils — bad housing, inferior education and inferior neighborhoods."

Among the guests at the Forum session was Congressman Richard T. Hanna, D-Fullerton, a prospective candidate for U.S. Senate in 1970.

Marine Killed

A Tustin Marine, previously reported missing in action, Friday was listed by the Defense Department as killed in Vietnam combat.

He was Sgt. Christy A. Peebler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Gerald B. Peebler of 15582 S. B. St.

BY SIERRA CLUB

City's S.F. Bay Stance Assailed

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Councilmen have been asked by the Sierra Club's Long Beach group to rescind their earlier action in "opposing legislation aimed at preserving San Francisco Bay."

The council voted to oppose Senate Bills 347 and 839 on the basis they posed a threat to home-rule by cities. Councilmen had been asked to do so by the city of Emeryville.

"We feel the council, after a more thorough exploration of the facts may at least wish to take a position on a matter of such importance outside its jurisdiction," wrote Bruce Collier, group chairman.

"AT STAKE IS AN ENVIRONMENTAL struggle of massive importance to the San Francisco Bay area," Collier wrote. "Uncoordinated, destructive fill and development are progressively ruining San Francisco Bay."

Collier noted Long Beach has made "significant strides" in improving conditions locally, and said it seems "unwise" the city would support a position which is "actively leading the destruction of another region's bay and shoreline."

The council also received a follow-up letter from Mayor Donald J. Nearby of Emeryville, urging the city to contact legislators and urge them to vote against Senate Bills 347 and 839, and a related Assembly Bill No. 2057.

County Plans Appeal for Hospital Grants

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

The Board of Supervisors will make plans Tuesday to seek legislation to allow the county to borrow low-interest federal money for a $650,000 enlargement project at Long Beach General Hospital.

The measure also would permit three per cent loans for other county hospitals.

Among them is $1,278,000 for Rancho Los Amigos in Downey, and $212,000 for Harbor General Hospital in Torrance.

NEW FEDERAL laws make it possible to borrow funds for 90 per cent of the construction costs, but it is questionable, however, if the county can get any of this money.

Chief administrative officer L. S. Hollinger said borrowing U.S. government money for hospital construction apparently is barred by charter restrictions and state law.

HE SAID a measure can be drawn permitting the county to sweep past both obstacles.

Under Presidents Johnson, and Kennedy, the federal government assisted hospital construction and modernization with direct grants.

Near-term county improvements at Long Beach General involve mostly a surgery addition. Hollinger proposed including $653,500 for this in the 1969-70 budget.

Work in prospect at Rancho ranges from a $6,500 recommendation for an evaluation and training building to $1,250,000 for a stroke rehabilitation center.

Ousted Publicist to Face Hearing for Grand Theft

The ousted general manager of Long Beach Promotions Inc. will face preliminary hearing on a grand theft charge in Municipal Court July 31.

John Dickson, 54, was arraigned on the charge Friday.

He was fired June 13 after a routine audit revealed "discrepancies" in fund expenditures for the nonprofit corporation.

Dickson's attorney, Albert C.S. Ramsey, requested the July date to allow his client time to enter the hospital for possible surgery next week.

DICKSON SAID HE IS suffering from a non-malignant goiter condition.

"I'm not guilty of a thing," Dickson said Friday. "Everything I have done has been okayed by the board."

"My efforts and expenditures have been 100 per cent for Long Beach," he said.

"I admit I'm not an accountant or bookkeeper. I'm a creative person. I go out and get the job done."

Rams Star to Court for Rampage in Park

Rams linehacker Myron J. Pottios, 30, jailed following an impromptu "scrimmage" with four police officers at Recreation Park, will be arraigned Tuesday in Long Beach Municipal Court on charges of drunkenness and disturbing the peace.

The 240-pound football star, who stands 6-foot-2, was jailed Thursday after reports of a "madman" running through the whole place beating everybody up" were received from teen-agers at the park.

Police said one youngster in a gathering of about 600 teen-agers reported hitting Pottios, a Los Alamitos resident, with a soft-drink bottle.

"He didn't even blink," the unmoved youth told officers after describing how the bottle shattered on the grid star's head.

Arraign Shore Wife on Murder Charge

A Belmont Shore woman accused of gunning down her common-law husband will face arraignment on a murder charge July 3 in Long Beach Superior Court.

Mrs. Barbara Nyland, 42, charged with shooting her husband three times after an argument in a tavern parking lot on Ocean Boulevard June 6, had her preliminary hearing Friday in Municipal Court.

Jack Nyland, 46, a plumbing contractor of 283 Park Ave., died on the way to the hospital.

At Friday's hearing, witness Eduardo Garcia-Wilkes, 34, told of seeing the couple in the parking lot as he entered the bar.

He said he emerged two minutes later, heard gunfire, ducked, and then saw Mrs. Nyland walk to her fallen husband near the boulevard center divider.

She took aim and fired, the witness said.

Dep. Dist. Atty. D. J. Bozanich called only one other witness — a Long Beach police sergeant who identified the victim.

Mrs. Nyland, represented by Dep. Public Defender Thomas Beauvett, will remain in city jail pending her Superior Court arraignment.

Municipal Court Judge Kenneth Sutherland authorized her transfer from county jail at the request of Police Sgt. David Bauer, who said she needed to be available for conferences on pending civil litigation.

MAYOR SUGGESTS JULY 4TH BELLS

Long Beach residents were urged Friday by Mayor Edwin W. Wade to observe Independence Day by ringing bells at 11 a.m. and displaying the flag.

In proclaiming July 4 as "Let Freedom Ring Day" in Long Beach, Mayor Wade noted it called attention to "democracy's greatest proclamation, the Declaration of Independence."

The approval of the declaration 193 years ago was associated with the ringing of the famous Liberty Bell in Philadelphia, the mayor said.

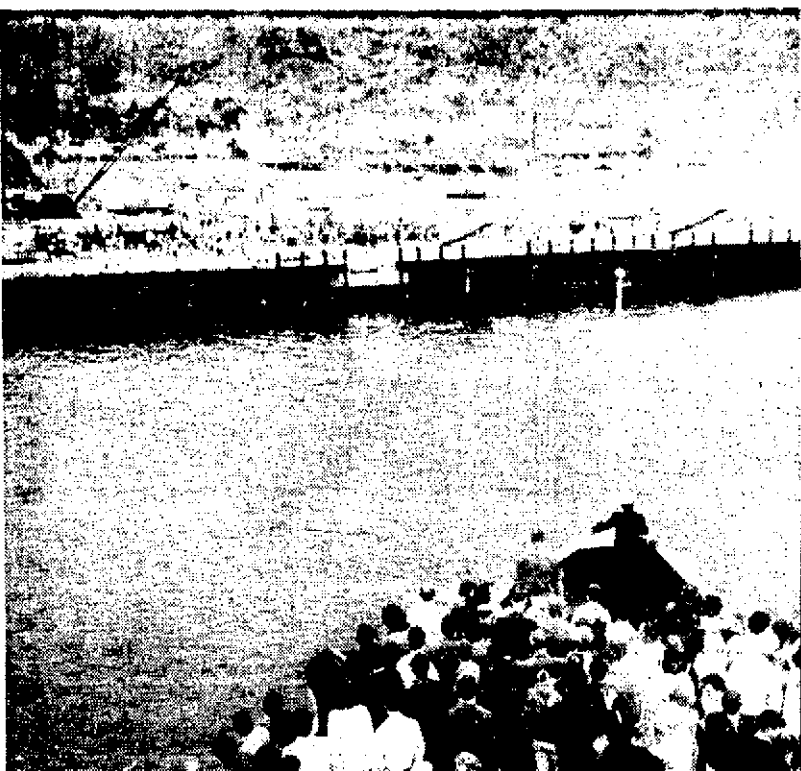

He urged the ringing of bells and display of the flag "in a spirit of thanksgiving to a kindly providence for the blessings of freedom," as well as an "outward expression of their patriotism."

FEAR DAMAGE TO SHIP

By JACK O. BALDWIN
Maritime Editor

Operators of the SS Catalina charged Friday the new steamer pier in Avalon — built under a $1.75-million state loan — is "entirely inadequate" and its "continued use may not be possible."

The 2,200-passenger cruise ship docked at the new pier for the first time June 14.

Since then Capt. L. S. Fredgren master of the "Big White Steamer," has reported docking difficulty because of excessive surge.

The captain earlier advised Charley Stillwell, president of MGRS Inc., operators of the vessel he would have to anchor in Avalon Bay to avoid serious damage to the ship and docking facility. Fredgren said the Long Beach based engineering firm of Ocean Science and Engineering "must bear the responsibility."

However, Roy Roberts, West Coast Division manager of the firm, denied responsibility.

"OUR DESIGN recommendations were not used for reasons we know not," Roberts said.

The firm was retained to do a study of surge and wave patterns in Avalon Bay to determine what, if any, effect wave action might have on the steamer at the then proposed docking facility on the Cabrillo Mole.

Stillwell and Capt. Fredgren claimed Jan. 20, 1967, the docking facility would create an "impossible situation." They predicted that if a santana storm occurred it would be impossible to dock without serious damage to both the steamer and the pier.

AT THE TIME Ocean Science and Engineering conducted their studies, a santana did develop over a weekend. However, the company had removed its submerged measuring devices to avoid damage by the fleet of weekend pleasure yachts.

During construction of the new pier, Stillwell and others urged the old steamer pier — used to dock the Catalina for more than 40 years — not be torn down until the new facility was tested and proven.

However, Avalon City Council, eyeing additional revenue generated by mooring fees for boats in the old pier area, ordered the steamer pier removed, creating about 90 additional yacht moorings.

PASSENGERS on the SS Catalina who anticipated a four-hour visit in Avalon last Monday were delayed more than two hours because the ship was unable to dock on schedule.

Capt. Fredgren said he was forced to wait until waves created by passing of Navy ships, including the battleship New Jersey, subsided.

MGRS said some passengers demanded a refund on their tickets.

Stillwell said during the first week of operation he had to purchase $2,000 worth of mooring lines to replace those snapped by surge action.

Assemblyman Vincent Thomas, D-San Pedro, chairman of the State Joint Auditing Committee, expressed concern Friday over Avalon's ability to meet its loan commitment.

"THE CITY charges each passenger 50 cents per round trip to use the new berth. If the steamer cannot use it, the city may have difficulty raising funds to meet the interest and principal payments on their state loan," he said.

Capt. Fredgren said, "The most critical problem

Alioto--Dissent, Yes; Student Violence, No

By BOB HOUSER
Political Editor

San Francisco Mayor Joseph L. Alioto told a Long Beach audience Friday he would entertain no pleas of amnesty from campus troublemakers.

Speaking to the Third Friday Forum at Lake-wood Country Club, Alioto said one such campus disrupter asked him for amnesty, but he replied, "You wanted to be a hero. I wouldn't deprive you of the opportunity."

"Did Patrick Henry say, 'Give me liberty or give me amnesty?'"

Alioto, considered a leading prospective candidate for the Democratic nomination for governor next year, stressed his belief dissent in universities should be cherished, but once the dissenter throws a rock, enforcement of law should immediately become the responsibility of professionals — the mayor of a city or its chief of police, not campus administrators.

CAMPUS DISRUPTERS, he said, can be easily isolated, arrested and prosecuted. They are not Communists, but "our children," said Alioto.

Except for the few radicals, the voice from the so-called silent majority on campus, said Alioto, "is talking sense."

"There is more revolutionary juice in the Constitution," said Alioto, "than in all the writings of Che Guevara or Chairman Mao. And so — dissent, yes, but violence, never. We will negotiate reform."

Student Leaders Blast Lawyers at Bar Dinner

By WALT MURRAY
Staff Writer

"The so-called silent majority, that so many of you put your faith in, are the most useless bunch of jackasses on campus," a student leader told the Long Beach Bar Association dinner meeting Friday night.

Rex Gay, former student body president at California State College at Long Beach, said the "silent majority" was usually apathetic but reacted emotionally when stirred.

"Campus problems are unbelievably complex," Gay said. "The end of the problems is not even close in sight."

One of the five members of a student panel who spoke at Virginia Country Club, Gay said the primary campus problem was institutional racism.

All panelists were critical of their lawyer audience. "The money that bought these dinners could better be spent on Chicano grape strikers in Delano," said Tom Blackburn, a leader of the Students for a Democratic Society at CSLB.

"Yes, there's going to be serious problems at Cal-State Long Beach," Blackburn said. "People there are getting fed up with boring lectures, a grading system set up like the earning system and a whole structure that trains them to be robots."

"And now, the people who combat these absurdities are being investigated as subversives by Congress," he said.

Dana Rohrabacher, a leader of the famous Young Americans for Freedom, charged the 100 lawyers present were mostly "in the same bag as SDS."

He blasted restraints such as professional requirements to practice law, saying, "I should be able to practice law without being OK'd by you first—the only approval I should need is that of my client."

Rohrabacher, who classifies himself as a libertarian, said that "I should have the right to run my life as I see fit as long as I don't use force on others."

He charged that the lawyers—"just like SDS"—want to forcibly superimpose their values on him "and on the campus."

City's S.F. Bay Stance Assailed

By DON BRACKENBURY
Staff Writer

Councilmen have been asked by the Sierra Club's Long Beach group to rescind their earlier action in "opposing legislation aimed at preserving San Francisco Bay."

The council voted to oppose Senate Bills 347 and 839 on the basis they posed a threat to home-rule by cities. Councilmen had been asked to do so by the city of Emeryville.

"We feel the council, after a more thorough exploration of the facts may at least not wish to take a position on a matter of such importance outside its jurisdiction," wrote Bruce Collier, group chairman.

"AT STAKE IS AN ENVIRONMENTAL struggle of massive importance to the San Francisco Bay area," Collier wrote. "Uncoordinated, destructive fill and development are progressively ruining San Francisco Bay."

Collier noted Long Beach has made "significant strides" in improving conditions locally, and said it seems "unwise" the city would support a position which is "actively leading the destruction of another region's bay and shoreline."

The council also received a follow-up letter from Mayor Donald J. Nearby of Emeryville, urging the city to contact legislators and urge them to vote against Senate Bills 347 and 839, and a related Assembly Bill No. 2057.

County Plans Appeal for Hospital Grants

By BILL MAYER
From Our L.A. Bureau

The Board of Supervisors will make plans Tuesday to seek legislation to allow the county to borrow low-interest federal money for a $650,000 enlargement project at Long Beach General Hospital.

The measure also would permit three per cent loans for other county hospitals.

Among them is $1,278,000 for Rancho Los Amigos in Downey, and $212,000 for Harbor General Hospital in Torrance.

NEW FEDERAL laws make it possible to borrow funds for 90 per cent of the construction costs, but it is questionable, however, if the county can get any of this money.

Chief administrative officer L. S. Hollinger said borrowing U.S. government money for hospital construction apparently is barred by charter restrictions and state law.

HE SAID a measure can be drawn permitting the county to sweep past both obstacles.

Under Presidents Johnson and Kennedy, the federal government assisted hospital construction and modernization with direct grants.

Near-term county improvements at Long Beach General involve mostly a surgery addition. Hollinger proposed including $653,500 for this in the 1969-70 budget.

Work in prospect at Rancho ranges from a $6,500 recommendation for an evaluation and training building to $1,250,000 for a stroke rehabilitation center.

Ousted Publicist to Face Hearing for Grand Theft

The ousted general manager of Long Beach Promotions Inc. will face preliminary hearing on a grand theft charge in Municipal Court July 31.

John Dickson, 54, was arraigned on the charge Friday.

He was fired June 13 after a routine audit revealed "discrepancies" in fund expenditures for the nonprofit corporation.

Dickson's attorney, Albert C.S. Ramsey, requested the July date to allow his client time to enter the hospital for possible surgery next week.

Hot Air and Liberty Belle Send Balloon Up at Anaheim

By BOB SANDERS

"What time does the balloon go up?" was no "Hey, Rube" question around Anaheim Stadium last week.

The balloon — 40 feet in diameter and 60 feet high — went up and down, up and down, a couple of dozen more times.

Besides making spectators dizzy, it was a preview of one of the big attractions of Tommy Walker's annual "Glorious, Old Fashioned Fourth of July Spectacular" which will be held in the stadium (you guessed it) July 4.

The owner of the balloon, George Stokes, who doubles as Walker's public relations man, arrived about an hour ahead of time to spread the huge, 30,000-square-foot nylon "airship" on the infield preparatory to pumping hot air into it.

A BALLOON this size

takes about as much hot air to fill as the opening day of a political convention.

The propane burner that supplies the gas sticks up out of the tiny gondola of the balloon. To start pumping air, Stokes turned the gondola on its side and, while a half dozen assistants held out the nylon walls, he fired it up.

The balloon began to swell. With the burner sounding like a huge welding torch gone mad, the red and white striped balloon finally filled and pulled the gondola upright.

A comely, 18-year-old California Western University coed, Melody White, this year's "Miss Liberty Bell" to reign at the Walker festivities, climbed in the gondola to provide 110 pounds of well-proportioned ballast.

It wasn't enough. I volunteered my weight, but the balloon was crowded.

With Stokes giving her hand signals from the ground, Miss White alternately pushed and released the control on the burner, pouring air into the balloon.

It swung gracefully up into the air on the end of a long rope tether. On the other end was Stokes, valiantly pulling to keep the promotional banner turned toward the photographers. Sometimes he succeeded.

My turn finally came. I climbed in the gondola with the grace of a lame hippopotamus.

Miss Liberty Bell pressed the lever and we were away, a la Phineas Fogg but without the champagne on a flight around the world in 80 days — or less.

It was a sensation. THERE I WAS, 50 feet above the ground, swaying under a huge bag of hot air, with an 18-year-old beauty queen at my side, and no one around to bother us.

I had a question I wanted to whisper into Miss White's ear but every time I opened my mouth she pressed the propane lever, filling the balloon with more hot air and the gondola with raucous sound.

It was only after we had become earthbound again I managed to pop the question.

As I climbed out, I leaned close to Miss Liberty Bell and whispered softly:

"What time does the balloon go up?"

Training Center Opens Campaign for Funds

A mailman's gift of $500 to the Long Beach Opportunities Industrialization Center has kicked off a fund-raising drive for the organization, which provides "pre-vocational" training for the unemployed.

Rev. Leon Sullivan, Baptist minister who founded the Opportunities Industrialization Center (OIC) program in 1963, was to officially open the fund drive at a luncheon today at the center, 1325 Alamos Ave., and was to receive the keys to the City of Long Beach from Mayor Edwin W. Wade.

He will also address a public meeting tonight at 8 in the Poly High School Auditorium on "The You in Human Relations."

Mailman Michael Mangan, 3521 Charlemagne Ave., surprised OIC workers June 16 when he presented them with a $500 check — the largest contribution by an individual yet donated to the local organization.

"I FEEL that if this country is ever going to get over its problems, people are going to have to take an interest," said Mangan, a 23-year-old bachelor.

"People at that center do things," he said. "I was never that committed — I'd rather play golf. But I had the money, so I gave it."

The training organization, which has 77 chapters operating throughout the country, provides "counseling, training and job placement for the hard-core unemployed," according to Percy Anderson, Long Beach executive director.

Huntington Beach Man Convicted of Murder

A Huntington Beach man was found guilty Friday of murdering a woman motorist and has been sentenced to state prison.

Henry Lopez Sianez, 25, of 312 Clay St. was ordered to serve five years to life for the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Hester Markee, 55, after a traffic mishap Jan. 16.

SIANEX also was sentenced to a term of 1-10 years for grand theft of a car he had stolen from a woman police had first arrested for Mrs. Markee's murder.

Shortly after Mrs. Markee's body was found on Adams Avenue police nabbed Miss Margaret Dinger and her companion, Norman Coatsney. Both were freed before their scheduled arraignment.

AUTOGRAPHER
Glen W. Thomas of Newport Beach, noted artist-illustrator who did 12 scenes of historic Orange County into a "County Cameos" portfolio for the Irvine Co., will autograph them today and Sunday at Newport Center. His work was a prelude to Irvine Ranch open-house tours, which conclude Sunday.

Cycle Parts Stolen

Motorcycle parts valued at $975 were taken from the home of Wayne Hotell, 334 Redondo Ave., when thieves forced open a garage door to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.

Mayfair Coed Corral's Best Honors

Rochelle L. Klein, Lake-Wood's Mayfair High School top honor student, has earned scholarship and scholastic honors galore, but her greatest pride is capturing the only "firsts" won by a Mayfair student in the school's 12-year history.

The cherished firsts for the pretty, 16-year-old graduating senior are the National Honor Society Scholarship of $2,000 and the National Merit Scholarship, worth $1,000 in cash to a school of her choice.

DAUGHTER of Rabbi and Mrs. Bert Klein, 10748 E. Ashworth St., Cerritos, Rochelle has the highest grade point average in her class, is winner of the school's English department award, a state-wide Savings and Loan League Scholarship, and University of California at Berkeley Alumni Scholarship.

She also is a permanent member of the National Honor Society, which requires membership for at least five out of six semesters while attending high school.

SHE SERVED as treasurer of both the Student Political and Educational Activities Committee and Thespians, recording secretary of Safad B'nai B'rith Girls, and a member of the Literary magazine staff.

Rochelle has been accepted in an honors course at UC Berkeley, where she will major in sociology to prepare for a career in social work. Already, she is involved in social work as a tutor of reading for elementary students at the Neighborhood Youth Center in North Long Beach.

One of her main hobbies is playing the piano and singing. She is a member of the Mayfair High School Choir, a 60-

Art Festival Awards Eleven Scholarships

Eleven students applied this year for Festival of Arts scholarships, and all were so promising they were awarded financial aid.

Jesse Riddle, former mayor of Laguna Beach, chairman of the Festival of Arts scholarship committee, said all submitted samples of their work for evaluation by a jury panel of artists, and then were interviewed by his committee.

The awards: Donna Blumrock, $500; Glenn Daniels, $400; James Warren and Andy Chambers, each $450; Elizabeth Blane, Arthur Brewer, Janet Harvey, Vicki Knapp, Karen Lankenugel, Laurie McPherson, each $300; and Eddy Larson, $250.

City Gives SP Permit to Build New Track

Southern Pacific Co. has been granted a revocable permit by the Long Beach City Council to construct a spur track across the alley just north of Ninth Street between Caspian and Harbor Avenues. The track, which had been approved by the Harbor Department and Bureau of Franchises, will serve new polymer storage facilities of Mobil Oil Corp.

CENTURY FREEWAY HEARING SCHEDULED

A public hearing to discuss design proposals for Century Freeway (Interstate Route 105) through Paramount and South Gate will be held at Paramount Junior High School, 14708 S. Paramount Blvd., at 7:30 p.m. Tuesday.

The State Division of Highways will present the results of design studies and call upon local government agencies, civic organizations and individuals to express their views. A strong protest is expected from a group of Lynwood citizens who oppose the proposed routing. Hearing records will remain open 10 days, during which time the public may submit statements and additional opinions to state engineers.

All data collected will be reviewed by the Division of Highways and implemented as much as possible into the final design, which will then be presented to the cities involved for approval, Highway Commission officials said.

Bellflower Parking Spurs Development

Bellflower's central core area, million-dollar, off-street parking project, scheduled for completion by mid-July, is serving as a springboard for city-wide commercial development.

Stephen Santangelo of Santangelo Development Co., South Gate, announced Friday a $1 million-plus shopping center on a five-acre plot at the southeast corner of Bellflower and Alondra boulevards.

The project will include a 25,000-square-foot Safeway store and a 20,000-square-foot retail outlet for Thrifty Drugs. Both will be built by the respective operators.

In addition, a modernized service station will be constructed in the center, along with office facilities for Laurende Finance Co., a structure for Arby's International Roast Beef Restaurant, and possibly five "satellite" stores.

ALTHOUGH city requirements call for the developers to provide a minimum of 182 off-street vehicle parking spaces, James Santangelo, who has been named project coordinator, said 227 spaces will be available with room for free-moving traffic.

Already under construction at the southeast corner of Bellflower Boulevard and Flower Street is a new structure for Crocker-Citizens National Bank.

Ground was broken last month for a structure for a K-Mart and K-Roods on one of the city's few remaining undeveloped properties, on Rosecrans Avenue at McNab Avenue.

In addition to the two major outlets, facilities will be built on the former dairy site for a series of smaller stores. Developers are Coogan & Walters of Houston, Tex.

Bellflower's tax assessment off-street parking project in the central core area of the city stretches four blocks, from Flower Street on the south to Mayne Street on the north. In addition, the city had provided two additional off-street parking lots in the business district south of Artesia Freeway.

Home Burglary

Pass-key burglars stole clothing and household items valued at $601, and $60 in cash, Tomma J. Murphy, 1623 Sherman Place, reported to police Thursday.

By BOB SANDERS

"What time does the balloon go up?" was no "Hey, Rube" question around Anaheim Stadium last week.

The balloon — 40 feet in diameter and 60 feet high — went up and down, up and down, a couple of dozen more times.

Besides making spectators dizzy, it was a preview of one of the big attractions of Tommy Walker's annual "Glorious, Old Fashioned Fourth of July Spectacular" which will be held in the stadium (you guessed it) July 4.

The owner of the balloon, George Stokes, who doubles as Walker's public relations man, arrived about an hour ahead of time to spread the huge, 30,000-square-foot nylon "airship" on the infield preparatory to pumping hot air into it.

takes about as much hot air to fill as the opening day of a political convention.

The propane burner that supplies the gas sticks up out of the tiny gondola of the balloon. To start pumping air, Stokes turned the gondola on its side and, while a half dozen assistants held out the nylon walls, he fired it up.

The balloon began to swell. With the burner sounding like a huge welding torch gone mad, the red and white striped balloon finally filled and pulled the gondola upright.

A comely, 18-year-old California Western University coed, Melody White, this year's "Miss Liberty Bell" to reign at the Walker festivities, climbed in the gondola to provide 110 pounds of well-proportioned ballast.

It wasn't enough.

I volunteered my weight, but the balloon was crowded.

I wasn't too disappointed because I figured Miss White needed a little more experience — at operating the propane control before taking a passenger.

With Stokes giving her hand signals from the ground, Miss White alternately pushed and released the control on the burner, pouring air into the balloon.

It swung gracefully up into the air on the end of a long rope tether. On the other end was Stokes, valiantly pulling to keep the promotional banner turned toward the photographers. Sometimes he succeeded.

My turn finally came. I climbed in the gondola with the grace of a lame hippopotamus.

Miss Liberty Bell pressed the lever and we were away, a la Phineas Fogg but without the champagne on a flight around the world in 80 days — or less.

me taking one of him as the balloon floated upward over the stadium, providing a most unusual view of the pitcher's mound, 50 long feet below.

It was a sensation.

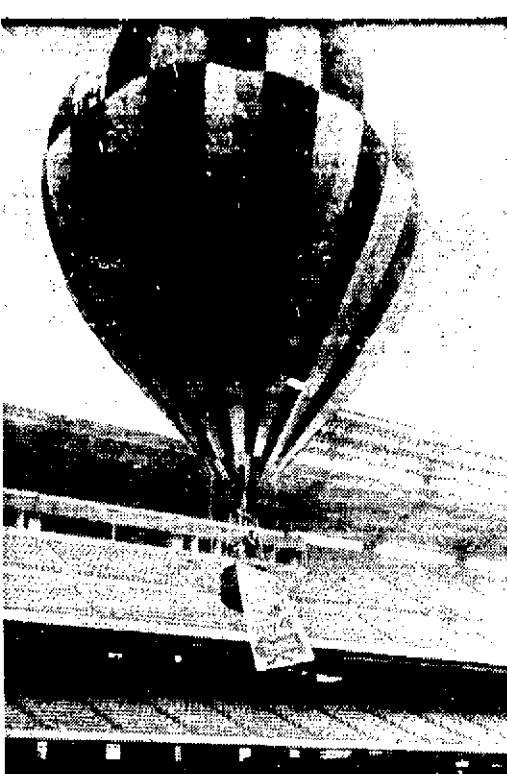

THERE I WAS, 50 feet above the ground, swaying under a huge bag of hot air, with an 18-year-old beauty queen at my side, and no one around to bother us.

I had a question I wanted to whisper into Miss White's ear but every time I opened my mouth she pressed the propane lever, filling the balloon with more hot air and the gondola with raucous sound.

It was only after we had become earthbound again I managed to pop the question.

As I climbed out, I leaned close to Miss Liberty Bell and whispered softly:

"What time does the balloon go up?"

Training Center Opens Campaign for Funds

A mailman's gift of $500 to the Long Beach Opportunities Industrialization Center has kicked off a fund-raising drive for the organization, which provides "pre-vocational" training for the unemployed.

Rev. Leon Sullivan, Baptist minister who founded the Opportunities Industrialization Center (OIC) program in 1963, was to officially open the fund drive at a luncheon today at the center, 1325 Alameda Ave., and was to receive the keys to the City of Long Beach from Mayor Edwin W. Wade.

He will also address a public meeting tonight at 8 in the Poly High School Auditorium on "The You in Human Relations."

Mailman Michael Mangano, 3521 Charlemagne Ave., surprised OIC workers June 16 when he presented them with a $500 check — the largest contribution by an individual yet donated to the local organization.

"I FEEL that if this country is ever going to get over its problems, people are going to have to take an interest," said Mangano, a 23-year-old bachelor.

"People at that center do things," he said. "I was never that committed — I'd rather play golf. But I had the money, so I gave it."

The training organization, which has 77 chapters operating throughout the country, provides "counseling, training and job placement for the hard-core unemployed," according to Percy Anderson, Long Beach executive director.

Huntington Beach Man Convicted of Murder

A Huntington Beach man was found guilty Friday of murdering a woman motorist and has been sentenced to state prison.

Henry Lopez Sianez, 25, of 312 Clay St. was ordered to serve five years to life for the fatal stabbing of Mrs. Hester Markee, 55, after a traffic mishap Jan. 16.

SIANEX also was sentenced to a term of 1-10 years for grand theft of a car he had stolen from a woman police had first arrested for Mrs. Markee's murder.

Shortly after Mrs. Markee's body was found on Adams Avenue, police nabbed Miss Margaret Dinger and her companion, Norman Cooney. Both were freed before their scheduled arraignment after police arrested Sianez.

Called to trial before Judge Howard Cameron in Santa Ana Superior Court, Sianez heard a mass of evidence against him, then offered no defense. Judge Cameron ordered both prison terms be served consecutively.

AUTOGRAPHER

Glen W. Thomas of Newport Beach, noted artist-illustrator who did 12 scenes of historic Orange County into a "County Canyons" portfolio for the Irvine Co., will autograph them today and Sunday at Newport Center. His work was a prelude to Irvine Ranch open house tours, which conclude Sunday.

William A. Harrington Mass Today

Requiem Mass will be celebrated at 10 a.m. today in St. Anthony's Church for William A. Harrington, three-time president of the Long Beach Harbor Commission.

Harrington, 76, died Monday when he suffered an apparent heart attack while welcoming the arrival of a Japanese ship at Pier F.

The Harrington family suggests memorial contributions to the St. Mary's Hospital Building Fund.

Rock-Roll Concert Set This Weekend

A four-hour rock 'n' roll concert will be held at Queen's Park today and Sunday to herald the end of the school year.

The concert, entitled "A Blue Wheel," will be held from 2 to 6 p.m. both days.

Queen's Park, the Southland's only admission-free amusement park, features 30 thrill rides, two arcades and a wide variety of games.

Featured at the rock concert will be a group calling itself "The Outlaw Blues."

Adding to the gloomy situation was a prediction by Stillwell:

"I predict that by late September or early October, after the first real rough northeasterly or northwesterly storm, there won't be any Cabrillo Moie. It will simply disappear," he said.

THE ISLAND community of Avalon, heavily dependent upon the summer tourist trade has been buffeted by trouble involving the SS Catalina for more than a year.

During 1968 the ship — which has carried more passengers than any other vessel in Southern California history — rode out the season at anchor in Los Angeles Harbor — victim of a labor dispute. Avalon merchants labeled the 1968 tourist season a "financial catastrophe."

Support from some Avalon councilmen to relocate the steamer pier caused the community's political pot to boil over.

The new facility, the state loan and removal of the old steamer pier became issues in a movement that resulted in the recall of three members of the council — one of

Planners Deny Request for Setback Zone

A request that the present 20-foot setback line along Second Street between Junipero and Kennebec avenues be changed to 12 feet has been denied by the Long Beach Planning Commission.

Property owners, including a number of own-your-own apartment owners, objected to the plan, contending it would be "detrimental to the beauty and future economic value of the neighborhood."

The change in setback was requested by William H. Niver, who recently purchased property at 2136 E. Second St., with several other persons.

He also applied for a special permit to construct a six-unit apartment within 12 feet of the property line — apparently in the event the change in setback was turned down. Commissioners also denied this permit.

Cycle Parts Stolen

Motorcycle parts valued at $975 were taken from the home of Wayne Hotell, 334 Redondo Ave., when thieves forced open a garage door to gain entry, Long Beach police said Friday.
